Rockefellers Announce Divorce Plan

Separation May Affect Political Life

COMBINED AP & UPI

NEW YORK — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his wife have parted in the first step toward a divorce to end 31 years of marriage.

The decision to dissolve the union of the Philadelphia heiress and the wealthy, potential Republican presidential candidate was announced last night in a terse statement issued on behalf of both.

A spokesman said the agreement to separate was "amicable."

A political aide to the governor said the divorce would "absolutely not" affect Rockefeller's plans to run for re-election next year.

Although Rockefeller has not publicly acknowledged it, he is considered a strong possibility for the 1964 GOP nomination for president.

LEGAL SEPARATION

The terse announcement of the separation and divorce plans was issued from the Rockefeller family offices in Rockefeller Plaza and read:

"It was announced today that Governor and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller have arrived at an agreement of legal separation.

"It is anticipated that the terms of the agreement will be incorporated into a subsequent decree of divorce.

"Gov. and Mrs. Rockefeller were married in 1930. They have five adult children.

"There has been an agreement property settlement and Mrs. Rockefeller will continue to have a New York apartment at 810 Fifth Avenue. Governor Rockefeller will reside at the apartment of his brother, Laurence S. Rockefeller."

GOVERNOR IS 53

The governor is 53 and his wife 54. The couple have three sons and two daughters, all living away from home, and eight grandchildren.

All except Michael, the youngest son, are married. He is in Dutch Guiana with an archeological expedition.

The prospective divorce jolted the Republican Party and complicated its search for a candidate for president in 1964.

The announcement injected new uncertainties into the GOP outlook.

How a divorce may affect the outcome of a national election cannot be measured, but politicians do not regard it as a campaign asset.

No divorced man ever has been elected to the White House. The Democrats twice

Russ Hint Accord On A-Ban Talks

COMBINED AP & UPI

MOSCOW — Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan has indicated the Soviet Union probably will accept the Anglo - American proposal for resumption of nuclear test ban talks at Geneva, diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said Mikoyan dropped the hint last night in conversations with western envoys at a Sudanese Embassy reception.

There was no indication Premier Nikita Khrushchev would agree to the proposal date of Nov. 28 for resumption of the test ban talks.

Western diplomats said that if the Soviets do agree to resume the Geneva talks they saw little hope for an accord in view of the Soviets' stand that a nuclear test ban would be effective only as part of an agreement on total and general disarmament.

A proposal for resumption of talks was made by Britain and the United States in similar notes delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office last Monday.

The note recalled that the talks on banning tests had recessed Sept. 9 by agreement among three members of the atomic club, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, pending completion of the debate in the United Nations on nuclear testing.

The Disarmament Commission of the United Nations adopted a resolution Nov. 8 asking for a report of progress on the talks on nuclear testing, and the Western note followed this up.

The note suggested that the talks begin Nov. 28, but Western powers said they would agree to any other date which would permit preparation of the reply on time. So far as could be learned, Mikoyan did not indicate what date might suit the Soviet Union.

RAYBURN LAID TO REST

Great, Humble Mourn Speaker

BONHAM, Tex. (UPI) —Short, simple funeral services were held today for House Speaker Sam Rayburn before about 1,000 mourners, including President John F. Kennedy, former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, and 150 congressmen and senators.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas, other state officials and most of the Texas legislature were present at the rites for "Mr. Democrat." Millions of other Americans watched the funeral on television.

Rayburn, 79, died Thursday of cancer. He had been a U. S. representative for 48 years, and speaker of the House more than 16 years, longer than any other man.

Rayburn's burial place was a grave beside that of his sister Lucinda (Miss Lu), who was closer to him than any other of his other 10 brothers and sisters. She died in 1956 of cancer, and was buried in the family plot in Willow Wild Cemetery.

H. G. Ball, elder of the Primitive Baptist Church of Tioga, conducted the funeral. He baptized Rayburn in a stock pond in 1957.

The funeral was held in the First Baptist Church because there is no Primitive Baptist Church in Bonham.

Ball delivered a short funeral oration extemporaneously. The Rev. Bernard Braskamp of Washington, chaplain of the House, closed the services with a short prayer.

Primitive Baptists usually have no instrumental music at their services. But an exception was made in this case, and Mrs. J. C. Christian Jr. played organ music throughout the service.

The body of Rayburn, in a bronze coffin of gunmetal gray color, was in front of the pulpit. The casket was banked with white and red flowers.

ATLANTIC TRAGEDY

Raft Girl May Tell Her Story Monday

MIAMI (UPI)—With the suicide of hard-luck skipper Julian Harvey, shock-dazed 11-year-old Terry Jo Duperrault was the only person known alive today to tell of the storm-tossed end of the ketch Bluebelle in the Atlantic last Sunday.

At least by Monday Terry Jo is expected to be sufficiently recovered from the ordeal of four days on a raft to tell the tale of the fiery sinking which apparently claimed five lives and led to air ace Harvey's suicide yesterday.

A Coast Guard inquiry next week awaits the Green Bay, Wis., girl's story. Meanwhile, the Coast Guard went on with its search around the Bahamas for Terry Jo's missing parents, her brother and Harvey's "dream girl" wife.

But there was little hope prominent optometrist Authur Duperrault, his wife and son, Brian, 14, or Harvey's wife, Mary Dene, 34, would be found alive. Rene Duperrault, 7, is known dead.

Harvey, who survived two wars, two other boat sinkings and a jet plane flame-out, ended his life in a Miami motel four days after his rescue apparently in despondency over loss of his wife — reportedly the fifth woman he had married.

The tragedy of the Bluebelle began unfolding Nov. 8 when Harvey and his wife sailed from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., aboard the 60-foot, two-masted yacht for a Bahamas cruise with the Wisconsin family as passengers.

The ketch went down about 11:30 p.m. Sunday, Harvey reported to the Coast Guard before he killed himself. Harvey was rescued at mid-day Monday.

U.N. Presses For Congo Punishment

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) —The United Nation's pushed forward today in a joint investigation with the Congo government to root out and punish the mutinous Congo soldiers who slaughtered 13 Italian airmen.

Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula agreed yesterday to an encirclement and disarmament plan aimed at what the U. N. command called a "fair investigation and stern punishment" involving the 80 Congolese troops at Kindu, in Kivu Province.

Adoula also agreed to cooperate in an investigation to determine whether leftist Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga, political heir to the late Patrice Lumumba, had any thing to do with the slayings.

Adoula agreed to name four members to the joint commission that will seek to apprehend the guilty.

Plane Overdue

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — An Italian Air Force C-119 Flying Boxcar with eight crewmen and two United Nations officials aboard was reported missing today over the Congo on a flight from Pisa, Italy to Leopoldville.

Three Negroes Flee Crowd In Rome

ROME (AP) — Three Negroes —at least one of them American—fled to shelter in a downtown Rome shop today from an angry crowd aroused over the Congo slaying of 13 Italian members of the U.N. Congo force.

Police took the American man and two women from the shop in a police automobile and escorted them to safety.

Huge Rocket Claim Made By Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Red Star claimed today the Soviet Union has rocket warheads equivalent to 100-million tons of TNT, plus rockets that can "lift and deliver any warhead to any points on the globe."

The claims were made by the official military newspaper in an article that denounced Westerners who belittle Soviet rocket capabilities.

The article was published in connection with Soviet Artillery Day tomorrow.

The giant warheads and their number is considerably greater than assumed by American specialists.

The article was apparently intended to answer American statements that the so-called missile gap between the United States and the Soviet Union no longer exists.

American authorities estimate that the Soviet Union has around 30 to 50 intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Blair Is Called Threat To Tiburon Master Plan

Marin County Supervisor J. Walter Blair was pictured by David D. Ring, president of the Reed Union School District trustees, last night as a threat to Tiburon Peninsula's master plan, its schools and its economy.

Ring voiced his opinions at a "town meeting" of the Tiburon Property Owners Assn. He cited as threats to the master plan the proposed Strawberry Tower Apartments and rezoning of Hilarita, of 100 acres behind Bel Aire and of several acres of Del Mar Estates.

Ring said consideration of these rezonings had "conveniently been postponed" until after the Dec. 5 election on whether to recall Blair.

"Up to a year ago," Ring said, "people could expect the master plan to be followed. This is no longer the case. Now San Rafael feels the owner should be free to do what he wants with the land."

Ring quoted Blair as stating he is not interested in signatures on petitions as they represent "pressure groups." He attributed to Blair a statement that the landowner should be considered rather than the local residents.

"The master plan is not immutable but it should be used as a guide. If recall favors Blair, the result is crystal clear," Ring said. "Developers are seeing that the time is ripe to make changes not permitted a year ago. If these developers are successful those that follow will be also. We must deal with the problem now or it will be too late."

Ring said that rezoning would increase the school population, that few school sites are available and these are fully used.

He said it will be necessary to ask more bond money and taxes. Overcrowded classrooms and lower quality of education will result, he predicted.

J. Benton Bostick, spectator, challenged Ring's remarks that the master plan should be a guide. He said the peninsula population has doubled and the master plan cannot meet their needs commercially. He said:

"We shouldn't assume that the development behind Bel Aire is a terrible thing. I remember when the lagoon was considered an awful thing."

Invited guest at the meeting was Pete Behr, candidate opposing Blair in the election.

He reviewed the Mill Valley master plan which he said has successfully maintained the charm of a mountain village.

Behr called the majority on the present board of supervisors a "false economy bloc."

"The inflated budget," he

Jack Frost Brushes Up More Cold

Jack Frost passed through Marin last night, dropping the temperature to a low of 26 in Fairfax and 34 in San Anselmo.

More of the same, with cloudy skies and winds up to 18 miles an hour, were predicted by the weatherman for tomorrow. Snow flurries would fall in the mountains, he said.

Other temperatures recorded throughout the county last night were Tamalpais Valley 38, Ross 41, Alto 42, Sausalito 46 and Kentfield 48.

The weatherman consoled shivering Marin County residents with the information that a nationwide low of 3 degrees was recorded in Anchorage, Alaska.

Bishop Pike Pleads For Church Unity

The divisions separating Christian churches in the United States are "a scandal in the literal meaning of the Greek word and a stumbling block to those whom we would convert," the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike of San Francisco, Episcopal Bishop of California, told the Marin Council of Churches last night.

Pike expressed himself as guest speaker at ecumenical worship service at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

He told the worshippers it was "hard to believe in a Lord of Love and a Prince of Peace . . . in man-made divisions within the church."

He spoke on the subject, "The World Council of Churches and Christian Unity at Home."

"By Life and Work," he said, "we mean churches working together on common tasks, whether they be world relief, social action or strategy studies. While this is not church unity, it does bring people together from different churches on deep levels of concern and helps create an atmosphere favorable toward the Faith and Order side."

The present division of churches in this country creates "waste, duplication and inefficiency," he said. He declared some people feared church unification would create "a super-church and a larger bureaucracy."

"But actually," he added, "it would reduce the number of executives and central personnel in the areas and nationally," who, he said, today "literally trip over each other

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Financial Crisis

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson today described the United Nations as on the verge of death from "financial hemorrhage."

He warned the U.S. cannot alone be expected to save the world body from bankruptcy.

Stevenson laid the financial crisis at the doorstep of the Soviet bloc, France, South Africa and other member nations who are not paying their share of expenses.

Two Die In Crash

MARYSVILLE (AP) — A mother and her daughter died and five persons were injured when a car smashed into a Southern Pacific train at a railroad crossing two miles south of here last night.

Mrs. Mary S. Bynog, 41, of nearby Linda, and Mrs. Gladys Joyce Byrne, 18, of Yuba City, were killed, the Highway Patrol said.

Mrs. Byrne's husband, John, 22, operator of the car; three of Mrs. Bynog's children and Darrell L. Baldwin, 20, a Beale Air Force Base airman, were hospitalized. They were reported in critical condition.

Fire In Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — Fire, which was reported to have started in an elevator shaft, roared through the 27th, 28th and 29th floors of the skyscraper Mercantile National Bank Building today and trapped a 19-year-old elevator operator.

The operator, Joy Buckby, was rescued, terrified but uninjured. The fire burned almost two hours. Damage was heavy, especially to the 28th floor. The building is 35 stories high.

Finn Emergency

HELSINKI (UPI) — The Finnish cabinet meets in emergency session today to consider renewed Russian demands for discussion of alleged "threats to peace" in the Baltic area.

The Finns hoped the discussions could be limited to the question of whether any threat to peace actually exisits, but there had been talk of "joint defense measures" — perhaps including the stationing of Soviet troops on Finnish soil.

Nose Cone Fails

POINT ARGUELLO (UPI) — The United States today attempted to fire a nose cone filled with biological experiments 1,165 miles high and recover it to help determine hazards of space flight. But early indications pointed to a second failure in a week.

An hour and a half after BIOS I was launched, Federal Space Agency officials issued a statement indicating the 85-pound capsule might have fallen far short of waiting recovery ships.

Orbit Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A satellite space platform was fired into orbit today but failed to eject a piggyback Ranger II payload for an intended million-mile round trip into space.

Test officials said this second straight disappointment in the Ranger program probably would delay plans to fire a third Ranger toward a landing on the moon early next year.

Other Life?

LONDON (AP) — Two New York scientists said today they have found evidence of traces of living things in meteorites reaching the earth from outer space.

Dr. George Claus of New York University and Prof. Bartholomew Nagy of Fordham University reported in the scientific magazine Nature they found in certain meteorites organized elements resembling in structure the fossilized remains of microscopic forms of life.

Of five types of "organized structure" which they describe, four are said to be similar to known earth species, but not identical.

Mrs. Kennedy 'Fine'

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy has assured her husband that she's all right, and a top White House spokesman dismissed the first lady's fall from a horse as "a very minor mishap."

Mrs. Kennedy tumbled yesterday when her horse balked at a jump while she was riding with the Piedmont Hunt in Northern Virginia.

Geronimo Valley Hears Zone Plan

The San Geronimo Valley Master Plan Commissee heard an explanation of the proposed new county open area zoning being considered by the Marin County Planning Commission.

David Van Pelt, county principal planner, said it would apply to golf courses and other open area facilities.

A proposal to ban houses in areas now zoned commercial and industrial in San Geronimo Valley also was discussed.

Committee members decided to get the sentiments of the individual groups they represent on the residential restriction and report back to the committee at its next meeting, Dec. 21.

Liquor License Protest Overruled

SACRAMENTO (GNS)— The state department of alcoholic beverage control announced it has overruled protests and will issue an off-sale general liquor license to Safeway Stores, Inc. at 555 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, as of Dec. 28.

The overruled protests had contended the premises were in the immediate vicinity of a church and school.

Ruling In South

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel, its highest member strongly dissenting, ruled yesterday that a suit seeking desegregation of travel facilities in Mississippi should be tried first in state courts.

The majority opinion, held by federal district Judges Claude Clayton and Sidney Mize, both of Mississippi, said the federal court did not have jurisdiction until the plaintiffs had sought remedy in state tribunals.

But Judge Richard T. Rives, Montgomery, Ala., of the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, disagreed and accused Mize and Clayton of exercising "unreasonable delay" in the case.

New Treaty Asked

PANAMA (AP) — The National Assembly has unanimously demanded a new treaty with the United States which would fix date for the U.S. to turn over the waterway to Panama.

The assembly resolution was adopted within 24 hours of the publication of correspondence between Presidents John F. Kennedy and Roberto Chiari on negotiations for a new treaty.

Berliners Barred

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists today barred West Berliners from visiting the graves of their relatives in Red-held cemeteries.

East German officials said no special passes would be issued next Wednesday and Sunday, Wednesday is Germany's Atonement Day, and Sunday is Memorial Day.

'Good Impression'

PARIS (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru arrived here today from the United States and said he had "a very good impression" of President John F. Kennedy.

Nehru, en route to Cairo for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Yugoslav President Tito, stopped over in Paris where he had lunch with government officials.

INFORMAL, GOOD

Church Choir's Music Was Of High Quality

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Director David F. Reed proved last night at the fall concert of the Mill Valley Community Church's Chancel Choir that impressive size and professional vocalists are not the most important factors in producing choral music of high quality.

With only 20 well balanced and disciplined voices trained to immediate responsiveness to his conducting, Reed has formed a musical instrument capable of enchancing all the spiritual values of a church service.

For three reasons, however, the total effect of this concert was very informal despite the predominance of traditional sacred selections. These were that the concert was held in the parish hall, which was filled to capacity; the inclusion of the "bit of fluff" in the form of the contemporary chorale scherzo by Kubik based on the "Listen to the Mocking Bird" tune; and especially the 16th and 17th Century madrigals sung in the deliberately created social atmosphere of a typical practice session.

That the latter, centered around a candlelit table, failed in effect to some extent because they were not sung on the stage, where participants could be seen. Spoken words could not be heard at all.

High points of the evening were the four psalms for mixed chorus, Opus 74, by Edvard Grieg, in which the chorus produced some remarkably fine sustained pianissimo tone in slow tempo, a difficult feat, and the first rate performance of four harpsichord solos by Bernice Usdane.

Her touch was noteworthy both for its success in achieving singing tones and great facility in the execution of the rapid, sparkling embellishments that reveal the instrument to best advantage.

The voices of soprano Jeanne Cummins and mezzo soprano Ethelee Reed formed a pleasing blend in three duets from cantatas by J. S. Bach and Vivaldi.

Also deserving of commendation were the young flutists Mark Usdane and Nancy Sterne, who played in the opening number "Sheep May Safely Graze" by J. S. Bach, piano accompanist Jean Barnard and the three men who sang solo parts in the Grieg psalms—tenor Harry Magill, base-baritone Robert De Haan and baritone John Harding.

Plan Commission Meeting Monday In San Rafael

The San Rafael Planning Commission will hold a special meeting at 10 a.m. Monday to consider four matters, secretary James R. Garrett announced today.

The meeting to be held in the planning department office at the E Street School at Third and E Streets will take up first an application by Custom Builders for architectural approval for enclosure of a porch on San Sylvester's Church on San Pedro Road.

It also will consider granting architectural approval to architect Austin Gibbon for remodeling the facade of an apartment building at Grand and Belle Avenues.

Also to be considered is an amended subdivision map for the property at McCoy and Bret Harte Roads. The commission then will discuss interpretation of architectural approval requirements.

S.P. Claims Big Losses If Santa Fe Wins

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Santa Fe victory in the battle for control of the Western Pacific would cost Southern Pacific from 10 million to 50 million dollars a year, a S.P. official said yesterday.

William G. Peoples, a S.P. vice president gave the loss estimate. He said Southern Pacific now handles 70 per cent of the shipments on points jointly served by S.P. and W.P.

Peoples testified he feared that if Santa Fe won control of W.P.'s lines, shippers would divide their freight evenly between the two big competitors.

S.P. hopes to merge with W.P. and eliminate duplicating facilities. Santa Fe wants to extend its lines into the Pacific Northwest.

B. F. Biaggini, another S.P. vice president, said Santa Fe would divert freight from the Utah way and its present southern route to get revenues from full West Coast to Mid-West runs.

Third Woman Arraigned In Narcotics Case

A Hayward mother, the last of three women accused of helping smuggle dope into San Quentin Prison, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday and released on $1,050 bail.

Marie Frances Hall, 46, arrived at the courthouse yesterday afternoon with attorney Seymour L. Ellison of San Francisco and turned herself into authorities.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas granted her request for a continuance until Nov. 30. Mrs. Hall, mother of a San Quentin inmate, is accused of bringing heroin and marijuana into prison as part of a large dope ring that has been operating since last March.

Mrs. Pauline Herrera, 31, of Los Angeles, believed to be the chief source of the heroin supply that entered prison, is scheduled to appear in Marin court on Nov. 27. She is free on $5,250 bail.

The third woman is pretty blonde Anne Marie Kellam, 25, of Oakland, who is free on $1,050 bail. She is scheduled to appear in court for plea on Nov. 30.

A complaint charges the three and six prison convicts with conspiring to smuggle dope into prison for sale to inmates.

Youths Get Scolding For Disturbing Peace

Two North Marin youths, who battled police at a San Rafael restaurant and hurt a police officer, drew a judicial scolding, six months in county jail, and three years' supervised probation yesterday.

Ronald Delbert Abrao, 18, of 489 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood, and John D. Forwood, 19, of 80 Summers Avenue, Novato, were sentenced by Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court.

They pleaded guilty to battery, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace at the Griddle Cafe on Oct. 18. Police said they were called on a complaint that the youths were bothering patrons. Officers said the youths resisted when asked to leave, and Officer John Kingston was hurt in the scuffle.

Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarno said Officer Kingston required hospitalization.

Judge Thomas ordered Forwood and Abrao to pay for Officer Kingston's medical and hospital costs in addition to serving half a year in jail. They have already paid for the officer's uniform.

"You struck out against a man who represents law and order in this community," the judge declared. He told the youths they were "complete fatheads" for attacking the officers.

War II Gear Shows Up Mysteriously

A piece of flying equipment last seen by a Hamilton Air Force Base officer when he was a bomber pilot fighting the Axis forces in Italy during World War II 19 years ago mysteriously came to light at the base this week.

The object is a flying bag, used for carrying a parachute, last seen by Lt. Col. Elvin W. Brush when he was a lieutenant flying B-24 Liberator bombers at Cerignola, Italy, in 1942.

M/Sgt. John Beasley, in charge of the personal equipment section at the base, spotted the bag with the name "Lt. Brush" amidst a pile of odds and ends.

He took it to Col. Brush who identified it as from his service during the war.

Brush, assistant to the base commander, will be retired Nov. 30. He and his wife Marilyn and their children will settle in Modesto.

"Defend, O Lord, this Thy child . . ."

With these words, and the remainder of a short prayer, a Bishop of the Episcopal Church confers the sacrament of Confirmation—a rite which Episcopalians believe gives to its recipient God's strength for full participation in all the privileges of membership in the church and for the responsibilities attached to it.

There are many misconceptions about "Confirmation." Some people think of it as "joining" the church. That's not the case. Because, one who has been baptized with water in the name of the Trinity is a member of the Christian family — a member of the Body of Christ, which is the Church. He or she can't be "more" a member.

But we do believe that Confirmation, which means "strengthening" (Scriptural authority for which appears in Acts 8: 12-18), is a spiritual aid to those who receive it.

Other than Baptism, there is no specific ceremony that makes you a "member" of the Episcopal Church. Confirmation, however, elevates a member to a "communicant" standing and enables him to receive the further privilege of Holy Communion.

Those of us who have received the "laying on of hands" by the Bishop feel there is special benefit in Confirmation. Wouldn't you like to know more about the Episcopal Church?

"The Episcopal Church, Some Essential Facts" will tell you more about this great church. Send the coupon for your copy. No obligation.

Transit Group Considering Smaller Board

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Bay Area Rapid Transit District is considering special legislation to make its membership more flexible.

General Manager John M. Pierce said yesterday that the legislation would enable the district to reduce its membership from five to four, or even three, counties with ease.

He said that withdrawal of a county is currently a cumbersome operation, and might slow action so much that the district could not qualify a bond issue proposal for the June primary.

Marin County and possibly San Mateo County may ask to be excused from the transit district, Pierce said, and a revision of procedure would allow San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties to go ahead with their rapid transit plans.

$150-Million Bond Issue For Parks Supported

MONTEREY (AP) — The State Park Commission yesterday voted to support a proposed 150-million-dollar bond issue to develop parks in California.

The big parks bond issue is under consideration by the Senate Natural Resources Committee for possible addition to the November, 1962 ballot. Prompt action is needed if it is to qualify, said Commission Chairman Joseph C. Hougteling.

In other action, the commission:

Urged its staffs to cooperate with local erosion programs for preserving trees in Humboldt Redwoods State Park.

Granted a Stanford University request to restrict part of Ano Nuevo Island off the San Mateo County coast as a wildlife preserve.

Discussed a master plan for Squaw Valley winter sports.

CLOTHES FROM CATHOLICS—Youngsters in Kontum, Viet Nam study new shirts and pants just distributed by the American Catholic Bishop's overseas relief agency aiding in the strife torn country since 1954. Catholic Churches in Marin tomorrow and through next week will accept clothes for the "Catholic Bishop's Thanksgiving Collection."

THANKSGIVING COLLECTION

Marin Catholics To Take Clothes

Tomorrow Marin Catholics will mark the beginning of the 13th annual "Catholic Bishop's Thanksgiving Collection."

For one week, all Catholic churches in the Archdiocese will receive donations of usable clothing, shoes and bedding

Rev. Richard S. Knapp, assistant pastor of St. Raphael Church in San Rafael was appointed by Most Rev. Hugh A. Donohoe, Auxiliary Bishop and Administrator of the Archdiocese of San Francisco as director of the collection in Marin County. Father Knapp called on all Catholics to join in "Operation Clothes Closet" to contribute outgrown or unwanted clothing during the tradition time of Thanksgiving. "There is great need for adult clothing of all kinds; we need children's clothing, too, and layettes for babies," Father Knapp said. "We also want blankets and coverlets of all kinds, and for the African nations we need bolts of cloth and cotton remnants which can be worn. But please make it usable," he stressed.

Cuban refugee relief operations, severe famine and drought in Morocco and suffering from typhoons in Formosa and Japan have resulted in increased demands on the Bishop's Collection to help clothe the poor and homeless in 64 countries. Distribution is made directly to the needy overseas, regardless of creed or color.

With help from the International Cooperation Administration and the United States Embassies is Asia, Africa, Europe and South America, the clothing will be directly distributed by misisonary priests and nuns and representatives of the Catholic Relief Services to those most in need.

Collections from previous years have produced some 135 million pounds of usable clothing, shoes and bedding supplies, valued at well over $160 million. Last year Marin County contributed 17,020 pounds.

Big Lutheran Choir Concert Is Tomorrow

A church choir concert featuring choirs from seven of the nine Lutheran Churches in Marin County will be presented tomorrow at 4 p.m.

The program entitled "The Church Year Song" will be held at the new Christ The Victor Lutheran Church, 2626 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax. Narrator will be the host church's pastor, Rev. John Rotto.

A mass chorus of more than 200 voices will be featured under the direction of Mrs. R. G. Weil of Mill Valley and Mrs. Clinton Bell Jr. of San Anselmo. Among their offerings will be Whitford's arrangement of G. F. Handel's "Bless Thou the Lord."

Three children's choirs and seven adult choirs will sing appropriate anthems for the various seasons of the Christian church year. They will be accompanied by Miss Lois LeRud and Mrs. Martin Rosell at the organ.

The Lutheran Men of Marin organization is sponsor for the event to which the public is invited, said Carl H. Yeager of San Rafael, president.

Christianity's Summit Meeting To Consider Russian Membership

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christianity's largest summit conference opened in New Delhi, India, today in a nation where followers of Jesus Christ number only about 2 per cent of the population.

Business of the assembly is scheduled until Dec. 6.

Representatives of 175 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox member churches are participating — numbering nearly 1,000 churchmen and women from 50 countries on both sides of the iron curtain. Only 626 of the total are official delegates, the rest include observers, advisers and special guests.

Previous WCC assemblies were held in Amsterdam in 1948 and in Evanston, Ill., in 1954.

For the first time the Roman Catholic Church has authorized a five-man team to attend this year's assembly as observers. The team will report to the Vatican's newly organized secretariat for Christian unity.

Another prime item on the agenda is amending the WCC constitution to provide for merger with its sister organization, the International Missionary Council, an International body composed of 38 national missionary organizations.

Dr. Roswell P. Barnes, executive secretary of the WCC's United States Conference, said in New York he considers this merger the most important administrative action the assembly will take.

"It means the younger churches in misionary lands will no longer have merely a subsidiary voice in the world organization," he said. "It's sort of like a new nation gaining membership in the United Nations."

Also scheduled is a vote on application for WCC membership of the Soviet Union's Russian Orthodox Church. "If admitted," said a WCC spokesman, "it would mean the huge Russian body would come into continuous contact with other Christians after years of virtual isolation."

Dr. Barnes said the assembly also will discuss "many of the social questions Pope John XXIII dealt with in his recent encyclical."

"The race question also probably will provoke some lively discussion," he said. "Three Dutch Reformed churches dropped out of the council this year because of our policy on apartheid."

Guest Will Preach

Guest, Rev. Gene Wallace Burris will conduct the 9:30 a.m. worship service at Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church tomorrow.

He was recommended by the church's pastor seeking committee, announced James G. Molica, publicity chairman for the church.

Rev. Burris is a graduate of the San Francisco Theological Seminary. He was ordained by the Seattle Prebytery in which he served as youth director at the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle. Rev. Burris is presently an assistant pastor at the First Presbyterian Church at Mountain View.

The book, published by the Newman Press, Westminister, Md., is about birth control and, writes Brindel, "admittedly . . . poses serious and embarrassing questions to Catholic educators, physicians, (and) leaders . . ."

Noted Marin psychologist, Dr. J. Hudson Ballard will be the guest speaker tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur.

The course consists of corrective calesthenics, games and sports and social dancing. Class is held at the E Street School gymnasium in San Rafael on Wednesday nights from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

Glue Together

The quick stitch seems like a snail's pace compared to the speedy way a new glue joins fabrics. The manufacturer recently glued together an entire cocktail dress. A model wearing the glued dress had no trouble turning, bending or making other movements.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Mr., Mrs. Charles O. Jones Have 25th Anniversary Fete

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Jones of Kent Woodlands is being celebrated at a cocktail party being given by their four children, Mrs. William Asbell (Sharon Jones) Linda, Barbara and Charles Jr. at the Jones home tonight. However, young Charles can't be present as he is in the Army and stationed at Fort Lee, Va. He expects to be home for the holidays. And there is a possibility that Sharon and Bill, who live in Ross, will not be present to receive the 75 guests as they are expecting the birth of their first child momentarily.

The actual wedding anniversary is Nov. 14 but Saturday night seemed to be the time for the party. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married in 1936 at Star of the Sea Church in San Francisco. The wedding reception following was at the San Francisco home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfons Hartzer. Mr. Hartzer is deceased but Mrs. Hartzer, who now lives in Burlingame, will attend the anniversary fete. Also in the family group will be Charles' mother, Mrs. Paul K. Jones of San Francisco, his sister, Mrs. Walter Weber Jr. of Palo Alto and her husband, his brother, Francis Jones of Belmont, and his wife and Mrs. Jones' brother, Joseph Hartzer of San Francisco, and his wife. Most of the guests were present at the Jones' wedding. However an exception are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Asbell of Greenbrae, Bill's parents.

AN INFORMAL concert was given at the Walter Coberly home in Greenbrae Sunday. Featured artist was Robert Mueller, pianist. The 4 p.m. program was followed by cocktails.

Mr. Mueller, who lives in Berkeley, was recently a soloist with Arthur Fiedler and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and the Miami (Florida) Symphony Orchestra. He has given numerous recitals in New York and throughout the United States. He played in the major music centers on his tour of Europe in 1956. He has also appeared repeatedly with the Campion Festivals, featuring old and contemporary music.

Apart from his professional activities, Mr. Mueller is an avid collector of phonograph records, and is an amateur photographer. He often takes several cameras with him on tour, for both still photography and motion pictures.

Guests of Walter and Mary Coberly were Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Schwarz, Messrs. and Mesdames Leigh Athearn, M. E. Abrams, Harold A. Bunn, George Collins, Frank Costanzo, Harvie Freed, Lorry Hahn, Paul Marrin, John Merryman, E. R. McWilliams, Robert Ohea, Frank L. Miller, Rufus Rhoades, Benton Tully, John Wolfe, Mrs. Guy Ciocca, Miss Betty Bunn, Miss Estalan Laws, Miss Mary B. Wood, Norman Freed, David Penhallow and K. C. Setterdahl.

ACADEMY FAILS IN CROWN BID

The San Rafael Military Academy Cadets yesterday failed to ring, get up with or win the big bell of the traditional and championship football game with Menlo School yesterday afternoon.

The Cadets and Menlo went at it as undefeated gridders for the Bay Counties League crown, but the fact that the Cadets had never beaten the southern club in the past 14 years was too great a psychological barrier—so now it's 15 years.

The score was 20-13.

Menlo took advantage of an academy fumble in the second period to begin a 70-yard scoring march and then intercepted a fourth quarter Cadet pass and ran it back for the winning touchdown.

The Cadets picked up their points in the second and final periods on one and two yard runs respectively.

Cadet halfback Bill Freeman picked up his team's first six in the first period when he plunged over from a quick opener at the Menlo one-yard line. Doug Silva booted the PAT.

The count was 20-7 when the Cadets rallied late in the fourth period for their second touchdown. It came on a two-yard run around right end by fullback Joe Heinz, a 210 pound senior. An attempt to run the conversion was futile.

Menlo safety and offensive pass receiver Buck Arbuckle was the big man for the winning team and the athlete who scored the winning TD on a 47-yard interception of a Cadet pass.

HEINZ STANDOUT

The academy's standout of the afternoon was cadet Heinz, working as offensive fullback and then in on a majority of tackles as defensive tackle.

Cadet coach Phil Roark said the game was "clean and well fought" for a rivalry affair, but that his athletes having not played a game for the past two weeks were apparently "up" too soon for the contest, or they were "up" too much.

"Kids were too tight and anxious in the first half . . . they couldn't seem to relax," said the coach. In the second half Menlo capitalized on Academy mistakes.

"Maybe next year," said Roark.

T Or Sympathy? 49ers Need Win To Get Sane

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers, spectacuarly unsuccessful the last time they attempted to demolish the Bears with Red Hickey's shotgun, are revising their arsenal for tomorrow's clash with Chicago.

It was the Bears' 31-0 victory over the 49ers at Chicago Oct. 22 that started the San Francisco drought that has reached four games without a victory.

The Bears, with a 5-4 record, need a win to stay in contention in the National Football League's Western Conference race.

The 49ers, 4-4-1, need a victory to retain their sanity.

Hickey has promised some surprises. The fans are demanding some. Coach George Halas of the Bears expects some.

"I figure the 49ers will be using the T formation quite a bit again against us," Halas said.

Could be. The 49er camp was guarded as closely this week as an Academy Award ballot box.

And when the drama unfolds the plot well may be T and sympathy.

The Bears' Billy Wade has 14 touchdown passes, second only to Sunny Jurgensen of Philadelphia, who has 17. Rookie Mike Ditka, a leading candidate for NFL Rookie of the Year, has snared 33 for 771 yards, including nine touchdowns.

John Farrington and Ditka will be the ends for the Bears and quarterback Wade will have Willie Galimore and Johnny Morris, two of the fastest halfbacks in the league, and jarring Rick Casares at fullback.

Hickey has announced the 49ers' opening backfield as John Brodie at quarterback, R. C. Owens at flanker and J. D. Smith and C. R. Roberts at the running-blocking posts, with Monty Stickles and rookie Aaron Thomas at the ends.

But rookie Bill Kilmer, the 49ers' top scorer with 10 touchdowns, will see plenty of action.

Abe Woodson has returned to the 49ers' defensive secondary and there are three changes in the defensive line.

Hamilton AFB Unofficial A.F. Champs

Hamilton Air Force Base Defenders are 1961 unofficial champions of the Air Force.

By virtue of the Defender's 9-1-1, won-los-tie record and the defeat of McClellan Air Force Base by Lackland Air Force Base they were given the crown. Hamilton beat McClellan earlier in the season, 21-6.

Among the outstanding athletes on the team are tackle Dolph Jackson, end Paul Linsey, who scored 42 points, center and kicker Eric Kuykendal, 28 points; and halfback Jim Turner, 36 points.

Other Defender season games were with San Quentin 37-0; Santa Rosa Junior College 52-6; top-ranked Idaho State College 12-12; Occidental College 20-14; Fort Lewis 9-3; Seattle Ramblers 13-6; Santa Clara College 13-30 (the Defender's only loss); University of San Francisco 43-12. The Defenders have one remaining game with the San Francisco Athletic Club at Hamilton AFB.

Hamilton Gun Club Sets Turkey Shoot

An Editorial

Mr. Behr's Letter...

Here are some cogitations bearing on Mr. Peter Behr's recent Letter to the Editor. In his letter, Mr. Behr, candidate to displace J. Walter Blair as supervisor of the Third District, at the December 5 Recall Election, replied to our editorial: "The Recall Goes Pfft!"

We believe Mr. Behr's letter protests too much.

His defensive posture stands forth but the validity of his arguments fail to assert themselves.

Let's look at his language:

"I have never had any misgivings about my candidacy," writes Mr. Behr.

He asserts it but he fails to prove it. Was it a Freudian slip that made Mr. Behr so unconvincing on television?

Again he writes: "Recall (as an action) has been a long-established California procedure . . . etcetera."

Now, we are not beguiled by Mr. Behr's language. We know the sense, substance and reason-why behind the recall law.

Everybody does, instinctively.

But the laws of decency cannot be rescinded.

Using the recall act as a weapon invades the area of human choice; indeed, it corrupts it.

There is such a thing as human conscience, and we predict that in this tempestuous teapot, it will work to Walter Blair's advantage.

Chief Justice Holmes once wrote: "There is a law higher than the law and that is the law of human conscience."

Mr. Behr writes:

"No elected official should have a vested right to serve out his full term under any and all circumstances . . . An elected official in California . . . may serve only so long as he continues to satisfy the reasonable expectations of the majority who elected him."

So sayeth Mr. Behr.

To which we reply in the jargon of Bastogne: "Nuts!"

There wasn't a less popular governor in the land than Governor Edmund Brown some six months after he took office. He put his foot in his mouth on the Chessman Case and in other ways infuriated many of the persons who elected him.

We heard not a peep about recall.

Nobody compels us to leave crooks and boobs in office.

But Mr. Behr has yet to call Mr. Blair a crook or a boob. Moreover, the worst he has said about Mr. Blair is that he is stubborn.

Was Herbert Hoover impeached because he cooked up the '29 Crash on the back burner of his diabolical stove?

Was Truman impeached for his many crudities, among which was the threat to kick a caustic music critic in the groin?

Was President Kennedy impeached because of his abortive invasion of Cuba?

No.

One of the great strengths and weaknesses of Democracy is that it requires patience from everybody. Democracy has built-in checks and balances and does not go along with those Minorities or Majorities which say "off with his head" when they are dissatisfied with things as they are.

Mr. Behr cites his hope of giving a good part of his time to Mr. Blair's job as supervisor, should he succeed in wresting it from Mr. Blair on December 5.

Let all who may become inspired and convinced by Mr. Behr's dissertation on his availability. But we feel his protestations are winning few converts. Moreover, we do not believe Mr. Behr is asking for a happy personal role when he insists that a San Francisco commuter can hold successfully a high Marin County job while in San Francisco.

Mr. Behr says our editorial, "The Recall Goes Pfft!" made too much of machinations involving the County Government Center.

We shall concede this to be a matter of interpretation of data and human events . . . but conceding this . . . we reassert our faith in it.

At the bottom of the whole petty quarrel is this local history:

Mr. Behr has been importantly identified with a minority group which enjoyed running this county on a "Mother knows best" philosophy.

This group lost the election when Mr. Blair was voted into office with a convincing majority on April 7, 1960. Instead of taking their licking like good sports they soon predicted they would institute a recall action against Mr. Blair.

We believe Mr. Behr tries to cut too wide a swath in a jungle which does not exist, when he presents himself as an authority on the recall law.

If the rightful use of the recall law has to be explained to us children, then let's preserve Mr. Behr's grace and dignity by insisting on another lecturer. Let's relieve Mr. Behr from the embarrassment of that chore.

If Mr. Blair is to be replaced, then let it be done by an action as convincing as a volcano errupting. Let none of us Act Small.

We hope in the weeks to come, Fate will not find Mr. Behr pleading for an office already duly filled. Mr. Behr, a gentleman with a fine intellect who has done excellent service as a public servant (Mill Valley City Councilman), has many friends; and he deserves better than to be cast as a pleader.

And, finally, all things considered, it is lacking in grace to throw a man out of office—before he's had time to remove his hat — if our only complaint against him be: "Mr. Blair, you're stubborn!"

We believe the people have caught the self-seeking motives in this issue, even many of those who, impetuously, signed the recall petitions.

And we believe the people will speak out on December 5 in support of Mr. Blair.

J. Walter Blair Committee, John Grant, Chairman, Fred Perry Jr., Treas.

SEALS LOSE

9,490 Attend Ice Hockey Debut In S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Coach Max McNab of the San Francisco Seals says his hockey squad lost its home debut to Edmonton's Flyers because of a poor defense.

"A couple of our defensemen played their worst game of the year. We made our big move in the first period when we had a 2-0 lead but then we gave 'em an easy one," McNab said after last night's game at the Cow Palace.

Some 9,490 fans saw Edmonton top the Seals 5-3 in the Western Hockey League match.

San Francisco (4-11) has lost three straight to the Flyers who lead the loop with an 11-2-1 record.

WINNING GOAL

What proved to be Edmonton's winning goal, a 40-foot shot by Forbes Kennedy midway in the final period, came while the Seals were one man short. They had been penalized for having too many men on the ice at one time.

McNab blamed this, too, on the defense.

"We didn't play as sound as we have played in our last six games. Edmonton is the fastest club in the league," said McNab.

The two teams meet again in the Cow Palace tonight.

San Anselmo Club Chase 7th Win, 1 P.M. Tomorrow

The San Anselmo Merchants, undefeated in the San Francisco AAA winter semi-professional baseball league, will seek their seventh straight victory against My Pet Market of San Francisco tomorrow.

The game gets underway at 1 p.m. at Memorial Park in San Anselmo, with Dick Spackman hurling for the Merchants.

Now Maris Is Well Done,' Let's Roast Alibing College Coaches

CONNOLLY

As long as we are in a mood for teeing off on people and things, why stop? The other day we roasted Roger Maris, new home run king. Now let's put today's football coaches in the frying pan and listen to them simmer and sputter.

Coaches in my heyday were supposed to be character builders, and most of them did a good job of it. Sure, they wanted to win every game. But when they lost one they never hid behind the old alibi.

Let's take a look at a few of the deathless quotes that appeared over the last weekend:

From Marv Levy of California: "The Bears just fell asleep; we're ashamed of our performance. Attitude and practices have been good. I just can't understand it."

FROM CACTUS Jack Curtice of Stanford: "Our defense rather surprised me. I thought it would be better. And we tackled poorly. Maybe the boys are a little unsure of themselves."

FROM RED HICKEY of the 49ers: "I thought we'd come back. There's nothing wrong with the system. The players just aren't doing a good job on offense or defense."

I can't consider any one of those remarks as genuinely honest, or in the character-building category.

Marv Levy might have admitted that he failed to get his boys charged up for a contest they thought was a pushover. Or he might have recognized the fact, as did the late Howard Jones of USC, that "any eleven kids the same age, the same experience, the same weight, can have a good day and beat any team they face."

CACTUS JACK might have said that his team was outclassed by the Trojans, that they did a great job with what they had to work with. Instead he gave his boys the impression that they had let him down.

But my best blast goes to Red Hickey, who has stubbornly refused to take the blame for sticking to his "popgun" offense when his own team has lots confidence in it, and the rest of the pros are openly laughing at his efforts.

Back in the days of the Wonder Team at California, Coach Andy Smith's greatest remark before a big game was when he said, "I taught 'em all I know. Maybe it's not enough for them to win, but it's the best I can do for them." Andy could win or lose. But when his head came out of the water bucket he never ran his kids down.

IT WAS the Chicago Bears who started the death march for the "popgun" and the 49ers have been sliding ever since. Now the Monsters of the Midway return to Kezar tomorrow to finish the job they started.

I haven't seen or heard any remarks from Hickey that would indicate he is going to quit beating his head against a wall. Papa Bear George Halas will oblige by doing a little bashing of his own.

And I wonder who's fault it will be Sunday night?

Tars Win! Coach Read Ushers In New 'Golden Era'

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN — College of Marin coeds celebrate with a jig after the Tars beat American River Junior College 25-24 in a thriller last night at Kentfield. It gave the Tars undisputed second place in the Golden Valley Conference. Girl gridders who put in "powderpuff" halftime game are Dianne Hegg (22), Nancy Prather (44), Marilyn Miller (45), Sally Reed (32) and Jackie Bush (11). (Photos by Jim Kean)

BLUM ON A BOOTLEG —Ron Blum, College of Marin quarterback has passed his scrimmage line on a left end bootleg play in the third quarter and raises ball to carry it in his dangerous way. The star quarterback picked up 17 yards and a first down at the American River 42 on the play before being hit by Beavers safety Perry Padrata.

All The Glitter Was Gold For Marin

By PAUL MILLER

Well, by golly, they did it!

The golden arm of quarterback Ron Blum, the golden hands of end Jim Lucas, and the golden toe of Frank Lopes last night gave the College of Marin Tars second berth in the 1961 Golden Valley Conference and initiated what well may be another golden area of football for the county's junior college.

The Tars wiggled past American River 25-24 before a nearly full and frozen Marinside stadium in Kentfield. It was a thrilling season finisher for everybody; even the timekeeper's pistol, which was so cold or excited it refused to fire at the half, but worked at the game's end—and it better had.

First year college coach Dick Read's Tars were conference underdogs before practice began. They were plagued by injury, ineligibilities, and final quarter losses as the season progressed. But Read stayed with it, his athletes stayed with it, and today the Tars are the next best football team in their college loop with a 3-2 record and a 5-4 season record. Until Read took command, the Tars had been winless since 1959.

In the mid-1940s, the college was a powerhouse, and it looks like happy days are here again.

The Tar scores last night came on a 71-yard pass from Blum to halfback Ron Cole and a 57-yard flyer to end Lucas in the second period, on a one-yard jaunt by Blum in the third quarter, and again on a 16-yard pass to Lucas in the final period. After that final touchdown, Lopez broke a 24-24 tie in the last three minutes of play with a perfect conversion kick to win the game for the Marinites.

LUCAS INTERCEPTS

Lucas saved the game in the concluding minutes of action when he smacked the Sacramento team's speedy halfback James Gray out of bounds on the Marin 15 after Gray had broken loose from the pack and was on his way. Then with some 45 seconds left in the thrilling contest with the Beavers threatening on the Tar 15, Lucas intercepted a pass to assure the victory.

American River's game scoring came on a 10-yard pass in the second quarter, on a 32-yard aerial in the third period, and on a 21-yard romp in the final sector.

Coach Read expressed satisfaction not only with last night's victory but with his first season of college coaching. On the Beaver game Read said his tars "moved the ball well . . . and took advantage of breaks." He added that American River (also hampered early in the season by injuries) "played a good ball game."

Both teams' offensive units were in high gear last night and it made for a marvelous show. The Beavers' 20-year-old signal caller, Larry Satterfield, playing from a split-T-formation, did excellent work in passing. But Blum was a point more than excellent and it meant victory. The Marin quarterback took his time, but he also took some hard knocks rather than throw that ball recklessly to spare himself pain.

DEFENSE WEAK

Neither team's defensive units were up to par, with the exception of Marin when the Beavers got around the Marin 15-yard line. Marin stood ground after many Beaver marches with the assistance of penalties but gave ground after three others too many. The Tars' pass defense was not the best in the world, but lady luck made up for it. A fourth quarter winning TD pass from Satterfield to Beaver end Fred Brown was unbelievably juggled and dropped at the Tar end zone. On a temperate evening a Pop Warner player would have held it.

A lot of the victory's credit must go to the Tar line which held off Beavers for Blum's work well enough. The extra time was gathered by the evasiveness of the quarterback himself.

Among the offensive and defensive players besides those scoring who stood out were linebacker Bruce Robertson, fullback Jim Lonsford, end Darrel Dietrich, safety Mike Magruder, end Bill Buffalow, especially on defensive tackling, and two of the evening's —as well as the season's—top linemen: tackles Jim Sewell and Ron Grayson.

Much of the credit the offensive line's outstanding work and the club's spirited inside tackling should go to line coach Ed Grimm, who in the springtime is the college's head baseball mentor.

WORKHORSE FISHER

The big rushing ground gainer and workhorse of the contest was Jim Fisher, a consistantly hard driving, never-let-up halfback.

Several of the above and those scoring received laudets from coach Read, quarterback Blum especially.

Blum's first touchdown pass in the second period was caught by Cole at about the Beaver 35 and he streaked ahead of the safeties over the remainder of the gridiron. Lopez' conversion attempt was blocked. In seven plays and three first downs the Beavers scored both the TD and the two point conversion on pass plays to move in front 8-6. Marin rebounded two plays later with a second TD.

It came after a Blum-to-Lucas 40-yard pass was nullified on a penalty. Blum sent Lucas down again (it was either Blum or Read, both did play calling) on the identical pattern play from the Marin 42. It was a spectacular pass and reception: a quarterback under extreme pressure and a receiver running full stride in freezing weather.

Marin received the kickoff at the opening of the third period, rumbled on a march led by Blum and Fisher from their own 39 to the Beaver one yard line, from where Blum went in for the score. A pass PAT attempt was no good.

BEAUTIFUL PASS

An exemplary executed pass play from Satterfield to halfback James Gray of the Beavers was good for American River's only third period tally. Gray, an exceptionally fast starter, caught it on the Marin 15 and streaked past a startled Tar safety for the TD. Then Satterfield threw another for the two-point PAT.

The Beavers picked up their final points in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter when halfback Perry Padrata, a 165-pound speedster, broke away around his own left end on a 21-yard hustle. Padrata harassed the Tar defensive line all evening with his slant attacks.

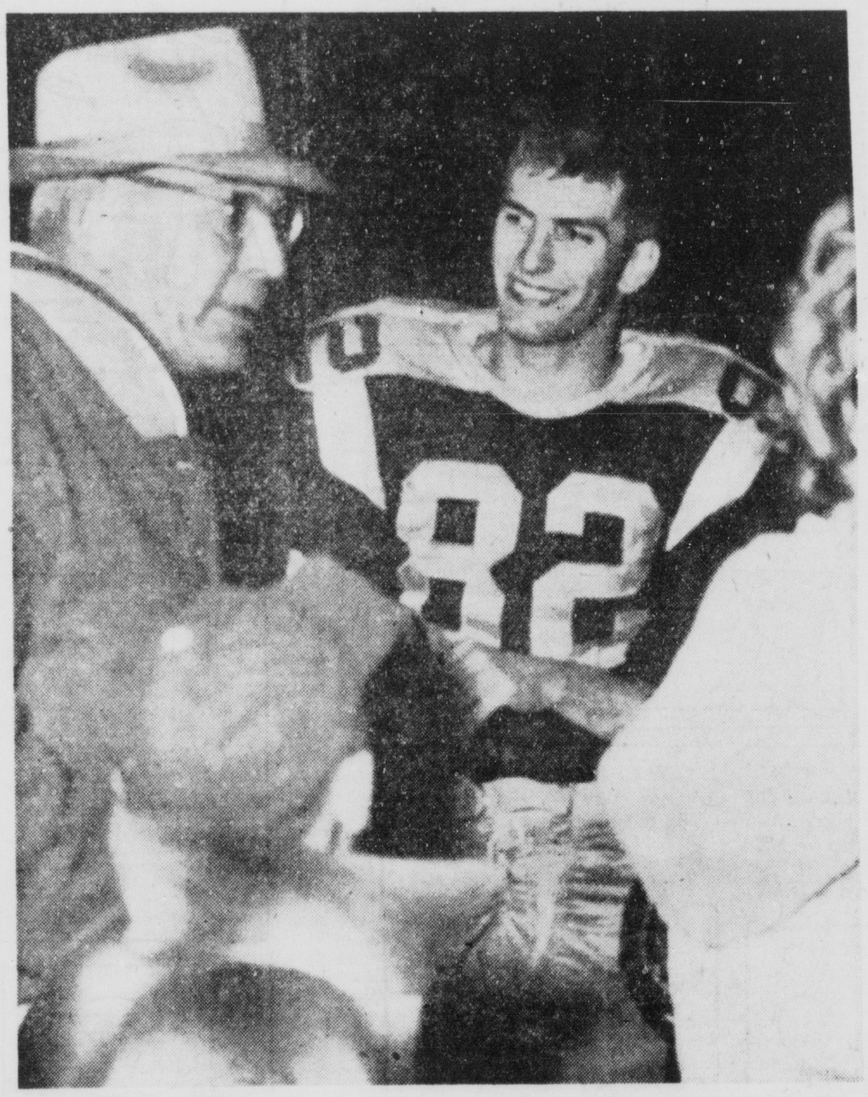

It looked like this 24-18 deficit by the Tars was going to be the final chapter of the season. Marin in a series got to the Beaver 29, but gave up the ball penalty after the play pushed on a fourth down situation. A penalty after the play pushed the Beavers back to their own 14. They were forced to punt from their own 42, however after seven plays.

BLUM ON TARGET

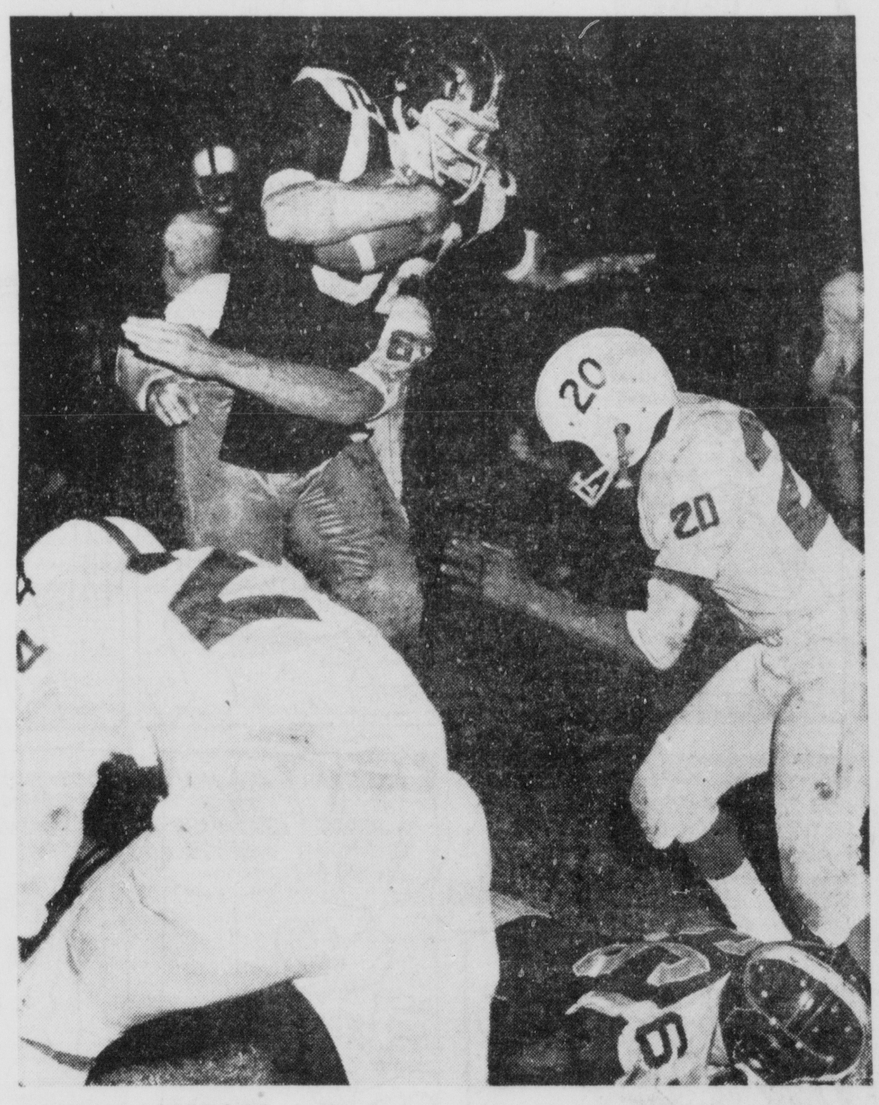

It wasn't a good kick and that's all Marin needed. From their 36 Blum connected with a 14-yard pass to Buffalow. After Fisher and Lonsford picked up some yardage and a first down, Blum put a 20-yard flyer in the hands of Lonsford to set the Tars up, with less than three minutes to play, on the American River 17. Lonsford then drove over right guard for nine more on the subsequent play. In the next action Blum, back to pass, was rushed and tackled for a five-yard loss. But from the 16 he saw Lucas and put the leather on target in the Beaver end zone.

The score was 24-24. Blum called the PAT quickly, and before anybody could realize the crucialness of Lopez' boot, the 180-pound sophomore had put it through the uprights for the extra and winning point.

The Tars' defensive unit groped with the Beavers for six plays, half of which were first downs. But then Lucas did his game saving work and the 25-24 count was iced as, after his interception of a Beaver pass, Marin had possession of the pigskin for the final 50 seconds of the game.

TAR HERO — Jim Lucas, College of Marin end is congratulated by fans at game's end for protecting his team's 25-24 lead by intercepting an American River pass in the final seconds of the game. A few yards from the Marin end zone. Lucas also scored two touchdowns on passes from Tar quarterback Ron Blum.

DRIVING FULLBACK — Jim Lonsford, (with ball), Tar fullback smashes his way for a seven-yard fourth quarter gain around his own right end deep in American River country. Beaver tacklers are Dean Cannon (24) and Gary Norris (20). Lonsford was a consistant ground gainer all evening.

FOUR-YARD PICKUP — Fullback Jim Lonsford of the Tars gains eight yards around right end in the fourth period to set Marin up on the Beaver 9. Two plays later Marin scored. Lonsford in the previous play had given the Tars a first down at the Beaver 17 with his reception of a 20-yard pass from quarterback Ron Blum.

Now The Narrow Shoe Styles Are Made For Growing Feet

Have you seen the narrow shoes stores are selling to children this year? They're copies of the pointed footwear adults started wearing last year. I'm told the style was imported from Italy. Now our little ladies of 6 and 7 years want them. Styles matter greatly to kids—more than most of us realize.

Do not buy narrow shoes for children. Their feet are still growing, and narrow shoes don't allow for movement and growth—the foot's bone structure can easily be twisted and harmed. Several foot doctors have called narrow shoes "crimes against children" and "cruel atrocities." They say never put them on a child. They add that you shouldn't wear such shoes yourself, but that's your problem.

So avoid narrow shoes when shopping for your children. Get wide, comfortable, practical footwear.

Have you heard about karting? Some inventors have built tiny cars, with little engines, small wheels and very simple bodies. They call them "karts." Enthusiasts now have kart races on little fields at the outskirts of town. It's a popular new sport.

Many children drive karts. In checking on the results, the National Safety Council found that least 36 children were killed in karts during the last two years and about 200 were seriously injured. Many of the little victims were under 10 years of age. (Thirteen of the deaths occurred on highways, though karts are illegal on them.)

The National Safety Council strongly urges "every parent to recognize the danger of these vehicles in all places, when operated by youngsters under legal driving age, and when used by people of any age in speed contests or racing events." Enough said.

Ross Pipe Line Gets Approval

The Ross Town Council has granted Marin Municipal Water District a right of way to lay 157 feet of pipe along Winding Way and passed an ordinance to make local sales tax provisions comply with regulations of the new state sales tax law.

The council also voted to ask the state employees retirement system to make a survey, to cost about $185, of retirement requirements for Ross employees.

After the council session, the councilmen met as planning commission and continued discussion of the third draft of the new zoning ordinance. Clerk Carroll Snyker said the group is about ready to prepare the final draft.

The council will meet in its dual role again Nov. 30.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CRANBERRIES GET A CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH

WASHINGTON (AP)—When you go to fill your Thanksgiving market basket, you can reach for the cranberries without hesitation. The word is they are all right this year.

"So far as we can tell, cranberries on the market this year have a clean bill of health," said a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration.

The FDA has kept a close check on the crop since the cranberry crisis of 1959, when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced that part of the crop was contaminated by a weed-killing spray.

traveling up and down the same area."

The Bishop described the Church of South India where 14 years ago the Angelicans (Episcopalians), Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists were united.

He also described the "Ceylon Scheme" which includes these groups, and Baptists.

Bishop Pike also discussed a proposal made last December by the Rev. Eugene Carson Blake from the pulpit of Grace Cathedral, the Bishop's own church in San Francisco.

This was the proposal that resulted in an invitation from the United Presbyterian Church to join in inviting the Methodist Church and the United Church of Christ in exploring possibilities of a merger.

This, he said, would create a church "truly Catholic, truly Reformed, truly Evangelical and truly United."

The Presbyterian offer was accepted by the recent Episcopal Church convention in Detroit. The United Church of Christ is a merger of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congregational Churches.

Bishop Pike said the Blake proposal was virtually identical with the "Ceylon Scheme," though the terms do not provide a blueprint.

"But the fact that the initiator of what now has taken on official form proposed a plan like the 'Ceylon Scheme' and the fact that at its Detroit convention the Episcopal Church gave official approval to the 'Ceylon Scheme' indicates that we are not simply on 'Cloud 9' but that there is tangible hope that a realistic plan for unity could be developed and agreed upon," the bishop said.

Deputy John Canziani Has Slight Stroke

Deputy Sheriff John J. Canziani, who works as bailiff in the county courthouse, was in San Rafael General Hospital today recovering from a slight stroke suffered at his home Thursday morning.

His condition was reported today as "fairly good and improving."

Skipper Found Dead

LONDON (UPI) — The professional skipper of Prince Philip's racing yacht Bluebottle, Clive Smith, 30, was found shot to death in his home today, police reported.

nominated Adlai E. Stevenson who was divorced while governor of Illinois, and saw him buried under Eisenhower landslides.

Hindsight suggests that no Democrat could have defeated Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 or 1956, but Stevenson's divorce was counted a handicap in any case, particularly among Roman Catholic voters.

said, "cannot be explained by the increase in population."

"We won't even mention the chief administrative officer as he isn't mentioned in San Rafael. He's been blocked off," Behr continued.

He predicted an ultimatum from the state early next week regarding the county hospital crisis. He said the immediate cost to the taxpayers will be $70,000 to "prop up the old hospital" plus more expense to support the patients while it is being done.

Car Overturns Driver Hurt

Robert Hughes, 20, of San Francisco, was taken to Novato General Hospital shortly before noon today when the "hot rod" which he was driving reportedly rolled over three times on Highway 101 at Olive Avenue in Novato.

Witnesses said Hughes car struck a "go cart" driven by an elderly, unidentified man. Apparently, the driver of the cart was unhurt. Hughes may have lost control of his car in an attempt to miss the small vehicle, according to witnesses.

Hospital attendants said the extent of Hughes's injuries were not immediately known.

'Space Travelers' Is Convicted

A Nebraska grain buyer, whose tales of Saturnian space travels amused Marin residents last year, will do no more flying for the next one to 10 years.

Reinhold Oscar Schmidt was sentenced to prison yesterday in Alameda County Superior Court on two counts of grand theft. He was convicted of bilking an Oakland widow of $5,000, which she paid him for a share in an Alaska gold mine and a Sierra quartz deposit which he allegedly "spotted from a flying saucer."

In March of last year, Schmidt told San Rafael audiences of his flights with men from outer space.

Boy, 11, Injured As Bike Hits Truck

An 11-year-old San Rafael boy was treated for minor injuries and released from San Rafael General Hospital yesterday after his bicycle struck a truck in the 2200 block of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

According to witnesses, Jeffry Springstead was zig-zagging in the street on his bicycle when he hit the truck driven by Robert O. Wheeler of 1444 Buchanan Street, Novato. Police said Wheeler was traveling about 15 miles an hour. No citation was issued.

San Anselmo Man Treated For Injuries

A San Anselmo resident who told police he "arrived home last night, opened the front door and later woke up in a pool of blood" was in "fair" condition at Marin General Hospital this morning.

San Anselmo Police Officer Attilo DeMaestri, who accompanied an ambulance summoned by Lamory Thomas Laumeister, 46, of 448 Scenic Avenue, said he found Laumeister lying on a bed bleeding profusely from facial wounds and nearly unconscious from loss of blood.

Laumeister said that all he could recall was returning home, opening his front door and waking up later in a pool of blood, said DeMaestri.

Doctors who treated Laumeister said that the jagged facial cuts might possibly have been caused by broken glass.

Pillow Case Burglar Hits In San Rafael

A "pillow case" burglar sometime yesterday looted a San Rafael home of guns, a television set, radios, cameras, savings bonds, clothing, drugs and assorted items of undetermined value.

Calvin Charles Gaare of 17 Marinita Avenue told police he returned home at midnight last night to find a front door glass smashed and his home ransacked. A pile of men's suits was left near the front door and a "valuable" silver service was undisturbed on the dining room table, Gaare reported.

Among the missing items were 50 pairs of cuff links. The prowler apparently used a pillow case to haul away the loot, police said.

Two Injured In Bumper Accident

A bumper to bumper accident on Highway 101 near Alto yesterday afternoon sent two persons to the hospital and earned a citation for speeding to the driver of one of the cars.

According to the California Highway Patrol, a car driven by William C. Packard Jr., 44, of Sunnyvale, recently retired from the Air Force, struck the rear end of a car operated by Mildred L. Washburn, 43, a State Board of Equalization librarian from Davis.

Witnesses said Parkard was travelling at a high rate of speed when he pulled out to pass a slow-moving dump truck and piled into the rear end of the other car. Miss Washburn was treated for scalp and back injuries and released. Packard was transferred to Letterman General Hospital with minor injuries. He was cited for speeding, officers said.

Quentin Prison Escaper Caught

A San Quentin inmate, who disappeared from Glenn County jail last July after sentencing for escaping from San Quentin's Glenn County summer camp, has been apprehended in New Mexico.

Officer of the Day Homer Hastings said that he had received a report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation this morning that Jack Stewart Fink had been taken into custody in Sasoppa, New Mexico.

Fink, originally sentenced for auto theft and burglary in Mendocino County, fled from the prison's summer camp last June 8. He was found two days later and was tried in Glenn Superior Court on escape charges.

Youth Injured In City Accident

John Ward Jr., 19, of San Rafael was hospitalized at Marin General Hospital this morning with face and head cuts suffered in a San Francisco accident last night.

His condition was described as satisfactory. Also injured in the same accident was Don Frailey, 21, a laborer, who gave his address as 18 Pleasant Lane, San Rafael. Frailey was treated for a nose injury at a San Francisco hospital and released.

Details of the mishap were not immediately known.

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Double	2 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead — ♠ K

West opened the king of spades and shifted to a trump on seeing dummy's two doubletons. East shrewdly played a low trump, saving his jack of hearts in the hope of over-ruffing dummy later.

He got his chance when declarer cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club with dummy's eight of hearts. East over-ruffed with the jack and returned a trump to dummy's nine.

Now South was through. He could ruff his remaining club but would then have to lose two diamonds. Down one.

START DIAMONDS: South should start the diamonds instead of the clubs. He has only five diamonds in the combined hands but six clubs. There is therefore far less chance that East will be able to over-ruff dummy on the third round of diamonds than on the third round of clubs.

On winning the second trick with dummy's seven of hearts, South should lead a diamond from dummy, finessing the jack to West's king. If West returns a club (as good a play as any), South wins with the king of clubs, cashes the ace of diamonds and ruffs a diamond with the eight of hearts.

When this yets by, South is in good shape. He leads a club to the ace and ruffs a club with the king of trumps. Now South can ruff a spade in his hand and ruff his last club in dummy not caring whether or not East can over-ruff. South can lose only one spade, one diamond and the jack of hearts, by adopting this line of play.

DAILY QUESTION: Partner opens with one club, and the next player bids one spade. You hold:

♠ J 10 5 4 3
♥ K 9 8 7

What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You might be able to win three tricks against a spade contract, but this is not enough to defeat one spade unless your partner can win four tricks. If his hand is that good you will hear from him; if it isn't, your best bet is to keep quiet.

Navy Claims 2 Marinites

A San Rafael man has enlisted in the Naval Reserve, and another Marin man who already belongs to the reserve received orders for recruit camp training at San Diego. Chief Radioman D. V. Maves, stationkeeper for the Naval Reserve Electronics Division in San Rafael, announced.

John A. Miller, 23, of 526 C Street, San Rafael, enlisted in the reserve for six years. Thomas R. Peterson, seaman reserve, received orders for two weeks "boot camp" training.

Swearing of Miller at the new San Rafael Armory at 153 Madison Avenue was done by Lt. R. N. Thalman, commanding officer of the electronics division.

Trial On Miller Book Postponed For One Week

A jury trial to determine the literary qualities of "Tropic of Cancer" was postponed one week yesterday at the request of the bookseller on trial.

The three-day jury trial for San Anselmo bookseller Frank B. Pershina, 32, is now set for Dec. 5 through 7 in Marin Municipal Court. It was originally set to begin on Nov. 28.

Charles Pierce, defending Pershina, asked for the postponement to give him more time to prepare the case. The district attorney agreed to a week's delay, and Judge Leonard A. Thomas set the new date.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety charged Pershina with knowingly selling obscene material when he sold Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer" to a D.A.'s investigator last month.

Standard Memo Forms In State

SACRAMENTO (AP)—All 380 state offices are going to use a standardized office memo form from now on.

Announcing this today, the governor's office said it would save the state more than $17,000 a year in printing costs.

"The saving is not a major one," Gov. Edmund G. Brown said. "But it is typical of the care being exercised within the state government to hold expenditures to a minimum through the exercise of alertness and economy."

Finding Role Of Christian Church In Nuclear Age

Tomorrow in New Delhi, India, leaders of 175 Christian denominations will gather in the third Assembly of the World Council of Churches. Facing them is a titanic question:

What is the role of the Christian Church in the nuclear age?

There could hardly be a more propitious time for a carefully considered answer to that question. The 600 or so delegates attending are well aware of its seriousness.

Not since 1954, when the second assembly was held in Evanston, Ill., has the full council met. Since that time, the world has moved into the nuclear age and the Christian Church has fallen far short, to date, in offering leadership for a fearful and confused peoples caught in a new type of terror.

There are evidences that the Christian faith is drawing closer together at this session. For the first time, the Roman Catholic Church is sending five observers to the assembly. Observers from the Russian Orthodox Church, claiming 23 million adherents, are not only present for the first time, but have applied for membership in the council and are expected to be voted into the organization.

Two other churches from behind the Iron Curtain, Bulgarian and Romanian Orthodox groups, also have asked and are expected to be admitted into membership.

In all, 21 new church denominations are seeking admittance, 10 of them from Africa.

Missing, however, will be delegates from Communist China where four denominations already are members. Their delegates have not been able to attend since the Communist regime took over China.

The job of developing a massive statement on the nuclear age role of the church will be undertaken by three large delegate sections. According to assembly leaders, the statement will attempt to define the basic task of the council in achieving unity, to decide upon the basic message of the Christian Church, and to determine what forms of service to humanity the council should continue or undertake.

In the three weeks of the assembly, the 19 committees will consider their work and policies, including discussions of disarmament, nuclear testing, family planning and racial policies.

The world today needs moral leadership as it has never needed it before in its history.

We doubt that the council will be able to solve our great problems in a three week conference. But it should be able to make a real start.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

WORD OF ASSURANCE MEANS MUCH

One boy saved the lives of three drowning girls even though he was convinced that he couldn't possibly rescue them.

"They're drowning, they're drowning, and I can't get all three of them," the 12-year-old boy shouted as he saw the girls of 8, 9, and 15 who couldn't swim.

Alone on the shore of the lake near Little Rock, Ark., was the boy's grandmother. Her words of assurance turned the tables:

"Be brave. Get the ones you can. You are a good swimmer," she said.

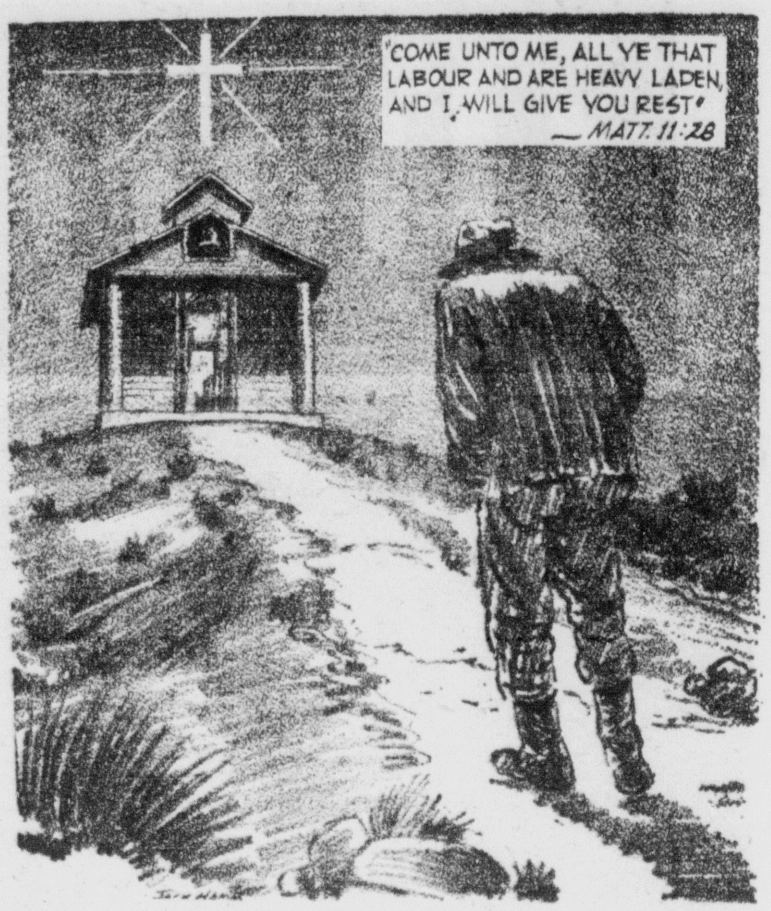

With that he dived in and quickly swam to the three struggling girls. He brought two safely to shore and then went after the third who had sunk. After pulling her out, he revived her with artificial respiration.

Even though you may not be able to grapple with some of the far-flung problems of our day, your encouraging word or letter of assurance may often be the deciding factor, under God, in stimulating others to persevere.

"Exhort one another every day."
(Hebrews 3:13)

Teach me, O Lord, to encourage others with ability, not discourage them.

Public Vs. Private Power Battle Looms

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Congress is likely to become the battleground for an increasing number of public vs. private power issues in the next few years.

Public and private power interests fought to a draw in the recent Congressional session over two red-hot power issues.

Public power proponents won a battle to provide funds for construction of an all-federal transmission system for the giant Upper Colorado River storage project in the Mountain West.

Private power proponents won their battle to prevent federal construction of electric generating facilities in the Hanford, Wash., plutonium reactor.

ONE REASON for the controversy: the Kennedy Administration has abandoned the Eisenhower Administration's "partnership" policy. Assistant Secretary of Interior Kenneth Holum said Nov. 7, "For eight years (we) have fought the battle of 'partnership'."

"Partnership," he said, "which proposes to sell falling water to private utilities at federal projects, ceased to exist as a national policy on Jan. 20 of this year. We believe the nation's resources should be managed in the broad public interest and not for selfish, narrow advancement at the public's expense." The present administration is stressing increased cooperation with public agencies and rural cooperatives.

THIS NEW POWER policy is viewed with a mixture of alarm and outright opposition by the private utility industry. Private utilities are concerned about the growth of public power in this country in the past 30 years. They fear the ultimate public take-over of their industry.

Their concern about further government encroachment into the private sector of the economy is shared by the coal industry. The two industries are also natural allies because the private utility industry is now the chief market for coal. Coal interests fear "unfair competition" from other sources of energy, particularly from the heavily federally subsidized atomic energy industry.

To public power proponents, including most "liberals" in Congress, including Marin Rep. Clem Miller, federal and other public development of the power resources of this country is for the general welfare and is in the public interest.

To private power proponents, including most "conservatives" in Congress, federal development of power projects, such as construction of steam plants, is a giant step toward socialism.

PROBABLY THE most telling argument raised against the Hanford project was that it was a new concept. Hanford opponents claimed that, if construction of two 400,000-kilowatt generators at the Hanford reactor were approved by Congress, the Atomic Engery Commission, for the first time, would be in the business of generating electric power for commercial sale.

So Nixon Said To McCarthy, Christopher

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

The question hung over the Cow Palace Monday night. At the lower honor table, but well off to the right end, far from principal speaker Richard M. Nixon, sat San Francisco Mayor George Christopher. Much nearer the center, but at the upper table behind the speaker, sat Marin Sen. John F. McCarthy. Nixon greeted both; had his picture taken shaking hands with both. Then posed with Christopher on one side and McCarthy on the other, his arms crossed and shaking hands with both. The question still hung there:

Will the former Vice President endorse either for lieutenant governor?

Actually, only McCarthy is an announced candidate. But few indeed of the political observers in the Cow Palace believe the mayor won't be announcing before too long; probably right after the first of the year.

Earlier in the day, at his press conference, Nixon had been quite emphatic. There would be, he said, "no ticket; no agreement." Both McCarthy and Christopher are "good men" he said, and he would meet with each of them before leaving San Francisco.

Later that evening at the Bohemian Club, he did get a chance to talk with McCarthy, and presumably with Christopher, too. He complimented McCarthy on the moves he had made so far toward getting the GOP nomination, particularly for the efforts he had been making in Southern California. And he told McCarthy:

"I have friends on both sides and I'm not going to participate in your campaigns." McCarthy took the plural to mean both his and Christopher's.

THIS WEEK, though, the Christopher For Lieutenant Governor Committee was formed, urging Christopher to run and pledging their support to him as "California's No. 1 candidate for lieutenant governor."

In the 145 names of committee members, only two were listed as being from Marin, both San Anselmo.

One was Elmer S. Worlund, immediate past chairman of the Marin Republican County Central Committee; the other, J. Lee Chaille, husband of Marjorie Chaille, who is scheduled on Dec. 5 to be elected president of the Marin Federation of Republican Women.

McCarthy's reaction to the new committee: he is "pleased with the enthusiastic and good hearted people pledged to my candidacy throughout the state." They have, he said, "two great qualities: enthusiastic interest in my candidacy and financial capability for a proper campaign."

THE REPUBLICANS are still talking about the boo-boo of Edgar D. Osgood, chairman of the San Francisco Republican County Central Committee. He led the pledge of allegiance to the flag like this:

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of American, one nation, under God, indivisible . . . "

Maybe "the republic for which it stands" has become a democracy.

ODDS AND ENDS:

One Republican candidate, who wasn't there the other night, promises a visit to Marin. Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight writes he is "again engaged in an exciting and stimulating campaign" and he hopes "in the near future I will be able to make a personal call."

We hear that Democratic Assemblyman Carlos Bee of Hayward, Assembly speaker pro tempore, is taking a second, hard look at the job of state superintendent of public instruction. Incidentally, trust you noticed Virgil Hollis has officially decided not to run for the office, as we said.

County GOP leaders David Winslow and Gerald Misner are scheduled to go to Eureka Tuesday, to caucus with other county chairmen, as Winslow says, "to put some life into the Republican First Congressional District Committee. Clem Miller take note.

Murder story plot: A madly jealous wife lures her husband to a bridge that spans a mighty river near their home, stabs him with a hatpin, and watches his body disappear beneath the waters with a satisfying plop. Then she seeks sanctuary with her mammy 20 miles away.

That very night, however, there is a great flood, and the river overflows its banks. The husband's body is washed up by the raging waters on the lawn in front of the house where the wife is hiding.

See what's unusual about all this? It's the first time in all the annals of murder yarns where the scene of the crime returns to the murderer!

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The 1961 MCAL football season has come to a close. Once again, as in year's past, the biased partiality of your sports writers and your newspaper has become evident.

Your coverage of the Drake-Tam game was 100 per cent Drake. True, they won the game, and to them the honors belong. But Drake was not the only one who crowned a homecoming queen that night. Why picture only their queen? If space did not allow you to publish both Drake's and Tam's queen's pictures, then in fairness to all, you should have published none. Also, one of Tam's players was seriously hurt in the game, but not even a mention of this appeared in your story.

Very little publicity is given to athletic achievements in Southern Marin, be it high school or Pop Warner. Why?

Do we here in Southern Marin pay less for our subscriptions or individual papers? Is circulation here so below that of central or Northern Marin that you feel it is not worth the effort? Or are you simply as your name implies, the "INDEPENDENT" Journal?

Things Could Be Different After Dec. 5 In County Courthouse

Dec. 5 this year could well be the turning point in the political atmosphere of the county courthouse. That's the day when Southern Marin will go to the polls to decide whether Supervisor J. Walter Blair should be replaced by attorney Peter Behr.

There appears to be more at stake than just that one position. For example, if Blair is defeated, the present supervisor majority (Blair, William Fusselman and George Ludy) would be broken, and the weight could shift to the other side.

AMIABLE County Administrator Alan Bruce keeps smiling as he works away in his little cubbyhole and won't let on a thing. In fact we haven't said more than a passing "hello" to him in the last four months.

But unless my appraisal of the man is incorrect, this is what I foresee: If Supervisor Blair wins the recall election on Dec. 5, it's a pretty good bet that Administrator Bruce will be looking for another job. Because even if the administrator's position remains, the supervisors could continue to bypass him on every occasion and give him such a brushoff that I don't think a man of Bruce's caliber could take it smiling. He would no doubt want to be more usefully occupied.

THEN AGAIN, County Clerk George Jones's decision whether to run for another term will be coming sometime after Dec. 5. Just because Jones is a pretty good friend of Blair's, some political pundits are already speculating that Jones is waiting for the outcome of the Blair recall to decide whether he will seek to remain county clerk for another four years.

But this speculation about Jones's decision hinging on the recall outcome should be scotched right here and now. Because Jones himself has told me the recall has nothing whatever to do with his decision. The county clerk is waiting until the first of the year because six months is plenty of time to campaign if he decides to run again.

MY BOSSES probably don't know it yet, but a competitive newspaper has sprung up overnight right under the noses of the I-J. In the city hall right across the parking lot, editor Aurora Leveroni has published the first edition of the San Rafael City Employees Assn. newspaper. It's so new that it doesn't even have a name yet. Its star reporter and shining light is blonde Jeanette Canziani.

SO MANY of the sheriff's squad cars were out of action this week that Frank Keaton donated his 1921 Model-T, completely equipped with flashing light and sheriff's emblem, for the "emergency."

The sheriff himself took it for a 25-minute "test spin" and coaxed it as far as a half block away, where the parts began to disintegrate and the jalopy gasped its last. The remains are being handled by Keaton.

DEPUTY TED Hughes was shopping for a hind quarter of beef hanging from a rack. When the clerk swung it around, it slipped off the rack and struck Hughes on the leg. Officer Hughes, who has been hit and kicked by many a live drunk, declared: "First time I've been kicked by a dead steer."

Should Criticize Government

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In one of your recent letter columns someone wrote "We are the government."

Unless explained, this statebecomes a dangerous half-truth. Under its cover the government could tax us 100 percent, tell us what to eat, what to wear, when to get up, how to think, etc. It would be foolish for us to object for after all "we" would just be deciding these things for ourselves.

Government agents could search our homes anytime of day or night. They wouldn't even have to knock. Why knock on your own door?

We (as individuals) might already be in when "we" (as government) entered and we might still be at home, though slightly shaken, when "we" left.

It is obvious that the government is not the individual.

I believe it is more accurate to consider government under ideal conditions as our agent or representative, to whom we have assigned certain well-defined tasks and given a limited amount of authority barely sufficient to carry out these tasks.

Thus it makes sense to occasionally criticize our various governments, since everybody knows that an agent might occasionally fail to carry out the instructions of those who appointed him and start acting on his own.

Leon De Lisle: Little Man, Big Ideas

By RANDALL GOULD

It seems safe to surmise that few Marinites are possessed by firm conviction that fate destined them to become auditor-controller of their county. But Leon A. De Lisle Sr. is such a man. Fortunately it happens that auditor-controller is just what he is.

"I don't believe I could have one anything else," says De Lisle with an air of mild surprise, mixed with placid resignation.

FORTUNATELY he likes what Providence arranged for him and virtually forced him into at the very time he was about to head up a roofing business in the county where he has lived most of the time since 1906.

The inevitability discerned by De Lisle may be a little hard for others to note at first glance. He had tried many things and disclosed a variety of talents. And still seems today more the artist than the bureaucrat.

As he sits at his courthouse desk there is an elfin sort of twinkle about this little man with big ideas. He's not the heavy boss type. One could perhaps imagine him a draftsman searching for an inspiration. Among many other things he has indeed been a draftsman — and a successful one.

But today he drafts projects, taking immense pleasure when they pan out and refusing to be disconsolate when they don't. He has quite a name for mixing into all manner of county affairs. Not always does he receive a warm reception but one thing is sure—people respect his restless mind.

"Some of my friends like to say I'm a crusader," confesses De Lisle apologetically. "Could be something to it, I guess. I have a lot of notions and I like to try to help things get done better."

IF OTHERS don't always agree with him, and if the De Lisle notions sometimes meet a cold shoulder, their author can shrug it off cheerfully. He figures he's doing pretty well on the percentages.

De Lisle might easily have followed in the steps of his English-born father, Alfred Henry De Lisle, as a civil engineer. He learned the work and did a lot of it during boyhood which began with his birth in Stockton May 8, 1893.

After kindergarten and the start of elementary school for Leon, the family, to which was added a younger brother Ernest now in San Jose, began moving frequently. Young Leon was to attend grammar schools in six cities including San Rafael which he first saw in 1900.

The father's work with the Southern Pacific Railroad was what kept the De Lisles on the move. But schooling received an added spice of variety because of the father's strong personal convictions.

"He had his own views on education and he never stopped studying till his death at 74," De Lisle recalls. "He learned about such things as chemistry (he hoped it would help him find California gold) and astronomy as hobbies.

"Because of his positive ideas he took me out of school for three years. For one thing, he didn't want me to be vaccinated, though finally I was, and he didn't want me to wear glasses. But also he tutored me.

"FATHER WASN'T satisfied till I got to the 24-times table, which I've since forgotten. He set up a special reading course. A result of all this was that I was using logarithms, and trigonometry and geometry in grammar school. In San Rafael I went to the old B Street School, across from where the Independent-Journal is now located.

"My mother was Anne Fraser, born in Scotland, and she could do problems in her head. Then she'd ask 'Why do you need algebra?' She was a terrific reader, interested in nursing, dramatics, many things."

Young Leon found himself doing railroad surveying during his later grammar school and his high school period. Not only did his father teach him, but he was doubly fortunate in working under "one of Marin County's fine engineers, George M. Dodge" so that soon he could run a transit and level and work out railroad curves as well as deal with land surveying.

"One of the very fortunate things about my life," says De Lisle, "is that the people I've worked with have always taken a tutoring approach. Some folk have a bad time. But I was lucky."

Those roving years brought many exciting experiences to the impressionable youth. The family was living in San Francisco at the time of the 1906 earthquake and fire but Leon happened to be with his father, by then chief engineer for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, up at Guerneville on the Russian River the night before the big shock.

A train was thrown over on its side at Point Reyes Station and damage was great all along the line of the San Andreas Fault. Father and son sat on the "cow-catcher" of the only available engine which was sent out to examine the damage to trestles.

A BIG OIL tank had burst at Fulton, Sonoma County," De Lisle recalls. "Oil flooded everything and only the rails showed above it. We went right on to Santa Rosa, and from there we saw the smoke of San Francisco burning.

One train was sent south and only we railroad men were allowed to go. From the ferry Eureka we could see Van Ness Avenue as a chaos of flames and smoke. We went on foot up from the Ferry Building through side streets and found our family in a park, though our flat didn't burn."

These experiences and his heady tastes of adult work led to a briefly painful period when young Leon started at the University of California in Berkeley. He was to study civil engineering, about which he thought he already knew quite a lot.

"The hard truth is that I was too smart for my britches," he confesses now. "I thought I knew more than my teachers. It was my mistake, and it didn't last long."

But his university experience spanned only two years, during which he kept books in vacation time for Pacific Gas and Electric and displayed a knack for drafting. Another possibility tempted him greatly.

An uncle who was a barrister in Vancover, where his parents had been married, arranged for him to join the firm and read law. This was practically settled when World War I upset matters.

Leon's father wanted him to enlist with the Canadians but at last he volunteered in San Francisco for the renowned "California Grizzlies." But instead of ordinary field artillery work, he soon found himself instructing fellow-soldiers in mathematics and other subjects, later giving special instruction to 180 men. He spent 19 months in the army without getting overseas but went to officers' training camp in Kentucky and emerged from service a second lieutenant with additional promotion on the way but never delivered.

AFTER A BOUT with influenza, Leon returned to the PG&E where an early promotion put him into drafting and cost accounting. Then

De Lisle Happy In His Job

County Auditor Enjoys Working For Marinites

AT HOME, Marin County Auditor-Controller Leon A. De Lisle Sr. and Mrs. De Lisle relax, above, with coffee and newspaper. The De Lisles live at 421 Center Blvd., San Anselmo. Mrs. De Lisle was once an assistant in her husband's office. And for exercise, at left, De Lisle can be seen taking his bulldog, Buster, for a walk, although the dog seems to have as much to say as owner about their direction. (Independent-Journal photos)

he became an engineering draftsman at the Sausalito headquarters of the Northwestern Pacific, only to return later to PG&E.

"I was always studying a course of some kind," says De Lisle. Preparation for auditing eventually led to work with Western Sugar Refinery, a Spreckels subsidary whose directors knew too little about its workings.

This was a responsible assignment where De Lisle's job was to study the complete administration, department by department. On a basis of his eventual department report a complete realignment was affected. It was his chance to learn much, including something of politics--"this was a very political group, with the directors watching all the jobs."

Because Joe Fallon, an old-time school chum, decided to run for recorder, partly because his father Tom was county treasurer, De Lisle got his first taste of Marin political life by helping Fallon win the office. De Lisle then became a recorder's assistant.

"But I couldn't take it and I quit after five and a half months," De Lisle recalls. "There was no challenge, just indexing stuff. It wasn't for me."

Leon joined his father who had gone to work for a building and construction firm headed by the late Frank Allen Sr. This meant experience in keeping corporation books, designing and other works as the firm built up to handling as many as 40 jobs at a time.

GRADUALLY, though young Leon got out because he had developed ideas of going into business for himself. Finally he entered real estate with his old friend, John J. Sheehy, and the firm of Sheehy and De Lisle did well until the depression struck.

"I'd known Eugene J. Connel, then county auditor, since our knee-pants days," says De Lisle. "One day I was walking down Fourth Street in San Rafael and I heard Gene wanted to see me. Jobs were hard to find and there was no real estate moving, so I hustled over and went into the auditor's office where I worked part time until 1933.

"Gene started right in to train me from the day I began. By the day he died in January of 1937 there wasn't a thing he did for which I hadn't been trained.

"He knew he had a heart condition, and he even told members of the board of supervisors that I had his recommendation as his successor over older men. I took him home the day he died. After his death I began to get calls asking 'Could you handle the job if you were appointed auditor?' "

De Lisle put in no application. He had been quietly building up "a beautiful drafting business" and although earning only $5 a day at the courthouse, he and his first wife, father of his son, Leon A. De Lisle Jr. of San Rafael, were able to keep a maid. His prospects were good and there was the matter of that roofing business he might head.

BUT A CALL from George S. Jones, then as now county clerk, took him to the supervisors and they wound up by choosing him unanimously after his nomination by Frederick Thompson, brother of the famed author Kathleen Norris, who was initially opposed to him.

"He had it in mind that he wanted a CPA, but the others sold him on me," is how De Lisle puts it.

"I went home and my wife cried. She said I didn't belong in politics. But I threw the other businesses out to take the $300-a-month auditor's job."

Congratulating him editorially, the San Rafael Independent of Jan. 12, 1937, paid tribute to his late chief and to De Lisle's qualifications in general, declaring:

"No better choice could have been made by the supervisors in selecting a man on whom they can confidently lean, to carry on in the stead of one whose experience was of inestimable value and whose judgment was near-infallible in the financial affairs of county government"—a description his friends feel would well apply to De Lisle today.

That he made good was shown by the fact that the voters retained him in office the following year, 1938, and every four years since.

Just before the last election in June of 1958 the Independent-Journal indicated that no disillusionment with him had overtaken the press.

"It looks like De Lisle will lead all the way by a wide margin," commented the I-J, "and that suits us just fine . . . Each term he serves adds to his experience and makes him even more valuable to the county."

A GREAT DEAL of joy and sorrow had come De Lisle's way during the interim between these journalistic pronouncements. On the personal side, sadness had come through the death of his first wife. (A stepson, Scot Tilden, is a Marin landscape gardener.)

As time passed, a "courthouse romance" developed and De Lisle terminated eight years' service in his office by Mary Henderson through the pleasant means of promoting her from aide to wife. This was on April 4, 1946.

The present Mrs. De Lisle is a lady of intelligence and gusto, though she is currently slowed down by a broken leg which she explains as follows: "I came home with some groceries, stepped on a tomato, and went into orbit."

De Lisle himself has a habit of going into orbit, though not as disastrously.

To recount all his exploits as auditor would be impossible, but some have made real Marin history. There was, for instance, the time he was asked in 1950 to make an audit of the ailing county fire department.

This resulted in a "firing of the fire chief" and the I-J of Dec. 22 devoted its whole editorial page to De Lisle's report of departmental irregularities, admonishing its readers that "the time it takes to read these documents in full is time well spent."

Anybody who asked De Lisle for an audit should have learned long before that no slouchy job would result. Back in 1939 he had been turned loose on the "unsavory conditions' of the county farm. No specifications were laid down and De Lisle went over the farm like a fine-tooth rake, giving then-Supervisor T. F. Bagshaw material for a 12-point reform program to clean up what had become known as "a cesspool of politics."

On the constructive side,

THE DATA PROCESSING Bureau is the pride and joy of Auditor-Controller De Lisle. Its creation was "a dream come true" for the veteran county official. which De Lisle prefers to seek, he was a staunch booster for the civic center project. As a member of a supervisor-appointed civic affairs committee he assisted in choice of the late Frank Lloyd Wright as architect.

THERE WAS to come a day when he told the supervisors of the present board that they could stop work on the new administration building, but that they couldn't get him to release civic center-budgeted funds for any county hospital purposes. That crisis blew past.

In some respects De Lisle is reminiscent of the ancient censors who advised Chinese emporers candidly, with guaranteed immunity. He never hesitates to speak his mind freely, a habit he started with his first term. One newspaper of 1938 headlines "Le Lisle Warns of Dangerous Method Of Handling Road Work" and details his admonitions that no single supervisor should try as hitherto to exercise jurisdiction over expenditures in his district.

Recent instances have included his support of "austerity budget" concepts last spring, harking back to 1938 proposals that the supervisors adopt a "requisition" or "encumbering" plan to hold departments inside a fixed budget total. Throughout his career he has been interested in workable taxes and he headed a citizens' committee on business taxes as far back at 1930.

He is likely to come up with timely ideas on any topic of county interest, as witness his proposal last February that San Rafael General Hospital be purchased as a county hospital in preference to rebuilding in Lucas Valley. The list could be multiplied endlessly.

But of all his efforts and achievements, it seems fair to say that creation of the present data processing division within his department has been perhaps closest to the De Lisle heart.

"That is his dream come true," comments wife Mary. "The set-up he has now was his goal for close to 20 years during which he worked toward a modernized automatic system of county accounting."

So many other matters have taken his time and attention that it is hard to see how he managed so much. During 1942-44, for instance, he had the added duties of rationing administrator for the Office of Price Administration in Marin County—a period when, he says, "nobody in the office ever heard our big Seth Thomas clocks tick, we were so busy and there were so many people talking and phone bells ringing."

Avocations have never been forgotten and Marin's auditor has taken pleasure in such studies as drawing and sculpture at the California School of Fine Arts, along with learning Spanish.

LONG STUDY of what could be done toward the present data processing by "automatic brains," or the next thing thereto, led De Lisle to feel that to be justified, at least the tax set-up and the assessor's office must be included. Some resistance was found; Clerk Jones has not boosted such gadgetry, though automatic processing of many phases of his work including elections would seem to offer a tempting prospect.

"We could have gone in before we did," says De Lisle. "The system finally went in easily when I was convinced I could sell it to the board of supervisors four or five years ago."

What started with IBM machinery now seems in process of slipping into even more stupendous electronic achievements, with rental equipment already at work. School districts have patronized the department heavily and a recent computation of results in three county departments indicated that the data processing bureau had saved them $109,805 during the past fiscal year.

What is sought isn't a profit for the bureau headed by Arleigh Sewell, but convincing demonstrations of savings and efficiency for the county.

De Lisle has learned to delegate duties to trained assistants, incidentally. Asst. Auditor Michael Mitchell is his man with the supervisors and this energetic Irishman has disclosed diplomacy as among his many abilities.

Office procedures have been revolutionized, with many ideas brought from other counties and states. Yet De Lisle's deputies have always come back with great sense of pride in the workings of their own office.

Having weathered many battles, De Lisle has learned that there is point in standing aside from them when he can. Good ideas can come as well while raking oak leaves at his home at 421 Center Blvd., San Anselmo, as at his desk in San Rafael, with more fun.

A MEMORABLE sight is De Lisle attached to his big bulldog Buster, endeavoring to establish which direction the two proceed.

Along with his enjoyment of such simple affairs, in contrast with the complex of his official duties, De Lisle is able to bring philosophic perspective to his life at its present stage.

"I was sorry," he recalls, "that my deal to study law fell through. It has seemed to me I would enjoy law. But it isn't creative.

"I like to create things. So I believe what I am is what had to be."

INSIDE the not yet finished administration building at the new Marin County Civic Center, De Lisle peers out through what will become the windows of the auditor-controller's office when county officials move into their new quarters. (Independent-Journal photo)

EMPLOYEES of Mimi Brecka Inc. are hard at work in their quarters in the loft of the Industrial Center Building in Sausalito's Marinship district. They are turning out custom-made clothing for little girls—clothes that are especially designed and made to appeal to children in the 3-to-6-year age group. It is Marin's only garment-making factory and a business that has grown to its present proportions since Mrs. Miriam Brecka of Sausalito launched it two years ago as a one-woman enterprise. In the photo, left to right, are Mary Mike, "Mimi" Brecka, Arthur Oehler, Daisy Warren, Mae Cunningham and Henry Mares.

Clothing That The Kids Enjoy—

That's The Objective Of Mimi Brecka, Inc., The Only Garment-Making Factory In Marin

By BRUCE COLEMAN

In an old loft in Sausalito five people sit cutting, stitching and sewing happily behind a set of dirty windows overlooking Richardson Bay.

They are making aprons, pinafores and smocks for girls in the 3-to-6-year group. They sew the clothing using lots of reds, stripes and plaids and with lively designs such as walruses, ostriches, trains and caterpillars.

It is fun for these stitchers and, according to Miriam Brecka of Sausalito, fun for the children who wear the custom-made clothes they produce.

MRS. Brecka is Mimi of Mimi Brecka, Inc., and co-owner of this, the only garment-making factory in Marin.

"The idea when I started was to make things that the kids enjoy. And it's worked.

"For example, I have seen kids 'pat' an animal, such as a terry cloth lamb on their smock, because they like 'their' animal and smock," Mrs. Brecka said.

One 5-year-old youngster told Mrs. Brecka how she liked the caterpillar which was appliqued on her smock.

"Mimi, it looks like apples with feet."

MRS. BRECKA said a psychiatrist friend believes that when a child wears something she enjoys, she is more likely to take care of it. "They find importance in wearing things they like. They can identify with these things."

Mrs. Brecka is something of a magician at clothes making. Sewing since a child, at one time she made custom suits in Chicago on a small scale.

Two years ago she went into the clothing business on her own for the first time with no equipment, no orders and no assistants.

Today she has four persons working for her in the loft of the Industrial Center Building in Marinship. She has 100 accounts and last year her firm turned out 3,500 garments. She does all of the overall design work.

Orders go to companies such as I. Magnin's in San Francisco and to Neiman-Marcus of Dallas, Tex., which Mrs. Brecka calls "the God of the retail world."

Mrs. Brecka, smiling, attractive brunette, tells of the first day she went to San Rafael to try to sell her products.

"I HAD four samples," she said. "I wanted to see what reaction I would get. At the first place I was told 'All I see in this is 40 cents worth of denim.' I almost killed him," said the designer.

"I went around the corner to Dorothy Fricks at Housman's and got my first order. Then, I didn't have anybody working for me so I had to come back here and make it. Four days later, Miss Fricks said she had sold the whole works and asked me to do it all over again."

"In 1959 I made $135."

"I went to Magnin's and got an order. A friend took some to Los Angeles. On the first of March I got $1,000 worth of orders in one day. Then I got people in to work. By the end of last year we had shipped to over 100 accounts."

Mrs. Brecka says her business of which she is one of three partners, is a lot of fun. But, she said, it's hard work, too.

"MY DRESSES are novelty things."

"The market is glutted with straight dresses. These are custom made, almost everything is lined. Retail prices run between $8 and $20.

"And one important thing is that these come out of

"Did Carelessness Damage My Tablecloth?"

Your lovely tablecloths were stained without being used! You took them fresh from the linen closet shelves saw the stains and feel the laundry must have stained them.

Here is what happens frequently in such cases. Celluloid or other plastics containing nitro cellulose can cause this damage. When stored near tablecloths in linen closets, they have been known to decompose in warm, restricted air, releasing nitric acid which scars the cloths.

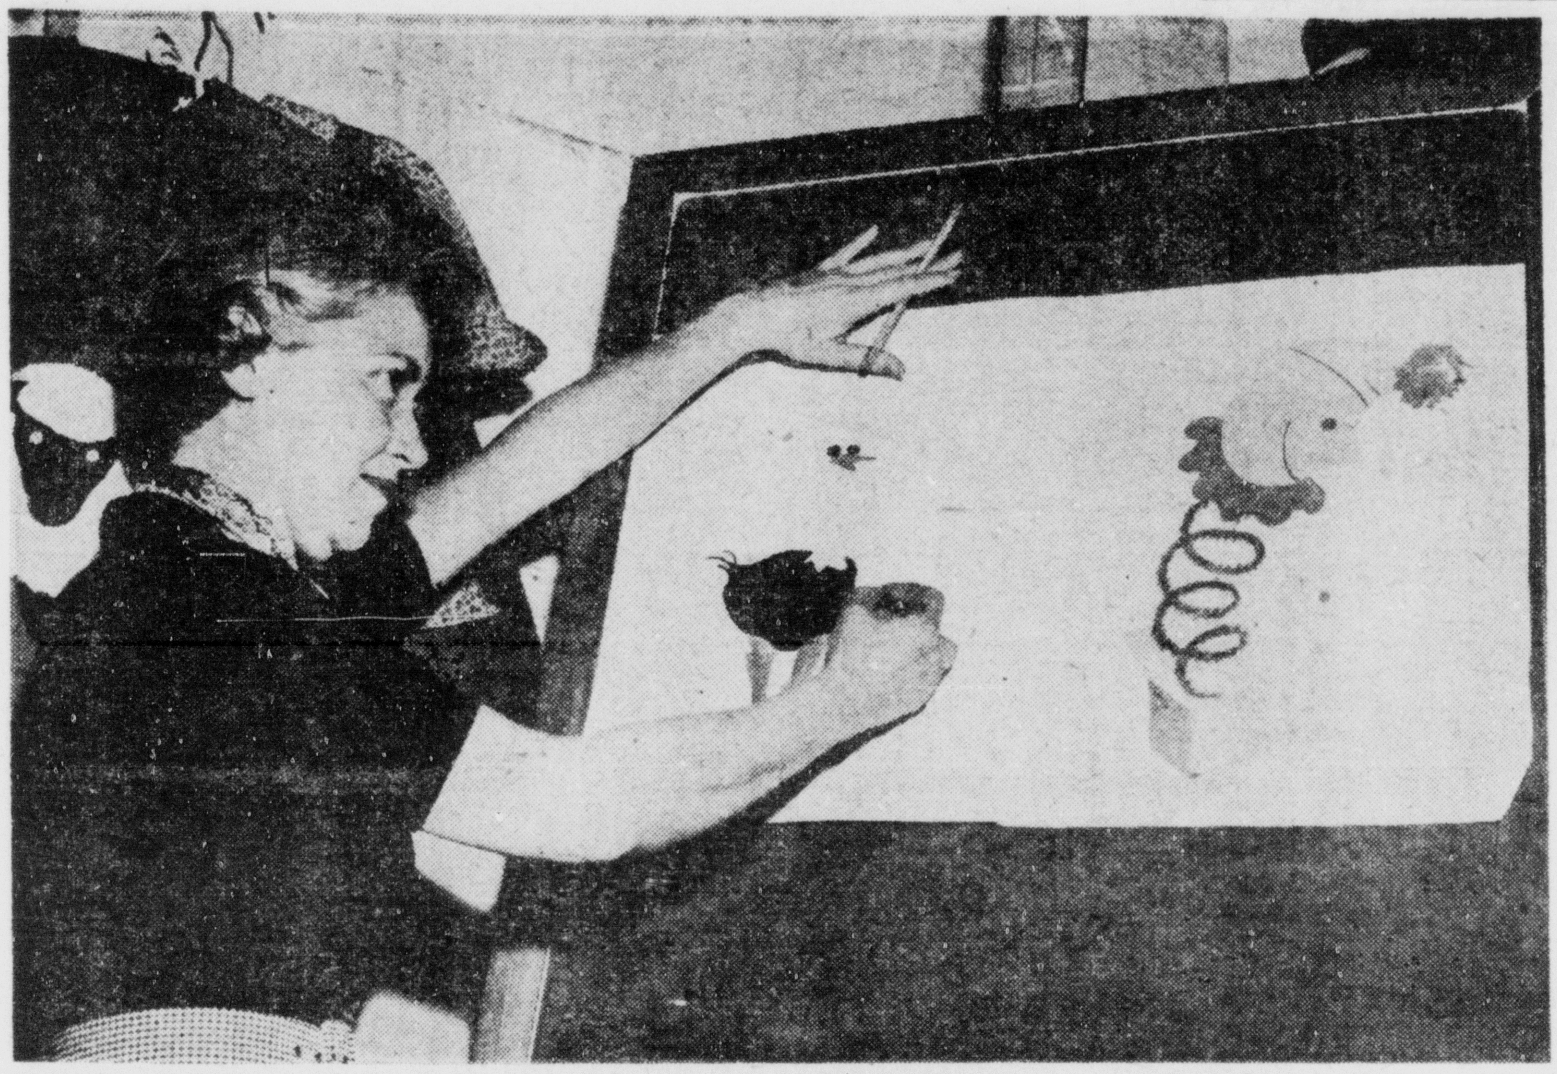

Chemical damage occurs also from the customer's own medicine cabinet or kitchen aids, according to the Better Business Bureau which has studied such complaints. Metal polish, porcelain cleaners, peroxide, and many astringents contain corrosive ingredients. Their stains cause chemical deterioration and the weakened areas become holes when the fabrics are laundered, even if a stain is not apparent.

You will get better wear from clothing and other fabrics if you are careful to keep your garments and linens away from our modern plastics, detergents, medicines and beauty aids. It was not cleansing carelessness that stained your tablecloths.

Sausalito. Sausalito is beginning to develop quite a name."

The area where children's clothing is made is something of a Santa's sewing shop. There are three rows of machines behind which the band of operators sit and hum away at zigzags, overlocks, seams and button holes.

On the floor are threads and cuttings in bright colors. On a long table are boxes of buttons. Old fashioned irons stand around to be used as weights. Patterns with numbers hang from the wall and dress forms stand around, headless, between racks of bright garments and cutting tables.

THERE is a table where the smock makers have their coffee. One large box is piled high with scraps which are to go to charitable organizations. Another box is full of selvage, used to tie bundles.

The large windows overlooking the bay are dirt-streaked. "I had them washed once," said Mrs. Brecka. "It cost $50 and in two weeks they were just as dirty. So I leave them."

Sewing machines are leased from Irma Hazard of Sausalito. Miss Hazard had a school of dressmaking in San Francisco for 30 years and is Mrs. Brecka's pattern maker.

"If you don't have a good pattern maker, you're sunk," she said.

MISS HAZARD is one of several Sausalitans who work for Mrs. Brecka in what the latter calls a "community project." John Sutton, who works next door to the factory, does silk screen designs which are used on garments. Block maker Bix Bailey makes blocks and Marjo Imlay makes designs. Both are of Sausalito.

Away from her sewing machine, worker Mae Cunningham says that between she and Mrs. Brecka they produce the walruses.

"I make the stubble, the French knots," said Mae. "Mrs. Brecka makes the whiskers. Neither one of us can do the opposite jobs."

THEY like to tell of how, sometimes, when in a big hurry to finish an order, they sew one part of a garment to another part thus losing it.

"We get frantic," said Mrs. Brecka.

Or of the time they shipped four dozen smocks with little red school houses on them without the "eye brows."

"Of course, the people who got them didn't know the difference. But we felt sorry about it," said Mrs. Brecka.

The mascot at the loft is "Bugle" the beagle. The day we visited he had to sleep on a scrap of denim since Mae had taken his bed home to be washed and forgot to return it.

"Bugle's mad at Mae," said Mrs. Brecka.

MAE, who is from Corte Madera, is an operator as is Daisy Warren of San Anselmo. Mary Mike of Sausalito is a finisher and Art Oehler is cutter and production supervisor. He lives in San Francisco but Mrs. Brecka said "We'll get him to move over." Oehler was once a student of Miss Hazard.

Mrs. Brecka said, "Me? I'm a bookkeeper, stenographer, designer, operator, cutter, errand boy."

"We live in an animal world really," she added.

"ONE of the problems in the animal world, though, is interpreting what the stores ask for. Like that worm can be called a worm, a caterpillar or apples with legs."

"Once someone asked for the lamb calling it a bull. They called the ostrich a giraffe. I say, 'Mae, have you made those worms yet?"

"The thing that drives me nuts is trains. Each engine, boxcar and caboose has windows which must be done separately. Each piece drives me crazy."

"The most satisfying thing I have is the response from children wearing this stuff."

She even has designed an artist's smock made of unbleached muslin with a blue tie. On it are handprints of a Sausalito child.

"It's fun for the kids," she said.

INTO THE MAILBOX in front of the Industrial Center Building in Sausalito go some shipments of childrens clothing from Mimi Brecka Inc. which is headquartered in the loft of the Marinship building. The mailer is Mimi herself—Miriam Brecka, co-owner of the business.

IN HER NATIVE BRAZIL, she was Therezinha Mattos, daughter of a Rio de Janeiro attorney. And she appeared frequently on television as she is doing here.

Gigi Plans To Bring Bit Of Rio To Marin County

Gigi presents "Carnaval in Rio."

The announcement is well ahead of the presentation date—which will be sometime in February or March of 1962. And still lacking before the entertainment plans jell are: A production, a theater, a cast, and a sponsoring organization.

BUT IF anyone doubts that "Carnaval in Rio" will take place, let him take note that on the credit side there is Gigi and an idea. And if he doesn't think that is enough, he doesn't know Gigi.

Gigi is Therezinha Mattos Sill, or, at home in Corte Madera where she presides as the wife of the manager of the Corte Madera branch of the Crocker-Anglo Bank, Mrs. Beverly Sill.

Husband Beverly, whose public service contribution is a story by itself, and their three children aid and abet Gigi in her projects.

Let's go back a bit. Gigi, nee Therezinha Mattos, is the daughter of a Rio de Janeiro attorney. After careful schooling Therezinha appeared on television in Brazil, first as an actress and then in the production of TV shows.

Beverly Sill attended an international convention in Rio and came home with the prize. A promise from Therezinha. They were married in 1956. You still have to struggle to understand Gigi's English except when she gets excited. Then you just give up.

Gigi got her nickname in a very mundane manner. While learning to bowl at Greenbrae Lanes she had an affinity for the trenches on either side of the lanes. This is called rolling a gutter ball. It shows on the score sheet as a "G". Hence G.G. She also plays tennis and skates.

In 1960 Gigi gathered her first amateur group in her new country and coaxed, scolded and encouraged it into a presentation. Presented at the Corte Madera Recreation Center before the Lions Club, it was a roaring success.

HER NEXT presentation, "Carnaval in Rio" is in production. All of the background music has been taped in Brazil. The chorus is in rehearsal every Wednesday night in the nursery at Greenbrae Lanes. The script is being prepared. She has the assistance of Arminda Crespo, formerly with Fanchon and Marco and others; France Tartarian, who teaches and dances Afro-Cuban; San Rafael's Belrose Studio; Novato's Jean Scott Studio, and Jean Simpson who makes costumes.

All Gigi needs is: A sponsoring organization to benefit from the proceeds; a theater or hall with adequate facilities, and a few more talented amateurs, preferably male.

"It is bound to be a success," says Gigi. At least we think that's what she said. She was excited.

Marin's Disappearing Indian Sites

Bulldozers And Untrained Amateurs Are Taking Heavy Toll Of This Resource

There are more than 300 known archaeological sites in Marin County, according to Norman Wilson, archaeologist and assistant supervisor of Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

Of that total, one-third has already been destroyed, and most of the remainder face eventual destruction unless steps are taken to preserve them or their contents, Wilson adds.

"Although Marin County is rich in archaeology, virtually every Indian site is doomed to eventual destruction unless people do something about it," is the way he puts it.

One reason for the critical situation, he explains, is that "the Indians knew a good building site just as well as our people today do. So many of our homes are being built in the same locations once used by Indians. And when the bulldozers come, valuable artifacts are ruined."

Wilson stresses that the Southwestern Anthropological Society, in which he is active, does not always advocate "saving" the known Indian sites. "But it does want a chance to salvage artifacts before they are destroyed," he says.

MARIN, Wilson notes, has a pre-history that may go back several thousand years. Sites that have been found to date are probably two or more thousand years old. But, he says, there is no reason to believe that there are not much older sites in the county that have not yet been discovered or identified. Archaeologists have recorded and excavated sites in other parts of this state believed to be 20,000 or more years old.

"The rising sea level which followed the melting of the glaciers of the last ice age may have covered up many of the oldest sites along the Marin sea coast," says Wilson, "but there is a good possibility that very old sites are yet to be identified in the inland valleys."

Wilson says that although the coastal Miwok Indians lived in Marin County at the time the first explorers arrived here, there is reason to believe that other groups and different cultures have lived in Marin for many thousand years. Determining the nature of these cultures is one of the more vital problems concerning archaeologists of the area. And the rapid destruction of village and burial sites in the county are diminishing the chances of the scientists to unravel this problem.

"Since Indians enjoyed living in the valleys and along the coasts where present Marin citizens also build their homes, the destruction of old village sites is especially severe and has been so for years," the archaeologist reports.

Wilson also notes that the sites that could have proved for certain, once and for all, whether Sir Francis Drake made his historic landing in San Francisco Bay, as so many scholars believe, have been virtually wiped out by the heavy use of land along Marin's shoreline.

WILSON adds that archaeological sites on the Pt. Reyes Peninsula may possibly be saved by future federal ownership although many have already been destroyed. Even those sites that seem safe now in the remote reaches of the ranches of northern Marin County may become in jeopardy in the future.

Wilson sees an Indian village as being "like the clues in a good detective story. Once it is moved or destroyed it is gone and it becomes valueless. Then the mysteries which is would have unveiled may remain unsolved forever."

One of the basic techniques used by archaeologists is the careful recording of information about the position and depth of features discovered in his excavation. With this data and a careful study of objects recovered he later can reconstruct the life habits and resources of the group. By careful comparison with other collections and reports he can often determine relationships with other areas and establish the age of the find.

This careful study is impossible, Wilson points out, in a site turned over by heavy equipment of land development and can become very confused or impossible in a village site dug by persons without any control who are only looking for souvenirs.

"Many people do not realize that archaeological values are a resource of our land no less valuable than a stand of redwoods or an untouched tidal pool," says Wilson. "The

THIS, SAYS Norman Wilson, archaeologist, is the proper way to go about excavating for artifacts. Experts have done the work at a Contra Costa County site. They have succeeded in uncovering the artifacts in as undamaged a condition as is humanly possible. And they have kept a detailed and accurate record of their finds in the sequence in which they have been uncovered.

HERE WE HAVE an example of an archaeological site which had been ruined before archaeologists learned of its existence. The locale is on the delta near Stockton. Artifacts there were estimated to be 4,000 years old. But bulldozers preparing the land for a housing development and amateur artifact hunters—"pot hunters," Norman Wilson calls them—destroyed most of the historical and scientific value of the relics.

Archaeologist Warns That Marin Is Needlessly Wasting This Resource

one difference is, of course, that the Indian site when destroyed can never be replaced even by the most careful planning and protection of the conservationist as can a redwood grove or a natural scene. We cannot hope to save all archaeological sites in the path of progress but we should be aware of their great value to the knowledge of our past and give the archaeologist the chance to record and study these evidences of the human past before they are destroyed.

"In many cases where extremely valuable archaeological sites are discovered they should be saved and protected with the same positive force that we use to protect our few parks and stretches of coastline so that the future generations can enjoy them and learn about the record of first peoples of Marin.

"Had we been careful we might already know the exact landing place of Drake and Cermeno instead of wondering if these great historic spots are fill under some shopping center,"

WHAT SHOULD you do if you should find an archaeological site?

Wilson offers this advice:

"Since all archaeological sites are not known, it is important that the person who discovers the site, whether it be a shell mound, village site, burial ground or any other evidence of Indian occupation, should report it to the proper authority.

"In Marin County you could notify by mail the State Park Archaeologist, P. O. Box 2390, Sacramento. He keeps records of archaeological sites throughout the state. You could write the Department of Anthropology, at San Francisco State College. The University of California at Berkeley, although not actively recording sites, could refer the information to the proper authority.

"The person who reports the site may have an archaeologist visit the site or he may have a site record sent to him to be filled out. This form records information about the site that makes it possible to give evaluation to the site for future information or for immediate investigation.

"If at all possible, the site should not be disturbed until an archaeologist visits the area and has a chance to investigate it. In the case of sites being destroyed by land development where it is impossible to halt the destruction, a collection of artifacts should be made from the site with special note given to keeping items that are found together in separate boxes or bags. An attempt should be made to record size and depths of the site and depths of any burials or artifacts found. If any other persons should find things at the site that they will not give up, they should be recorded by sketch and notes. All bones from burials should be kept together and placed in brown paper bags and notes and details should be penciled on the bag as to depth and position and any objects found with them.

"If you have collections of artifacts from archaeological sites in Marin County, they should be recorded as to where they were found, were they found in groups with other objects and try to list the groups. Often many items were buried with human burials and should be so recorded.

"In the case of projectile points, shell ornaments, stone pipes and any other objects of interest, they should be sketched by simple line drawing showing scale, and this information sent to the state park archaeologist in Sacramento. He is not interested in obtaining these collections but rather in gathering information about the county's archaeological resources. He will in turn, if possible, give you information about your collections and in many cases may want to make a more complete record of your finds. The archaeologist likes to discourage private collecting because it cannot help but destroy many of the valuable features of Indian sites such as house floors, burial patterns cultural changes, etc., which the untrained person rarely ever recognizes or records in his search for the fancy objects which catch his eye."

WILSON SAYS that it is hoped that California will have in the future many trained persons capable of unraveling archaeological problems in the proper manner—"many of them dedicated amateurs."

"There is no reason," he says, "why, with some training, many of the interested persons in this county, acting under the supervision of one or two professional archaeologists, could not save many of the archaeological values now in the path of destruction."

"These must," Wilson believes, "be many fine collectors of Indian artifacts in our county who would find it more interesting to dig up the past, discovering new and interesting facets to the ways of the Indians. They could help contribute to the collections of public museums so that all can see and learn this great story, instead of adding to their own collections which are never enjoyed by more than a few and deprive the scientist of badly-needed information."

Wilson did his undergraduate and graduate work in field archaeology at Sacramento College. He was a field foreman in several archaeological digs in central and northern California. He taught archaeology at Sacramento State College, then worked at the California State Indian Museum in Sacramento for a year and a half. For another year and a half he was an exhibit planner for the history section of the Division of Beaches and Parks, planning the Marshall Gold Discovery Museum and other exhibits within the park system.

He came to Taylor Park in Marin in December of 1960 as the assistant supervisor.

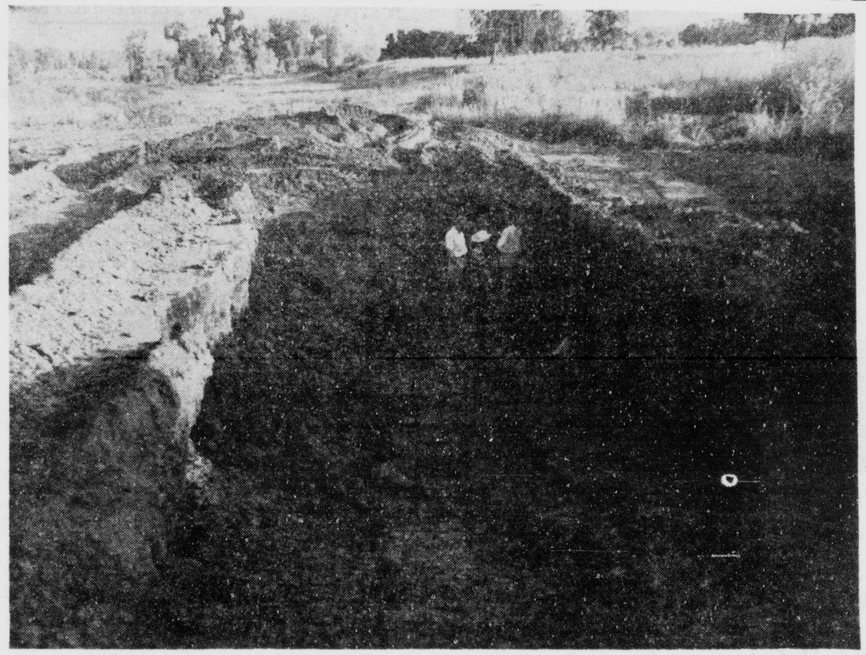

One of his pet projects was his part in 1959 in the founding of the Central California Archaeological Foundation. He terms it "a unique experiment on how to get archaeological work done."

The foundation consists of a dozen professional archaeologists whose main purpose is to raise funds to rescue artifacts from sites about to be destroyed. Funds come from various public-spirited organizations.

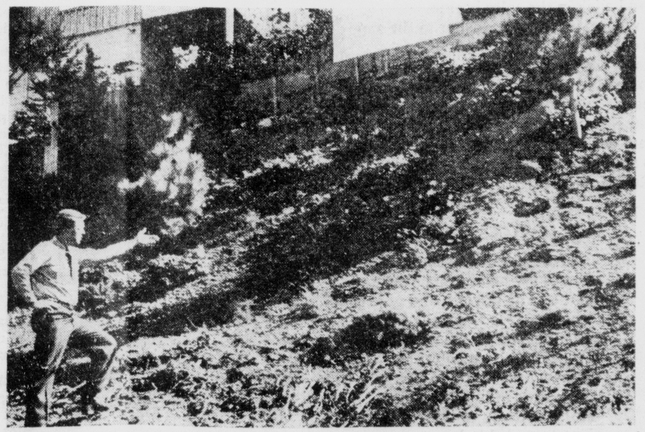

FOR INSTANCE, one industry was engaged in constructing a pipeline from the Oregon border to San Francisco. The foundation asked it to provide funds for an archaeological survey to be made before the digging began. The industry agreed. And the foundation was able to hire archaeologists who discovered two ancient Indian sites in the path of the pipeline that would have otherwise been destroyed and the contents lost.

This is the kind of thing that Wilson and his fellow archaeologists would like to see more of. Including right here in Marin.

And, they warn, every day that such programs are delayed, a bit of Marin history is likely to go down the drain, the victim of the bulldozers or the fumbling hands of amateurs.

A DELIBERATE piece of destruction ruined artifacts here. Contractors building a levee turned a deaf ear to the pleas of archaeologists that they be allowed to first salvage artifacts. Instead the bulldozers went ahead. Here, too late, archaeologists finally get a look and find only remnants of artifacts remaining. (State Indian Museum photo)

HERE, SAYS Norman Wilson, there was once the remains of an Indian village that might have yielded a wealth of historical information to the archaeologists. But a Belvedere housing project overturned and moved the earth — and the valuable artifacts with it — and the archaeological data was lost forever to science. (Independent-Journal photos)

AN OUTCROPPING containing Indian artifacts along the Tiburon Highway receives the attention of Norman Wilson. Wilson pointed out evidence that amateurs had already visited the spot, pecked away at the outcropping and undoubtedly removed many of the old Indian pieces. Thus archaeologists were deprived of another opportunity to learn about Marin history.

VIOLINIST David Abel will be the guest artist next Friday night when the Marin Symphony Orchestra opens its tenth annual concert series in the Marin Catholic High School auditorium at Greenbrae.

San Francisco Artist Will Open Concerts

A young San Francisco violinist will be the guest artist when the Marin Symphony Orchestra opens its 10th annual series of concerts this coming Friday evening at 8:30 at the Marin Catholic High School auditorium in Greenbrae.

For David Abel, it will be a repeat engagement with the Marin Symphony. He played in its 1956 Livermore Memorial Concert under the direction of William Van der Burg.

Now in his mid-20s, Abel has achieved a meteoric rise to the top ranks among the younger violinists. Critics have praised him for his musical judgment and his poetic insight.

He was born in the state of Washington but now makes his home in San Francisco.

He studied first under Naoum Blinder, concertmaster of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and made his debut with that orchestra at the age of 14. He has appeared with, in addition to the San Francisco Symphony, the Boston Symphony, the Los Angeles Symphony and the Ravinia Orchestra in Chicago. During the current season he will also perform with the Honolulu Symphony and he will be featured soloist in the national tour of the Minneapolis Symphony under its new director, Stanislaw Skrowaczewski.

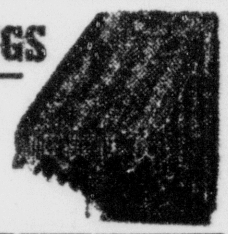

He is well known to radio and television audiences, having made appearances in both the East and West.

Friday night he will play the "Concerto in D Major for Violin, Opus 61," by Beethoven.

Also on the program will be Glinka's overture "Russlan and Ludmilla," Ravel's "Mother Goose Suite" and Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait" with Dr. Robert Loper narrating.

Stan Freberg Tells How The Gobbler Lost Out

STAN FREBERG PRESENTS THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA — with Billy May's music, Paul Frees, narrator, and the Jud Conlon Singers—Capitol Stereo SW 1573.

With Thanksgiving coming upon us, it might be interesting to learn from this original musical review that the turkey was supposed to become our national bird, but was mistakenly substituted for roast eagle with all the trimmings at our first Thanksgiving Dinner! This is just a dash of Stan Freberg's satiric view of early Americana, created specifically for the stereo disc.

The liner notes promise that careful listening to this record will disclose why Mr. Freberg flunked American history in high school. The first of four albums (this one sub-titled, "The Early Years") making up a history spectacular, this is according to Freberg, "The most significant contribution to American history since Grant took Custer."

Most listeners' favorite seems to be "Take an Indian to Lunch This Week" with its message on the mendacity of many integration efforts. The Declaration of Independence is logically graced with the tune "A Man Can't Be Too Careful What He Signs These days." The stereo effects are very clever and funny and contribute greatly to the overall production, which is done up in real style, to say the least.

LEONARD BERNSTEIN DISCUSSES HUMOR IN MUSIC — Columbia Stereo MS 6225.

This is another in a series of Bernstein lecture on disc, and the first in stereo. As on his famed TV programs, the uniquely talented Bernstein talks to his audience, plays examples on the piano, leads the orchestra in short snatches, and even sings himself.

His view of the comic in music will enrich the listening experience of all music lovers. His charm and easy informality are used to present his lecture painlessly.

Most of the second side of the disc is taken up with an un-cut performance of Richard Strauss's "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" by Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic. After the lucid explanations prior to the music, all sorts of new insights are found during the listening experience. This broadening lecture on what he calls "the game of notes" stands as an altogether successful educational project and reminds me of his "What Is Jazz?" also on Columbia and highly recommended.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

BIRTH

Invisable wings
Brush a moistened brow,
And through the darkness
Entering a rapidly beating heart
Comes the voice of God
To soothe a soul;
To lift it above the surrounding ache and pain;
To loose it to the ethereal ectasy of creation.
Then . . . Hark! A cry . . .
The moistened brow is dry.
Eyes, now clear from pain, open
To behold . . . a new born babe.

INTO DRIFTWOOD

I am beached on high sands of the tide brittle, barren
and I click in the salty breeze.
No green will again whisper to the sap to cry its flow along the thickening, quickening branch;
nor will I nest a shape
feel a feathered pulse in hidden crotches.
Unlichened and bleached by the tumult of the seasons
I am boned to the moon's slow rhythm to spread my silver on the wind.

ARROWS IN THE AIR, 1959 — DAVINA KOSH

I HAVE NO WORDS

I have no words to comfort grief,
Nor is my hand's touch sure
To send its warmth and give relief.
I have no ready cure;
I cannot say "Time will erase . . . "
Or, "Things are better so."
I know how well time stops its pace,
How fires of hope burn low.
But, oh, if you could feel my heart,
The tears behind my eyes,
You'd know my grieving is a part
Of what within you lies.

BOOK REVIEWS

Some Help In Understanding The Spirit Of Today's Asia

THE ARC OF CRISIS by Claude A. Buss, Doubleday and Co., 492 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

The somewhat awesome title and subtitle of Stanford University Professor Claude A. Buss's volume—"The Arc of Crisis: Nationalism and Neutralism in Asia Today"—may tend to frighten off the potential reader. It is unfortunate if it does so; for Americans have need to understand Asia, and Buss's book does much to bring such understanding.

In dispassionate, factual manner, Buss discusses what Asians think of the United States—and why; the aims, aspirations and compulsions of the peoples of the world's most thickly populated sector; the varying governments and attitudes in the nations of Southeast Asia and Indonesia.

The "Spirit of '76" stirs Asians. But United States policies (or lack of them) in the years since World War II have disillusioned these same Asians. At the Bandung conference of 1955, where 29 nations met to plan cooperation for the future, it was not prowestern diplomats but Mao Tse Tung of Communist China who emerged as the hero. "Never had Asian opinion of the United States been so low!" writes Buss. "China was regarded as a dove of peace, the United States as a screaming eagle or snarling lion. In exactly 10 years—from 1946 to 1955—we had plummeted from the heights to the depths."

"The Arc of Crisis" explains why this happened, and what has happened since.

In Asia—as still more recently in Africa—millions upon millions of people have emerged suddenly from the murky twilight of colonialism into the blinding light of independence.

If the United States is to continue to exercise world leadership in this situation, she needs greater understanding of the eager but troubled peoples of these newly independent nations than she has shown to date. Her diplomats and politicians are handicapped because the American public at large knows .and cares so little about the "Spirit of '76" as transmuted to the 20th Century and to other peoples. "The Arc of Crisis" provides enlightenment—and makes interesting reading as well.

TOUCH FOOTBALL by Dean Stanbury and Frank DeSantis, Sterling Publishing Co., 128 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Touch football has long been an American sport, but it has enjoyed something of a boom in popularity of late because of the Kennedy family's well-published addiction to the game.

Certainly it has some definite advantages. It does not pose the injury threat of regular tackle football. It does not require elaborate gear. It does not require as large or well-kept a playing field. As the authors point out in this book, it can be played by adults in their 40s as well as children. And even the girls and women can join in the fun.

Certainly it offers one means of whetting your appetite for athletic competition and healthful exercise.

In this book, the authors go into the game comprehensively. Covered are the rules, the fundamentals, tactics, formations, special plays, league organization, etc.

We don't think it is necessary to go into the game this deeply in order to enjoy it. On the other hand, if you do find its more technical aspects interesting, we see no harm in reading and studying this book.

HAVOC by William Bixby, Longmans, Green and Co., 180 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Dick Steinheimer.

"Be praised, my God, for our Sister Mother Earth who sustains and governs us . . ."

This idea of the earth governing man was expressed by St. Francis of Assissi. The concept of violent natural disasters governing man in a similar way is the theme of the new volume Havoc.

Bixby, drawing on a number of sources, describes in quotes and narrative scenes from the world's greatest earthquakes, tornadoes, hurricanes, volcanic eruptions, floods and avalanches.

He concludes with brief reference to the basic unsolved problems facing the earth sciences, i.e. effect of man increasing the carbon dioxide content of the atmosphere, effects of the interchange of waters through the Bering Straits and across the shallow Greenland shelf and other such questions in oceanography and biology.

Perhaps the most graphic description of man's terror in the face of the earth's movements is in the description of the avalanche that destroyed the Alpine village of Blons in 1954.

Here man had constructed homes in natural avalanche canyons and though destruction did not come for several centuries, it came in 1954.

THE PASSION OF GABRIELLE by Malcolm Stuart Boylan, Crown Publishers Inc., 256 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

A sizeable portion of author Boylan's cast of characters is comprised of spies and political opportunists. And the book centers around a struggle for power on a Caribbean island just coming into independence. But don't be fooled by that. This delightfully off-beat novel isn't the usual intrigue and adventure yarn by a long shot.

Boylan writes with a wonderful tongue-in-cheek manner that emphasizes the humor of his situations without in any way detracting from the very human qualities of his characters. And at the same time he manages to preserve some suspense, although, most certainly, this is secondary to other aspects of his story.

The Caribbean setting is excellently handled. And we think you will enjoy meeting the voodoo temptress who sets out to win the presidency of the new nation; the music-hungry Negro priest who is her nemesis; the dwarf with the basso voice; the Calypso-singing one-legged beach rat and all the other colorful personages who appear in these pages. Most of all, we think you will enjoy Boylan's witty and refreshing style of writing. It is most certainly a welcome change of pace from the melodramatics encountered in most spy yarns. And it makes for "fun" reading.

Madeline: Now She's In London

MADELINE IN LONDON by Ludwig Bemelmans, Viking, 56 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Lee Adams.

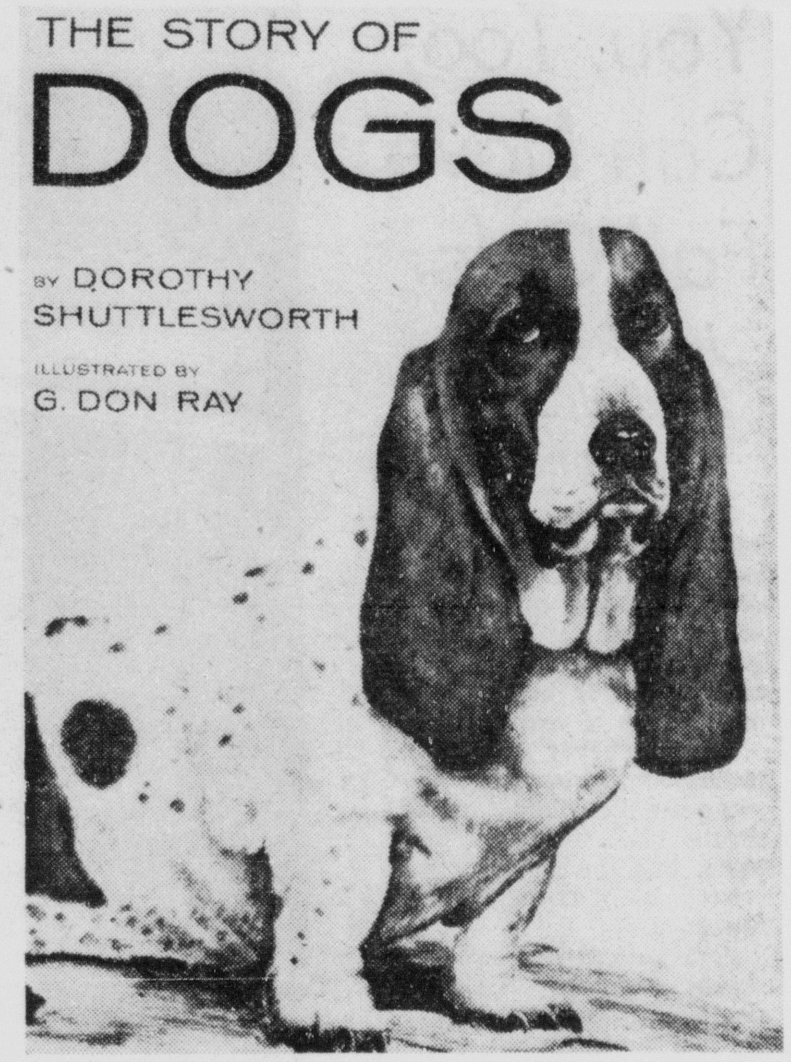

"In an old house in Paris that was covered with vines Lived twelve little girls in two straight lines . . ."

And so begins again, in a serene, orderly, unsuspecting fashion, the latest disaster of Madeline. Of course, she doesn't mean to, but, nevertheless, she manages once more to totally disrupt the institutional life of the orphanage—to say nothing of the Spanish Embassy's protocol. How would YOU like a horse from the glue factory in YOUR garden?

Naturally, the children would love it!

This book is no exception to the rule that whatever tends to set parental hairs on end will more than likely win the hearts of children.

Simple rhyme (not always distinguished, but always humorous) combined with an abundance of pictorial color, and the incorrigible moppet herself, make for another memorable episode with Madeline.

THE STORY OF DOGS by Dorothy Shuttlesworth, Doubleday and Co., 58 11-by-8½-inch pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This is one of Doubleday's generally excellent series of nature books for young people. But so well done is it that it will have a strong appeal for dog lovers of all ages.

It might be noted, however, that the text is aimed at the person who is not knowledgeable in the field. Experts will learn little or nothing new from the text. But the person who likes dogs but is not deeply informed about them will find the book excellent.

And even the experts are certain to "flip" over the superb illustrations which have been provided by G. Don Ray. Many of these pictures of the various breeds are in color. Miss Shuttlesworth supplements the art with text detailing the characteristics and backgrounds of these breeds. And she tells the story of the dog from his prehistoric ancestors to today's highly bred animal.

STEREO HI-FI

The next series of articles will review the various components normally used in a stereo home music system. The heart of the music system is the stereo preamplifier-amplifier usually combined into one unit. This component contains all of the knobs necessary to provide the user complete control of volume, tone, choice of program material (that is selection of phono, radio, tape, etc.) and necessary equalization and acoustic compensation.

The function of the preamp-amp is to accept all of the components used for program source such as record player, radio FM-AM tuner, and tape recorder, and amplify these signals from their extremely low level to the high power levels required to operate the loudspeaker systems. The preamp section of the unit is the control section described in the first paragraph.

Modern amp-preamp units are of the stereo variety; that is, they really consist of two amp-preamps mounted on one chasis with one set of controls instead of two separate sets of controls. The stereo amp-preamp, usually called an integrated amplifier, feeds sound signals into two speaker systems.

Integrated amplifiers range in price from approximately $90.00 to $300.00. Visit our Hi-Fi Stereo store for more information and demonstration of the integrated amplifiers.

You, Too, Can Have Fall Color

Just Rely On Berried Shrubs As Brighteners

If there's fault to be found with California's climate, it would have to be in the lack of fall foliage color it produces in our gardens. Unlike gardeners in the East we have to scratch for bright leaves at this time of year.

There's never a lack of Holiday decor, however, when you grow the colorful berried shrubs that thrive in these parts. And the gardener who relies heavily on them will be rewarded.

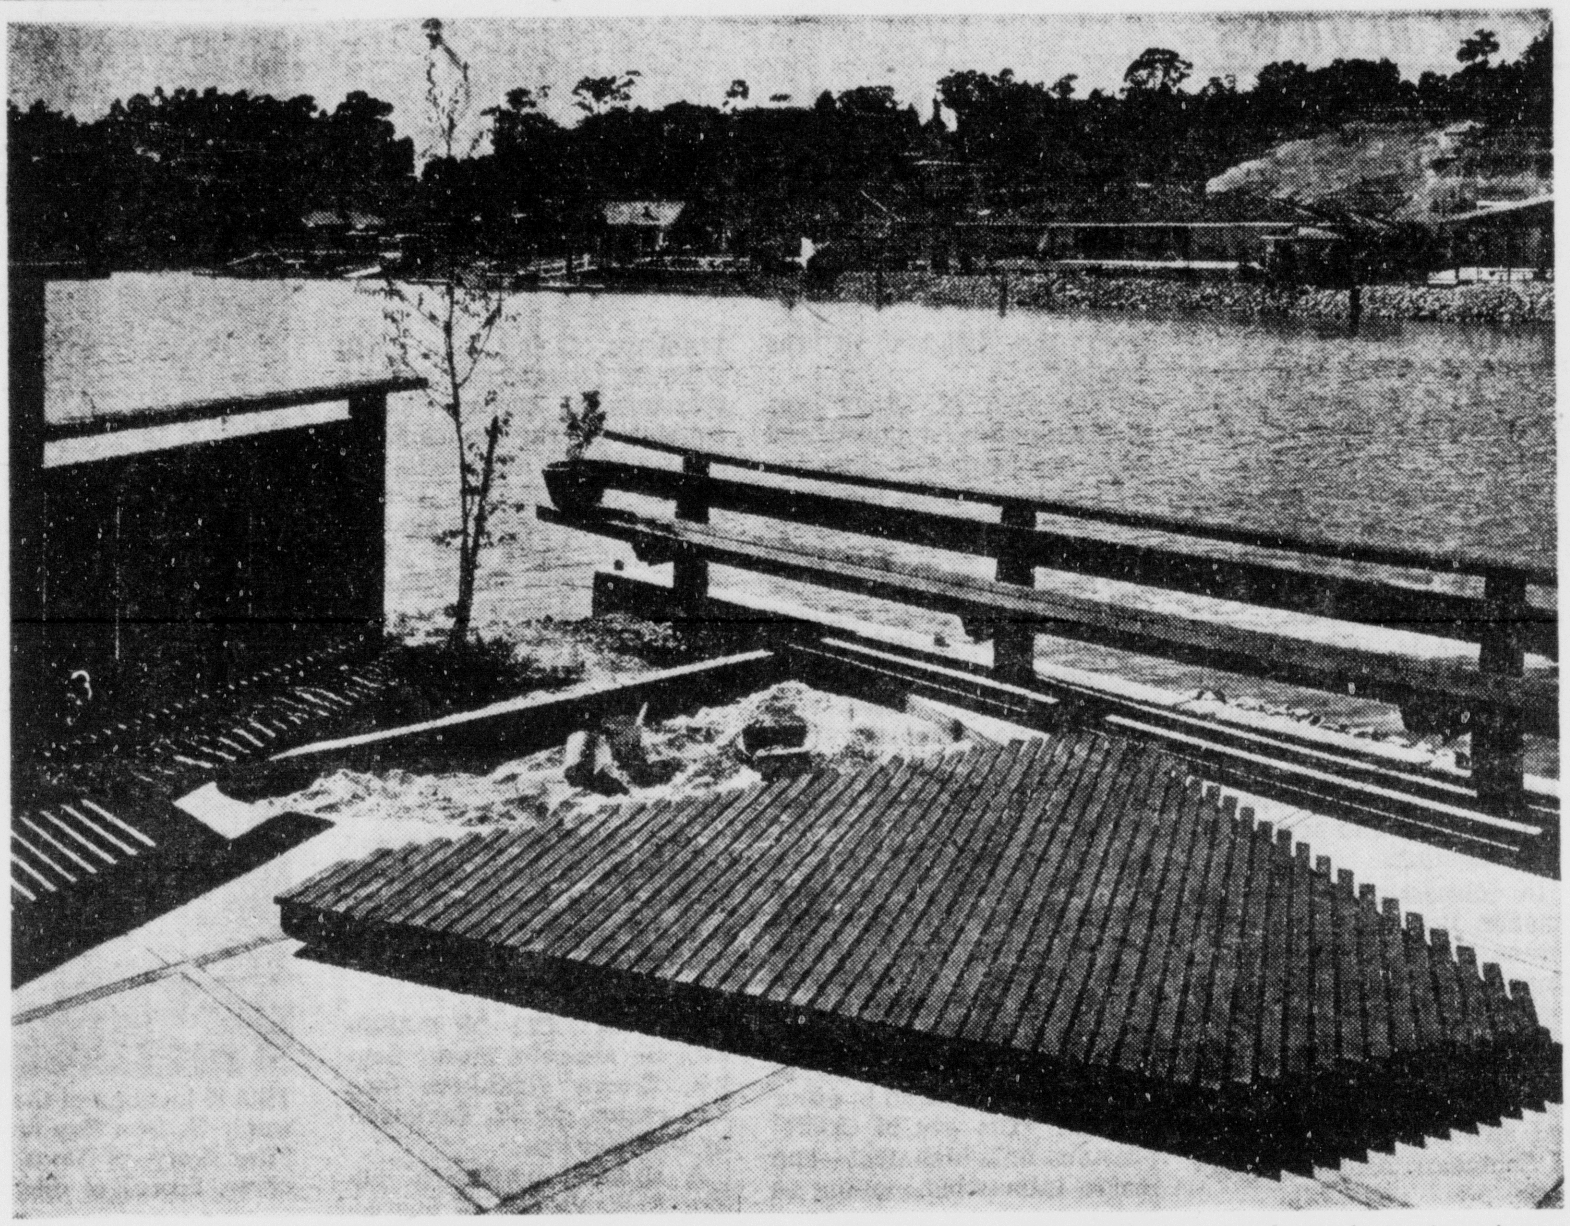

Pyracanthas—those prolific shrubs — produce bright berries by the ton. Cotoneasters are less bountiful but no less colorful when their overall mass is considered. Hollies love our climate and such lesser lights as Heavenly Bamboo or our native Christmas Berry are also welcome additions to the autumn scene.

Given the choice of one only of the above, you'd have to choose Pyracantha. By planting several of its many varieties you can have berries through many months. The orange-berries Pyracanthas start toward the end of summer and the later reds are still showing color well into the new year. Visit a nurseryman's showyard this month and choose Pyracanthas while you can see the berry colors.

Cotoneasters are less vivid than Pyracantha and therefore less adapted for cutting, but a screen of the tall Silver Leaf Cotoneaster can provide a background of color to the entire garden. You could build a fall garden around it.

Holly for your Christmas wreath or mantelpiece is available in so many different forms it's a good idea to seek advice from your nurseryman as to the varieties best suited to your garden. Certainly English Holly is the best known, but the showy Buford's Holly is better adapted to some areas.

Heavenly Bamboo contributes berries and some vividly colored foliage to the fall garden, and both are excellent for indoor decor. As for the Christmas Berry, it is one of the Yule season's most decorative contributors. You can cut it in the wilds, but why not have it in your garden. It makes an excellent border shrub during the months when its berries are absent.

ONE INTERESTING FEATURE of the Stan Carlson garden on the San Rafael Canal, designed by Katy and Paul Steinmetz, is the sandbox which can be covered to keep out animals. The Steinmetzes planned a slatted cover that is light in weight yet sturdy enough to support a person. And when it covers the sandbox, it lends an interesting texture to the garden area. Plants For Dried Bouquets May Be Found In Your Backyard

The use of dried plant material for fall and winter bouquets is an American tradition. And it has carried over into California despite the fact we can cut fresh color through 12 months of the year. We make our annual late fall treks into the country in search of dried pots and grasses for the Thanksgiving table.

All too often, though, Californians overlook possibilities in our own backyards. So many flowers can be cut and dried for use in bouquets, either in conjunction with the natives we gather or by themselves.

How many of you might think of drying Zinnias and Larkspurs or Marigolds! Probably not many at all. Yet all of these and many more can be cut from every garden, dried by hanging upside down and used in table centerpieces.

The most useful of all flowers for drying is the Fernleaf Yarrow. Its flat yellow heads fade to the burnished color of old gold and last forever and a day. You can plant it now for cutting next summer.

Hydrangeas are also number one candidates for drying. The massive heads of either pink, blue or green Hydrangea flowers make extra special arrangements when dried. These, too, can be planted now for cutting next summer.

English Lavender is not the showiest of flowers, but its use in dried arrangements imparts the most heavenly of fragrances. The common Strawflowers, or Everlastings if you prefer, are also wonderful when dried.

The commonest way of drying cut flowers for decoration —and certainly the method recommended for beginners —is simply to cut the flowers at the height of their bloom and hang them upside down in a well ventilated room. A garage, attic or basement will do, so long as it is dry.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Do not lift Dahlias or late Gladiolus until after the tops have ripened off. A few will take their time in doing this.
- Bermuda grass lawns may be raked vigorously with a steel rake and seeded over to a winter rye grass which should keep them green.
- Unwanted roses should be removed now to make way for new varieties next month. Turn the old soil well and work in plenty of steer manure.
- Plant Cyclamen to replace Tuberous Begonias — in pots or in the ground.
- Prune Geraniums back hard if you haven't already. Move pot bound Geraniums up to a large pot size.

Eye-Catching Space Savers

In gardens of limited space, espaliered plants are often a necessity. But need alone should never dictate their use, for you can share the pleasure of their company in gardens of any size.

Espaliered plants are eye catchers—always interesting, often beautiful in the patterns they form against fence or wall And the gardener who creates a unique design is definitely a garden artist of sorts.

Beginners who would grow their own espaliered shrubs are not advised to start from scratch unless they've had some experience in training shrubs through pruning. Much better that they cut their teeth on shrubs already started in espalier form. Every nurseryman offers these shrubs—usually good-sized in five-gallon cans.

HERE'S WHERE Sir Francis Drake, according to many historians, sought shelter in June of 1579. Now Drake's Bay Estates (circle shows location) marks the first man-made improvement of the historic locale in the nearly four centuries since its discovery. Homes are already going up in the new residential and recreational community.

Homes Are Going Up Along Drake's Bay

For the first time in the nearly four centuries since Sir Francis Drake legendarily careened the Golden Hind on its sandy shores, beautiful Drake's Bay is now the scene of a spectacular new residential and recreational development.

Along the rolling hillsides overlooking the crescent haven and down the white stretch of Limantour Spit, across from the famed white cliffs of Pt. Reyes, homesites are being sold to those who would live in the quiet solemnity of one of nature's masterpieces.

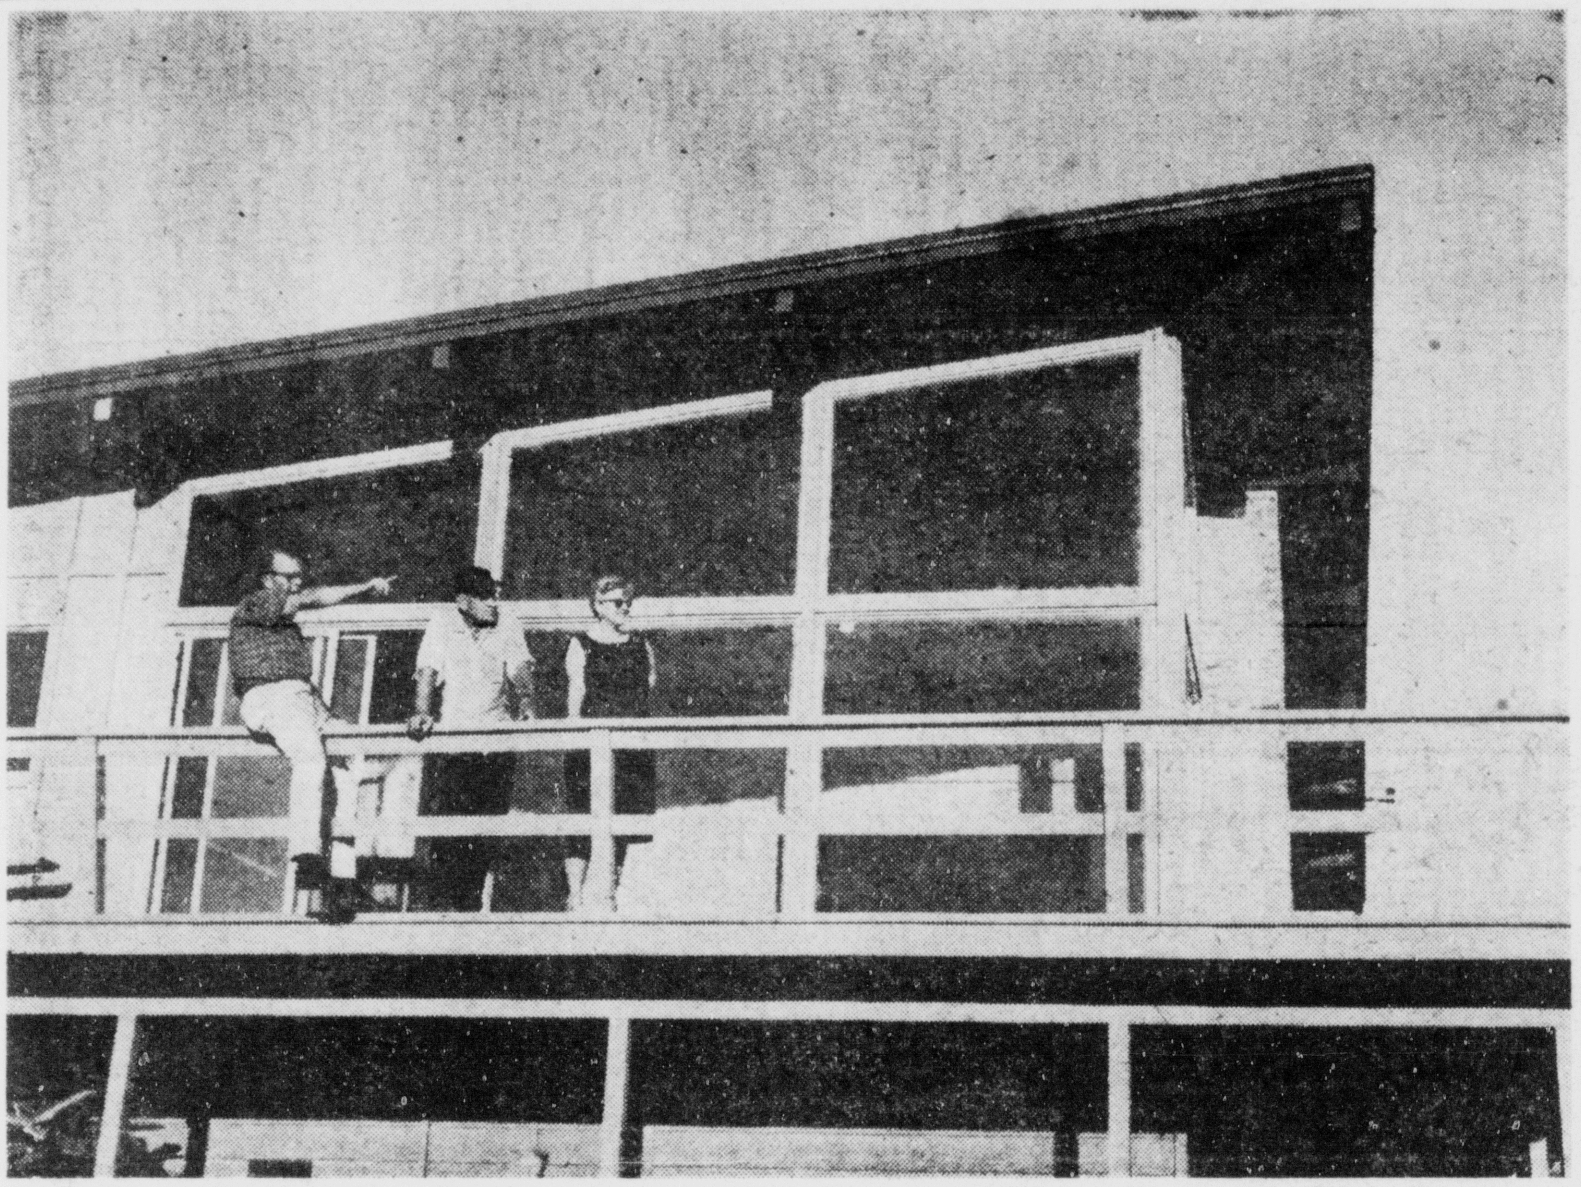

The developers, Drake's Beach Estates, Inc., a group of Marin County businessmen, are firm in proclaiming their intent to create a usable beauty spot without marring a natural setting. Their aim, they say, is actually to enhance the beauty that is already there.

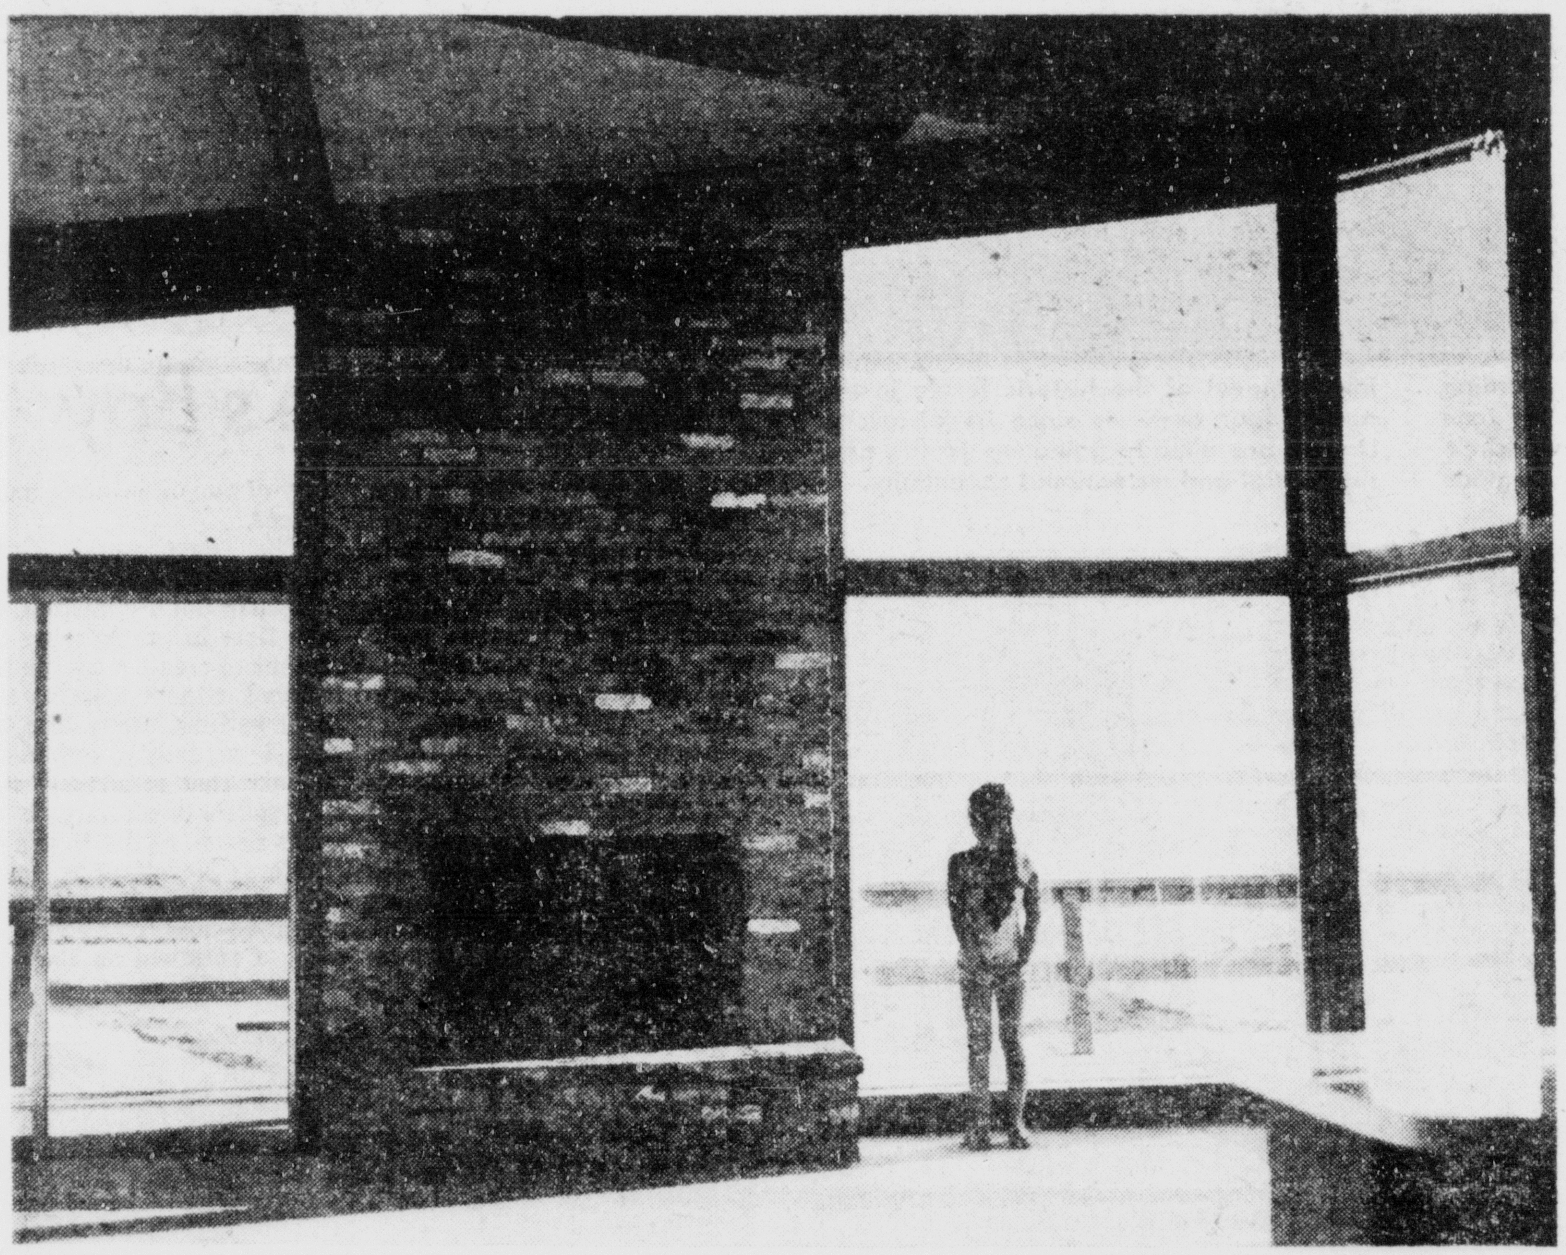

Drake's Bay Estates is a 10-year dream of the firm's originators. Negotiations leading to incorporation were begun in 1956 and completed last year. Early this year, homesites were laid out and sales started. To date, nearly 100 sites, from 7,500 square feet to a half-acre in size, have been purchased — mostly by Marinites.

CHARLES E. Cody, California Spray Chemical Co. executive, and his wife, San Rafael residents, have the distinction of being the first to build a residence at the historic locale. Their rustic weekend home was furnished and occupied by them last month. Two other homes are nearing completion and two more have just been started.

Site purchasers — mostly persons desiring weekend, summer or winter, or retirement homes — must arrange for their own construction. But basic architectural plans are provided by the Estates management, if desired.

"Drake's Bay Estates," says the corporation's spokesman, Benjamin P. Bonelli, attorney, "will provide a striking example of the beauty that can be achieved when imagination and ingenuity are coupled with a fabulous natural setting."

The "setting" is now being "enhanced," he said, by creation of a 25-acre fresh water fishing and sailing lake, development of a salt water lagoon for docks and waterside living, a 70-acre pasture for owners' saddle horses, and miles of picturesque bridle trails over the Estates' 1,100-acre ranch.

HOMESITE purchasers automatically become members of "Drake's Beach Club" which eventually will offer four acres of beach pleasures plus a yacht harbor. A bayside golf course is also on the planning board. Members will have private access to a five-mile-long stretch of beach — described as having "the whitest sand and bluest water on the Pacific Coast."

Construction was completed last month on an earth dam across a year-around stream, to create the fresh water lake which will soon be stocked with bass.

A five-mile access road over Inverness Ridge — from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near the town of Inverness—has been fully paved, as have all roads within the development.

The complete water system is in, and telephones and electrical services have been installed in the first homes.

SOME 50 acres in the hillside subdivision have been converted into 81 homesites, selling for $4,250 and up. About 25 acres of Limantour Spit — dramatic finger of white beach which divides a four mile stretch of Drake's Bay from an interior lagoon—provide 88 homesites which are selling for between $7,500 and $10,000.

Apparently the biggest attraction of the new development has been the rare combination of a rugged "get-away-from-it-all" locale with accessibility. The Estates are an easy 45-minute drive from San Rafael, for example, by way of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard through Olema and Point Reyes Station. The turn-off over Inverness Ridge is a short distance beyond Point Reyes Station.

Yet when one is a Drake's Bay Estates, he feels as if he were "a thousand miles from nowhere." Before him are the famed white cliffs, the sweeping curve of the Bay, the quiet hills and the wild surf — a combination with a special lure for many.

DREDGING OPERATIONS are under way at Drake's Bay Estates to create this fresh-water lake only a few hundred feet from the beach. It will be suitable for swimming and small boating. And not far away from the lake is a salt-water lagoon which will be widened and deepened for boating and fishing. A third landlocked body of water, a fresh-water lake of 25 acres, is being created at the north end of the Estates and will be stocked with bass.

Rockefellers Announce Divorce Plan

Separation May Affect Political Life

COMBINED AP & UPI

NEW YORK — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his wife have parted in the first step toward a divorce to end 31 years of marriage.

The decision to dissolve the union of the Philadelphia heiress and the wealthy, potential Republican presidential candidate was announced last night in a terse statement issued on behalf of both.

A spokesman said the agreement to separate was "amicable."

A political aide to the governor said the divorce would "absolutely not" affect Rockefeller's plans to run for re-election next year.

Although Rockefeller has not publicly acknowledged it, he is considered a strong possibility for the 1964 GOP nomination for president.

LEGAL SEPARATION

The terse announcement of the separation and divorce plans was issued from the Rockefeller family offices in Rockefeller Plaza and read:

"It was announced today that Governor and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller have arrived at an agreement of legal separation.

"It is anticipated that the terms of the agreement will be incorporated into a subsequent decree of divorce.

"Gov. and Mrs. Rockefeller were married in 1930. They have five adult children.

"There has been an agreement property settlement and Mrs. Rockefeller will continue to have a New York apartment at 810 Fifth Avenue. Governor Rockefeller will reside at the apartment of his brother, Laurence S. Rockefeller."

GOVERNOR IS 53

The governor is 53 and his wife 54. The couple have three sons and two daughters, all living away from home, and eight grandchildren.

All except Michael, the youngest son, are married. He is in Dutch Guiana with an archeological expedition.

The prospective divorce jolted the Republican Party and complicated its search for a candidate for president in 1964.

The announcement injected new uncertainties into the GOP outlook.

How a divorce may affect the outcome of a national election cannot be measured, but politicians do not regard it as a campaign asset.

No divorced man ever has been elected to the White House. The Democrats twice

RAYBURN LAID TO REST

Great, Humble Mourn Speaker

BONHAM, Tex. (UPI) —Short, simple funeral services were held today for House Speaker Sam Rayburn before about 1,000 mourners, including President John F. Kennedy, former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, and 150 congressmen and senators.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas, other state officials and most of the Texas legislature were present at the rites for "Mr. Democrat." Millions of other Americans watched the funeral on television.

Rayburn, 79, died Thursday of cancer. He had been a U. S. representative for 48 years, and speaker of the House more than 16 years, longer than any other man.

Rayburn's burial place was a grave beside that of his sister Lucinda (Miss Lu), who was closer to him than any other of his other 10 brothers and sisters. She died in 1956 of cancer, and was buried in the family plot in Willow Wild Cemetery.

H. G. Ball, elder of the Primitive Baptist Church of Tioga, conducted the funeral. He baptized Rayburn in a stock pond in 1957.

The funeral was held in the First Baptist Church because there is no Primitive Baptist Church in Bonham.

Ball delivered a short funeral oration extemporaneously. The Rev. Bernard Braskamp of Washington, chaplain of the House, closed the services with a short prayer.

Primitive Baptists usually have no instrumental music at their services. But an exception was made in this case, and Mrs. J. C. Christian Jr. played organ music throughout the service.

The body of Rayburn, in a bronze coffin of gunmetal gray color, was in front of the pulpit. The casket was banked with white and red flowers.

COMBINED AP & UPI

MOSCOW — Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan has indicated the Soviet Union probably will accept the Anglo - American proposal for resumption of nuclear test ban talks at Geneva, diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said Mikoyan dropped the hint last night in conversations with western envoys at a Sudanese Embassy reception.

There was no indication Premier Nikita Khrushchev would agree to the proposal date of Nov. 28 for resumption of the test ban talks.

Western diplomats said that if the Soviets do agree to resume the Geneva talks they saw little hope for an accord in view of the Soviets' stand that a nuclear test ban would be effective only as part of an agreement on total and general disarmament.

A proposal for resumption of talks was made by Britain and the United States in similar notes delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office last Monday.

The note recalled that the talks on banning tests had recessed Sept. 9 by agreement among three members of the atomic club, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, pending completion of the debate in the United Nations on nuclear testing.

The Disarmament Commission of the United Nations adopted a resolution Nov. 8 asking for a report of progress on the talks on nuclear testing, and the Western note followed this up.

The note suggested that the talks begin Nov. 28, but Western powers said they would agree to any other date which would permit preparation of the reply on time. So far as could be learned, Mikoyan did not indicate what date might suit the Soviet Union.

ATLANTIC TRAGEDY

Raft Girl May Tell Her Story Monday

MIAMI (UPI)—With the suicide of hard-luck skipper Julian Harvey, shock-dazed 11-year-old Terry Jo Duperrault was the only person known alive today to tell of the storm-tossed end of the ketch Bluebelle in the Atlantic last Sunday.

At least by Monday Terry Jo is expected to be sufficiently recovered from the ordeal of four days on a raft to tell the tale of the fiery sinking which apparently claimed five lives and led to air ace Harvey's suicide yesterday.

A Coast Guard inquiry next week awaits the Green Bay, Wis., girl's story. Meanwhile, the Coast Guard went on with its search around the Bahamas for Terry Jo's missing parents, her brother and Harvey's "dream girl" wife.

But there was little hope prominent optometrist Authur Duperrault, his wife and son, Brian, 14, or Harvey's wife, Mary Dene, 34, would be found alive. Rene Duperrault, 7, is known dead.

Harvey, who survived two wars, two other boat sinkings and a jet plane flame-out, ended his life in a Miami motel four days after his rescue apparently in despondency over loss of his wife — reportedly the fifth woman he had married.

The tragedy of the Bluebelle began unfolding Nov. 8 when Harvey and his wife sailed from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., aboard the 60-foot, two-masted yacht for a Bahamas cruise with the Wisconsin family as passengers.

The ketch went down about 11:30 p.m. Sunday, Harvey reported to the Coast Guard before he killed himself. Harvey was rescued at mid-day Monday.

U.N. Presses For Congo Punishment

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) —The United Nation's pushed forward today in a joint investigation with the Congo government to root out and punish the mutinous Congo soldiers who slaughtered 13 Italian airmen.

Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula agreed yesterday to an encirclement and disarmament plan aimed at what the U. N. command called a "fair investigation and stern punishment" involving the 80 Congolese troops at Kindu, in Kivu Province.

Adoula also agreed to cooperate in an investigation to determine whether leftist Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga, political heir to the late Patrice Lumumba, had any thing to do with the slayings.

Adoula agreed to name four members to the joint commission that will seek to apprehend the guilty.

Plane Overdue

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — An Italian Air Force C-119 Flying Boxcar with eight crewmen and two United Nations officials aboard was reported missing today over the Congo on a flight from Pisa, Italy to Leopoldville.

Three Negroes Flee Crowd In Rome

ROME (AP) — Three Negroes —at least one of them American—fled to shelter in a downtown Rome shop today from an angry crowd aroused over the Congo slaying of 13 Italian members of the U.N. Congo force.

Police took the American man and two women from the shop in a police automobile and escorted them to safety.

Huge Rocket Claim Made By Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Red Star claimed today the Soviet Union has rocket warheads equivalent to 100-million tons of TNT, plus rockets that can "lift and deliver any warhead to any points on the globe."

The claims were made by the official military newspaper in an article that denounced Westerners who belittle Soviet rocket capabilities.

The article was published in connection with Soviet Artillery Day tomorrow.

The giant warheads and their number is considerably greater than assumed by American specialists.

The article was apparently intended to answer American statements that the so-called missile gap between the United States and the Soviet Union no longer exists.

American authorities estimate that the Soviet Union has around 30 to 50 intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Blair Is Called Threat To Tiburon Master Plan

Marin County Supervisor J. Walter Blair was pictured by David D. Ring, president of the Reed Union School District trustees, last night as a threat to Tiburon Peninsula's master plan, its schools and its economy.

Ring voiced his opinions at a "town meeting" of the Tiburon Property Owners Assn. He cited as threats to the master plan the proposed Strawberry Tower Apartments and rezoning of Hilarita, of 100 acres behind Bel Aire and of several acres of Del Mar Estates.

Ring said consideration of these rezonings had "conveniently been postponed" until after the Dec. 5 election on whether to recall Blair.

"Up to a year ago," Ring said, "people could expect the master plan to be followed. This is no longer the case. Now San Rafael feels the owner should be free to do what he wants with the land."

Ring quoted Blair as stating he is not interested in signatures on petitions as they represent "pressure groups." He attributed to Blair a statement that the landowner should be considered rather than the local residents.

"The master plan is not immutable but it should be used as a guide. If recall favors Blair, the result is crystal clear," Ring said. "Developers are seeing that the time is ripe to make changes not permitted a year ago. If these developers are successful those that follow will be also. We must deal with the problem now or it will be too late."

Ring said that rezoning would increase the school population, that few school sites are available and these are fully used.

He said it will be necessary to ask more bond money and taxes. Overcrowded classrooms and lower quality of education will result, he predicted.

J. Benton Bostick, spectator, challenged Ring's remarks that the master plan should be a guide. He said the peninsula population has doubled and the master plan cannot meet their needs commercially. He said:

"We shouldn't assume that the development behind Bel Aire is a terrible thing. I remember when the lagoon was considered an awful thing."

Invited guest at the meeting was Pete Behr, candidate opposing Blair in the election.

He reviewed the Mill Valley master plan which he said has successfully maintained the charm of a mountain village.

Behr called the majority on the present board of supervisors a "false economy bloc."

"The inflated budget," he

Jack Frost Brushes Up More Cold

Jack Frost passed through Marin last night, dropping the temperature to a low of 26 in Fairfax and 34 in San Anselmo.

More of the same, with cloudy skies and winds up to 18 miles an hour, were predicted by the weatherman for tomorrow. Snow flurries would fall in the mountains, he said.

Other temperatures recorded throughout the county last night were Tamalpais Valley 38, Ross 41, Alto 42, Sausalito 46 and Kentfield 48.

The weatherman consoled shivering Marin County residents with the information that a nationwide low of 3 degrees was recorded in Anchorage, Alaska.

Bishop Pike Pleads For Church Unity

The divisions separating Christian churches in the United States are "a scandal in the literal meaning of the Greek word and a stumbling block to those whom we would convert," the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike of San Francisco, Episcopal Bishop of California, told the Marin Council of Churches last night.

Pike expressed himself as guest speaker at ecumenical worship service at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

He told the worshippers it was "hard to believe in a Lord of Love and a Prince of Peace . . . in man-made divisions within the church."

He spoke on the subject, "The World Council of Churches and Christian Unity at Home."

"By Life and Work," he said, "we mean churches working together on common tasks, whether they be world relief, social action or strategy studies. While this is not church unity, it does bring people together from different churches on deep levels of concern and helps create an atmosphere favorable toward the Faith and Order side."

The present division of churches in this country creates "waste, duplication and inefficiency," he said. He declared some people feared church unification would create "a super-church and a larger bureaucracy."

"But actually," he added, "it would reduce the number of executives and central personnel in the areas and nationally," who, he said, today "literally trip over each other

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Financial Crisis

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson today described the United Nations as on the verge of death from "financial hemorrhage."

He warned the U.S. cannot alone be expected to save the world body from bankruptcy.

Stevenson laid the financial crisis at the doorstep of the Soviet bloc, France, South Africa and other member nations who are not paying their share of expenses.

Two Die In Crash

MARYSVILLE (AP) — A mother and her daughter died and five persons were injured when a car smashed into a Southern Pacific train at a railroad crossing two miles south of here last night.

Mrs. Mary S. Bynog, 41, of nearby Linda, and Mrs. Gladys Joyce Byrne, 18, of Yuba City, were killed, the Highway Patrol said.

Mrs. Byrne's husband, John, 22, operator of the car; three of Mrs. Bynog's children and Darrell L. Baldwin, 20, a Beale Air Force Base airman, were hospitalized. They were reported in critical condition.

Fire In Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — Fire, which was reported to have started in an elevator shaft, roared through the 27th, 28th and 29th floors of the skyscraper Mercantile National Bank Building today and trapped a 19-year-old elevator operator.

The operator, Joy Buckby, was rescued, terrified but uninjured. The fire burned almost two hours. Damage was heavy, especially to the 28th floor. The building is 35 stories high.

Finn Emergency

HELSINKI (UPI) — The Finnish cabinet meets in emergency session today to consider renewed Russian demands for discussion of alleged "threats to peace" in the Baltic area.

The Finns hoped the discussions could be limited to the question of whether any threat to peace actually exisits, but there had been talk of "joint defense measures" — perhaps including the stationing of Soviet troops on Finnish soil.

Nose Cone Fails

POINT ARGUELLO (UPI) — The United States today attempted to fire a nose cone filled with biological experiments 1,165 miles high and recover it to help determine hazards of space flight. But early indications pointed to a second failure in a week.

An hour and a half after BIOS I was launched, Federal Space Agency officials issued a statement indicating the 85-pound capsule might have fallen far short of waiting recovery ships.

Orbit Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A satellite space platform was fired into orbit today but failed to eject a piggyback Ranger II payload for an intended million-mile round trip into space.

Test officials said this second straight disappointment in the Ranger program probably would delay plans to fire a third Ranger toward a landing on the moon early next year.

Other Life?

LONDON (AP) — Two New York scientists said today they have found evidence of traces of living things in meteorites reaching the earth from outer space.

Dr. George Claus of New York University and Prof. Bartholomew Nagy of Fordham University reported in the scientific magazine Nature they found in certain meteorites organized elements resembling in structure the fossilized remains of microscopic forms of life.

Of five types of "organized structure" which they describe, four are said to be similar to known earth species, but not identical.

Mrs. Kennedy 'Fine'

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy has assured her husband that she's all right, and a top White House spokesman dismissed the first lady's fall from a horse as "a very minor mishap."

Mrs. Kennedy tumbled yesterday when her horse balked at a jump while she was riding with the Piedmont Hunt in Northern Virginia.

Geronimo Valley Hears Zone Plan

The San Geronimo Valley Master Plan Commissee heard an explanation of the proposed new county open area zoning being considered by the Marin County Planning Commission.

David Van Pelt, county principal planner, said it would apply to golf courses and other open area facilities.

A proposal to ban houses in areas now zoned commercial and industrial in San Geronimo Valley also was discussed.

Committee members decided to get the sentiments of the individual groups they represent on the residential restriction and report back to the committee at its next meeting, Dec. 21.

Liquor License Protest Overruled

SACRAMENTO (GNS)— The state department of alcoholic beverage control announced it has overruled protests and will issue an off-sale general liquor license to Safeway Stores, Inc. at 555 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, as of Dec. 28.

The overruled protests had contended the premises were in the immediate vicinity of a church and school.

Ruling In South

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel, its highest member strongly dissenting, ruled yesterday that a suit seeking desegregation of travel facilities in Mississippi should be tried first in state courts.

The majority opinion, held by federal district Judges Claude Clayton and Sidney Mize, both of Mississippi, said the federal court did not have jurisdiction until the plaintiffs had sought remedy in state tribunals.

But Judge Richard T. Rives, Montgomery, Ala., of the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, disagreed and accused Mize and Clayton of exercising "unreasonable delay" in the case.

New Treaty Asked

PANAMA (AP) — The National Assembly has unanimously demanded a new treaty with the United States which would fix date for the U.S. to turn over the waterway to Panama.

The assembly resolution was adopted within 24 hours of the publication of correspondence between Presidents John F. Kennedy and Roberto Chiari on negotiations for a new treaty.

Berliners Barred

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists today barred West Berliners from visiting the graves of their relatives in Red-held cemeteries.

East German officials said no special passes would be issued next Wednesday and Sunday. Wednesday is Germany's Atonement Day, and Sunday is Memorial Day.

'Good Impression'

PARIS (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru arrived here today from the United States and said he had "a very good impression" of President John F. Kennedy.

Nehru, en route to Cairo for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Yugoslav President Tito, stopped over in Paris where he had lunch with government officials.

INFORMAL, GOOD

Church Choir's Music Was Of High Quality

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Director David F. Reed proved last night at the fall concert of the Mill Valley Community Church's Chancel Choir that impressive size and professional vocalists are not the most important factors in producing choral music of high quality.

With only 20 well balanced and disciplined voices trained to immediate responsiveness to his conducting, Reed has formed a musical instrument capable of enchancing all the spiritual values of a church service.

For three reasons, however, the total effect of this concert was very informal despite the predominance of traditional sacred selections. These were that the concert was held in the parish hall, which was filled to capacity; the inclusion of the "bit of fluff" in the form of the contemporary chorale scherzo by Kubik based on the "Listen to the Mocking Bird" tune; and especially the 16th and 17th Century madrigals sung in the deliberately created social atmosphere of a typical practice session.

That the latter, centered around a candlelit table, failed in effect to some extent because they were not sung on the stage, where participants could be seen. Spoken words could not be heard at all.

High points of the evening were the four psalms for mixed chorus, Opus 74, by Edvard Grieg, in which the chorus produced some remarkably fine sustained pianissimo tone in slow tempo, a difficult feat, and the first rate performance of four harpsichord solos by Bernice Usdane.

Her touch was noteworthy both for its success in achieving singing tones and great facility in the execution of the rapid, sparkling embellishments that reveal the instrument to best advantage.

The voices of soprano Jeanne Cummins and mezzo soprano Ethelee Reed formed a pleasing blend in three duets from cantatas by J. S. Bach and Vivaldi.

Also deserving of commendation were the young flutists Mark Usdane and Nancy Sterne, who played in the opening number "Sheep May Safely Graze" by J. S. Bach, piano accompanist Jean Barnard and the three men who sang solo parts in the Grieg psalms—tenor Harry Magill, base-baritone Robert De Haan and baritone John Harding.

Plan Commission Meeting Monday In San Rafael

The San Rafael Planning Commission will hold a special meeting at 10 a.m. Monday to consider four matters, secretary James R. Garrett announced today.

The meeting to be held in the planning department office at the E Street School at Third and E Streets will take up first an application by Custom Builders for architectural approval for enclosure of a porch on San Sylvester's Church on San Pedro Road.

It also will consider granting architectural approval to architect Austin Gibbon for remodeling the facade of an apartment building at Grand and Belle Avenues.

Also to be considered is an amended subdivision map for the property at McCoy and Bret Harte Roads. The commission then will discuss interpretation of architectural approval requirements.

S.P. Claims Big Losses If Santa Fe Wins

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Santa Fe victory in the battle for control of the Western Pacific would cost Southern Pacific from 10 million to 50 million dollars a year, a S.P. official said yesterday.

William G. Peoples, a S.P. vice president gave the loss estimate. He said Southern Pacific now handles 70 per cent of the shipments on points jointly served by S.P. and W.P.

Peoples testified he feared that if Santa Fe won control of W.P.'s lines, shippers would divide their freight evenly between the two big competitors.

S.P. hopes to merge with W.P. and eliminate duplicating facilities. Santa Fe wants to extend its lines into the Pacific Northwest.

B. F. Biaggini, another S.P. vice president, said Santa Fe would divert freight from the Utah way and its present southern route to get revenues from full West Coast to Mid-West runs.

Third Woman Arraigned In Narcotics Case

A Hayward mother, the last of three women accused of helping smuggle dope into San Quentin Prison, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday and released on $1,050 bail.

Marie Frances Hall, 46, arrived at the courthouse yesterday afternoon with attorney Seymour L. Ellison of San Francisco and turned herself into authorities.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas granted her request for a continuance until Nov. 30. Mrs. Hall, mother of a San Quentin inmate, is accused of bringing heroin and marijuana into prison as part of a large dope ring that has been operating since last March.

Mrs. Pauline Herrera, 31, of Los Angeles, believed to be the chief source of the heroin supply that entered prison, is scheduled to appear in Marin court on Nov. 27. She is free on $5,250 bail.

The third woman is pretty blonde Anne Marie Kellam, 25, of Oakland, who is free on $1,050 bail. She is scheduled to appear in court for plea on Nov. 30.

A complaint charges the three and six prison convicts with conspiring to smuggle dope into prison for sale to inmates.

Youths Get Scolding For Disturbing Peace

Two North Marin youths, who battled police at a San Rafael restaurant and hurt a police officer, drew a judicial scolding, six months in county jail, and three years' supervised probation yesterday.

Ronald Delbert Abrao, 18, of 489 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood, and John D. Forwood, 19, of 80 Summers Avenue, Novato, were sentenced by Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court.

They pleaded guilty to battery, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace at the Griddle Cafe on Oct. 18. Police said they were called on a complaint that the youths were bothering patrons. Officers said the youths resisted when asked to leave, and Officer John Kingston was hurt in the scuffle.

Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarno said Officer Kingston required hospitalization.

Judge Thomas ordered Forwood and Abrao to pay for Officer Kingston's medical and hospital costs in addition to serving half a year in jail. They have already paid for the officer's uniform.

"You struck out against a man who represents law and order in this community," the judge declared. He told the youths they were "complete fatheads" for attacking the officers.

War II Gear Shows Up Mysteriously

A piece of flying equipment last seen by a Hamilton Air Force Base officer when he was a bomber pilot fighting the Axis forces in Italy during World War II 19 years ago mysteriously came to light at the base this week.

The object is a flying bag, used for carrying a parachute, last seen by Lt. Col. Elvin W. Brush when he was a lieutenant flying B-24 Liberator bombers at Cerignola, Italy, in 1942.

M/Sgt. John Beasley, in charge of the personal equipment section at the base, spotted the bag with the name "Lt. Brush" amidst a pile of odds and ends.

He took it to Col. Brush who identified it as from his service during the war.

Brush, assistant to the base commander, will be retired Nov. 30. He and his wife Marilyn and their children will settle in Modesto.

"Defend, O Lord, this Thy child . . ."

With these words, and the remainder of a short prayer, a Bishop of the Episcopal Church confers the sacrament of Confirmation—a rite which Episcopalians believe gives to its recipient God's strength for full participation in all the privileges of membership in the church and for the responsibilities attached to it.

There are many misconceptions about "Confirmation." Some people think of it as "joining" the church. That's not the case. Because, one who has been baptized with water in the name of the Trinity is a member of the Christian family — a member of the Body of Christ, which is the Church. He or she can't be "more" a member.

But we do believe that Confirmation, which means "strengthening" (Scriptural authority for which appears in Acts 8: 12-18), is a spiritual aid to those who receive it.

Other than Baptism, there is no specific ceremony that makes you a "member" of the Episcopal Church. Confirmation, however, elevates a member to a "communicant" standing and enables him to receive the further privilege of Holy Communion.

Those of us who have received the "laying on of hands" by the Bishop feel there is special benefit in Confirmation. Wouldn't you like to know more about the Episcopal Church?

"The Episcopal Church, Some Essential Facts" will tell you more about this great church. Send the coupon for your copy. No obligation.

Transit Group Considering Smaller Board

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Bay Area Rapid Transit District is considering special legislation to make its membership more flexible.

General Manager John M. Pierce said yesterday that the legislation would enable the district to reduce its membership from five to four, or even three, counties with ease.

He said that withdrawal of a county is currently a cumbersome operation, and might slow action so much that the district could not qualify a bond issue proposal for the June primary.

Marin County and possibly San Mateo County may ask to be excused from the transit district, Pierce said, and a revision of procedure would allow San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties to go ahead with their rapid transit plans.

$150-Million Bond Issue For Parks Supported

MONTEREY (AP) — The State Park Commission yesterday voted to support a proposed 150-million-dollar bond issue to develop parks in California.

The big parks bond issue is under consideration by the Senate Natural Resources Committee for possible addition to the November, 1962 ballot. Prompt action is needed if it is to qualify, said Commission Chairman Joseph C. Hougteling.

In other action, the commission:

Urged its staffs to cooperate with local erosion programs for preserving trees in Humboldt Redwoods State Park.

Granted a Stanford University request to restrict part of Ano Nuevo Island off the San Mateo County coast as a wildlife preserve.

Discussed a master plan for Squaw Valley winter sports.

CLOTHES FROM CATHOLICS—Youngsters in Kontum, Viet Nam study new shirts and pants just distributed by the American Catholic Bishop's overseas relief agency aiding in the strife torn country since 1954. Catholic Churches in Marin tomorrow and through next week will accept clothes for the "Catholic Bishop's Thanksgiving Collection."

THANKSGIVING COLLECTION

Marin Catholics To Take Clothes

Tomorrow Marin Catholics will mark the beginning of the 13th annual "Catholic Bishop's Thanksgiving Collection."

For one week, all Catholic churches in the Archdiocese will receive donations of usable clothing, shoes and bedding

Rev. Richard S. Knapp, assistant pastor of St. Raphael Church in San Rafael was appointed by Most Rev. Hugh A. Donohoe, Auxiliary Bishop and Administrator of the Archdiocese of San Francisco as director of the collection in Marin County. Father Knapp called on all Catholics to join in "Operation Clothes Closet" to contribute outgrown or unwanted clothing during the tradition time of Thanksgiving. "There is great need for adult clothing of all kinds; we need children's clothing, too, and layettes for babies," Father Knapp said. "We also want blankets and coverlets of all kinds, and for the African nations we need bolts of cloth and cotton remnants which can be worn. But please make it usable," he stressed.

Cuban refugee relief operations, severe famine and drought in Morocco and suffering from typhoons in Formosa and Japan have resulted in increased demands on the Bishop's Collection to help clothe the poor and homeless in 64 countries. Distribution is made directly to the needy overseas, regardless of creed or color.

With help from the International Cooperation Administration and the United States Embassies is Asia, Africa, Europe and South America, the clothing will be directly distributed by misisonary priests and nuns and representatives of the Catholic Relief Services to those most in need.

Collections from previous years have produced some 135 million pounds of usable clothing, shoes and bedding supplies, valued at well over $160 million. Last year Marin County contributed 17,020 pounds.

Big Lutheran Choir Concert Is Tomorrow

A church choir concert featuring choirs from seven of the nine Lutheran Churches in Marin County will be presented tomorrow at 4 p.m.

The program entitled "The Church Year Song" will be held at the new Christ The Victor Lutheran Church, 2626 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax. Narrator will be the host church's pastor, Rev. John Rotto.

A mass chorus of more than 200 voices will be featured under the direction of Mrs. R. G. Weil of Mill Valley and Mrs. Clinton Bell Jr. of San Anselmo. Among their offerings will be Whitford's arrangement of G. F. Handel's "Bless Thou the Lord."

Three children's choirs and seven adult choirs will sing appropriate anthems for the various seasons of the Christian church year. They will be accompanied by Miss Lois LeRud and Mrs. Martin Rosell at the organ.

The Lutheran Men of Marin organization is sponsor for the event to which the public is invited, said Carl H. Yeager of San Rafael, president.

Christianity's Summit Meeting To Consider Russian Membership

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christianity's largest summit conference opened in New Delhi, India, today in a nation where followers of Jesus Christ number only about 2 per cent of the population.

Business of the assembly is scheduled until Dec. 6.

Representatives of 175 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox member churches are participating — numbering nearly 1,000 churchmen and women from 50 countries on both sides of the iron curtain. Only 626 of the total are official delegates, the rest include observers, advisers and special guests.

Previous WCC assemblies were held in Amsterdam in 1948 and in Evanston, Ill., in 1954.

For the first time the Roman Catholic Church has authorized a five-man team to attend this year's assembly as observers. The team will report to the Vatican's newly organized secretariat for Christian unity.

Another prime item on the agenda is amending the WCC constitution to provide for merger with its sister organization, the International Missionary Council, an International body composed of 38 national missionary organizations.

Dr. Roswell P. Barnes, executive secretary of the WCC's United States Conference, said in New York he considers this merger the most important administrative action the assembly will take.

"It means the younger churches in misionary lands will no longer have merely a subsidiary voice in the world organization," he said. "It's sort of like a new nation gaining membership in the United Nations."

Also scheduled is a vote on application for WCC membership of the Soviet Union's Russian Orthodox Church. "If admitted," said a WCC spokesman, "it would mean the huge Russian body would come into continuous contact with other Christians after years of virtual isolation."

Dr. Barnes said the assembly also will discuss "many of the social questions Pope John XXIII dealt with in his recent encyclical."

"The race question also probably will provoke some lively discussion," he said. "Three Dutch Reformed churches dropped out of the council this year because of our policy on apartheid."

Guest Will Preach

Guest, Rev. Gene Wallace Burris will conduct the 9:30 a.m. worship service at Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church tomorrow.

He was recommended by the church's pastor seeking committee, announced James G. Molica, publicity chairman for the church.

Rev. Burris is a graduate of the San Francisco Theological Seminary. He was ordained by the Seattle Prebytery in which he served as youth director at the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle. Rev. Burris is presently an assistant pastor at the First Presbyterian Church at Mountain View.

First Rehearsal

The first rehearsal of the newly formed Marin Philharmonic Society will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the parish hall of Holy Innocents' Episcopal Church in Corte Madera, announced S. Drummond Wolff, founder and director. Those interested may contact him through the church.

Novato Writer Reviews Birth Control Book

Novato writer Paul Brindel this month has published in the "Way of St. Francis," a national Catholic magazine, a review of the book "Love and Control" by Rev. Leon-Joseph Suenens, a Belgium auxiliary bishop.

The book, published by the Newman Press, Westminister, Md., is about birth control and, writes Brindel, "admittedly . . . poses serious and embarrassing questions to Catholic educators, physicians, (and) leaders . . ."

Redwoods Guest

Monday Lecture Is Set For Tiburon's St. Hilary's Parish

A Monday lecture on the "Blessed Virgin Mary" will be held at St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon, announced Rev. John J. Murray, pastor.

Lecturing will be Paulist Father Walter Anthony. He will explain the traditional Catholic teaching on the mother of Jesus. After the lecture, a film, "The Coming of Christ" will be shown. The film "draws from thousands of the world's art treasures to show the life of Christ from His birth, through the sermon on the mount. It is narrated by Alexander Scourby.

Baptist Guest

Rev. Paul Everett Jr., formerly of Larkspur and now pastor of a church near Pasco, Wash., will be the guest speaker tomorrow at the 11 a.m. worship service at the Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur, announced Rev. Michael Barkowska, pastor.

Wide Coverage

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Lutheran Council's series of the one-minute television spots, called "Invitation for Tomorrow," now is being carried by 237 TV stations across the country.

Aldergate Church Will Have Guest

Dr. Charles S. McCoy will be the guest speaker tomorrow at the 9:30 a.m. worship service of the Aldergate Methodist Church which meets for worship at the Terra Linda Community Building.

Dr. McCoy, professor of Religion in Higher Education at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, will also lead the discussion at the 10:15 a.m. study group at the church. Dr. McCoy is both a broadcaster and author.

Aldergate's pastor is Rev. H. Tillinghast.

The course consists of corrective calesthenics, games and sports and social dancing. Class is held at the E Street School gymnasium in San Rafael on Wednesday nights from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

Glue Together

The quick stitch seems like a snail's pace compared to the speedy way a new glue joins fabrics. The manufacturer recently glued together an entire cocktail dress. A model wearing the glued dress had no trouble turning, bending or making other movements.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Mr., Mrs. Charles O. Jones Have 25th Anniversary Fete

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Jones of Kent Woodlands is being celebrated at a cocktail party being given by their four children, Mrs. William Asbell (Sharon Jones) Linda, Barbara and Charles Jr. at the Jones home tonight. However, young Charles can't be present as he is in the Army and stationed at Fort Lee, Va. He expects to be home for the holidays. And there is a possibility that Sharon and Bill, who live in Ross, will not be present to receive the 75 guests as they are expecting the birth of their first child momentarily.

The actual wedding anniversary is Nov. 14 but Saturday night seemed to be the time for the party. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married in 1936 at Star of the Sea Church in San Francisco. The wedding reception following was at the San Francisco home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfons Hartzer. Mr. Hartzer is deceased but Mrs. Hartzer, who now lives in Burlingame, will attend the anniversary fete. Also in the family group will be Charles' mother, Mrs. Paul K. Jones of San Francisco, his sister, Mrs. Walter Weber Jr. of Palo Alto and her husband, his brother, Francis Jones of Belmont, and his wife and Mrs. Jones' brother, Joseph Hartzer of San Francisco, and his wife. Most of the guests were present at the Jones' wedding. However an exception are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Asbell of Greenbrae, Bill's parents.

AN INFORMAL concert was given at the Walter Coberly home in Greenbrae Sunday. Featured artist was Robert Mueller, pianist. The 4 p.m. program was followed by cocktails.

Mr. Mueller, who lives in Berkeley, was recently a soloist with Arthur Fiedler and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and the Miami (Florida) Symphony Orchestra. He has given numerous recitals in New York and throughout the United States. He played in the major music centers on his tour of Europe in 1956. He has also appeared repeatedly with the Campion Festivals, featuring old and contemporary music.

Apart from his professional activities, Mr. Mueller is an avid collector of phonograph records, and is an amateur photographer. He often takes several cameras with him on tour, for both still photography and motion pictures.

Guests of Walter and Mary Coberly were Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Schwarz, Messrs. and Mesdames Leigh Athearn, M. E. Abrams, Harold A. Bunn, George Collins, Frank Costanzo, Harvie Freed, Lorry Hahn, Paul Marrin, John Merryman, E. R. McWilliams, Robert Ohea, Frank L. Miller, Rufus Rhoades, Benton Tully, John Wolfe, Mrs. Guy Ciocca, Miss Betty Bunn, Miss Estalan Laws, Miss Mary B. Wood, Norman Freed, David Penhallow and K. C. Setterdahl.

CADET HITS THE LINE — Halfback Bill Freeman of the San Rafael Military Academy smashes for a short gain through the Menlo School forward wall yesterday at Menlo Park. Among the Cadets trying to open a hole are center Steve Beck (50) and guard Frank Blakemore (33). The Cadets lost the Bay Counties League championship game to Menlo, 20-13. (San Rafael Military Academy photo)

ACADEMY FAILS IN CROWN BID

The San Rafael Military Academy Cadets yesterday failed to ring, get up with or win the big bell of the traditional and championship football game with Menlo School yesterday afternoon.

The Cadets and Menlo went at it as undefeated gridders for the Bay Counties League crown, but the fact that the Cadets had never beaten the southern club in the past 14 years was too great a psychological barrier—so now it's 15 years.

The score was 20-13.

Menlo took advantage of an academy fumble in the second period to begin a 70-yard scoring march and then intercepted a fourth quarter Cadet pass and ran it back for the winning touchdown.

The Cadets picked up their points in the second and final periods on one and two yard runs respectively.

Cadet halfback Bill Freeman picked up his team's first six in the first period when he plunged over from a quick opener at the Menlo one-yard line. Doug Silva booted the PAT.

The count was 20-7 when the Cadets rallied late in the fourth period for their second touchdown. It came on a two-yard run around right end by fullback Joe Heinz, a 210 pound senior. An attempt to run the conversion was futile.

Menlo safety and offensive pass receiver Buck Arbuckle was the big man for the winning team and the athlete who scored the winning TD on a 47-yard interception of a Cadet pass.

HEINZ STANDOUT

The academy's standout of the afternoon was cadet Heinz, working as offensive fullback and then in on a majority of tackles as defensive tackle.

Cadet coach Phil Roark said the game was "clean and well fought" for a rivalry affair, but that his athletes having not played a game for the past two weeks were apparently "up" too soon for the contest, or they were "up" too much.

"Kids were too tight and anxious in the first half . . . they couldn't seem to relax," said the coach. In the second half Menlo capitalized on Academy mistakes.

"Maybe next year," said Roark.

T Or Sympathy? 49ers Need Win To Get Sane

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers, spectacuarly unsuccessful the last time they attempted to demolish the Bears with Red Hickey's shotgun, are revising their arsenal for tomorrow's clash with Chicago.

It was the Bears' 31-0 victory over the 49ers at Chicago Oct. 22 that started the San Francisco drought that has reached four games without a victory.

The Bears, with a 5-4 record, need a win to stay in contention in the National Football League's Western Conference race.

The 49ers, 4-4-1, need a victory to retain their sanity.

Hickey has promised some surprises. The fans are demanding some. Coach George Halas of the Bears expects some.

"I figure the 49ers will be using the T formation quite a bit again against us," Halas said.

Could be. The 49er camp was guarded as closely this week as an Academy Award ballot box.

And when the drama unfolds the plot well may be T and sympathy.

The Bears' Billy Wade has 14 touchdown passes, second only to Sunny Jurgensen of Philadelphia, who has 17. Rookie Mike Ditka, a leading candidate for NFL Rookie of the Year, has snared 33 for 771 yards, including nine touchdowns.

John Farrington and Ditka will be the ends for the Bears and quarterback Wade will have Willie Galimore and Johnny Morris, two of the fastest halfbacks in the league, and jarring Rick Casares at fullback.

Hickey has announced the 49ers' opening backfield as John Brodie at quarterback, R. C. Owens at flanker and J. D. Smith and C. R. Roberts at the running-blocking posts, with Monty Stickles and rookie Aaron Thomas at the ends.

But rookie Bill Kilmer, the 49ers' top scorer with 10 touchdowns, will see plenty of action.

Abe Woodson has returned to the 49ers' defensive secondary and there are three changes in the defensive line.

Hamilton AFB Unofficial A.F. Champs

Hamilton Air Force Base Defenders are 1961 unofficial champions of the Air Force.

By virtue of the Defender's 9-1-1, won-los-tie record and the defeat of McClellan Air Force Base by Lackland Air Force Base they were given the crown. Hamilton beat McClellan earlier in the season, 21-6.

Among the outstanding athletes on the team are tackle Dolph Jackson, end Paul Linsey, who scored 42 points, center and kicker Eric Kuykendal, 28 points; and halfback Jim Turner, 36 points.

Other Defender season games were with San Quentin 37-0; Santa Rosa Junior College 52-6; top-ranked Idaho State College 12-12; Occidental College 20-14; Fort Lewis 9-3; Seattle Ramblers 13-6; Santa Clara College 13-30 (the Defender's only loss); University of San Francisco 43-12. The Defenders have one remaining game with the San Francisco Athletic Club at Hamilton AFB.

An Editorial

Mr. Behr's Letter...

Here are some cogitations bearing on Mr. Peter Behr's recent Letter to the Editor. In his letter, Mr. Behr, candidate to displace J. Walter Blair as supervisor of the Third District, at the December 5 Recall Election, replied to our editorial: "The Recall Goes Pfft!"

We believe Mr. Behr's letter protests too much.

His defensive posture stands forth but the validity of his arguments fail to assert themselves.

Let's look at his language:

"I have never had any misgivings about my candidacy," writes Mr. Behr.

He asserts it but he fails to prove it. Was it a Freudian slip that made Mr. Behr so unconvincing on television?

Again he writes: "Recall (as an action) has been a long-established California procedure . . . etcetera."

Now, we are not beguiled by Mr. Behr's language. We know the sense, substance and reason-why behind the recall law.

Everybody does, instinctively.

But the laws of decency cannot be rescinded.

Using the recall act as a weapon invades the area of human choice; indeed, it corrupts it.

There is such a thing as human conscience, and we predict that in this tempestuous teapot, it will work to Walter Blair's advantage.

Chief Justice Holmes once wrote: "There is a law higher than the law and that is the law of human conscience."

Mr. Behr writes:

"No elected official should have a vested right to serve out his full term under any and all circumstances . . . An elected official in California . . . may serve only so long as he continues to satisfy the reasonable expectations of the majority who elected him."

So sayeth Mr. Behr.

To which we reply in the jargon of Bastogne: "Nuts!"

There wasn't a less popular governor in the land than Governor Edmund Brown some six months after he took office. He put his foot in his mouth on the Chessman Case and in other ways infuriated many of the persons who elected him.

We heard not a peep about recall.

Nobody compels us to leave crooks and boobs in office.

But Mr. Behr has yet to call Mr. Blair a crook or a boob. Moreover, the worst he has said about Mr. Blair is that he is stubborn.

Was Herbert Hoover impeached because he cooked up the '29 Crash on the back burner of his diabolical stove?

Was Truman impeached for his many crudities, among which was the threat to kick a caustic music critic in the groin?

Was President Kennedy impeached because of his abortive invasion of Cuba?

No.

One of the great strengths and weaknesses of Democracy is that it requires patience from everybody. Democracy has built-in checks and balances and does not go along with those Minorities or Majorities which say "off with his head" when they are dissatisfied with things as they are.

Mr. Behr cites his hope of giving a good part of his time to Mr. Blair's job as supervisor, should he succeed in wresting it from Mr. Blair on December 5.

Let all who may become inspired and convinced by Mr. Behr's dissertation on his availability. But we feel his protestations are winning few converts. Moreover, we do not believe Mr. Behr is asking for a happy personal role when he insists that a San Francisco commuter can hold successfully a high Marin County job while in San Francisco.

Mr. Behr says our editorial, "The Recall Goes Pfft!" made too much of machinations involving the County Government Center.

We shall concede this to be a matter of interpretation of data and human events . . . but conceding this . . . we reassert our faith in it.

At the bottom of the whole petty quarrel is this local history:

Mr. Behr has been importantly identified with a minority group which enjoyed running this county on a "Mother knows best" philosophy.

This group lost the election when Mr. Blair was voted into office with a convincing majority on April 7, 1960. Instead of taking their licking like good sports they soon predicted they would institute a recall action against Mr. Blair.

We believe Mr. Behr tries to cut too wide a swath in a jungle which does not exist, when he presents himself as an authority on the recall law.

If the rightful use of the recall law has to be explained to us children, then let's preserve Mr. Behr's grace and dignity by insisting on another lecturer. Let's relieve Mr. Behr from the embarrassment of that chore.

If Mr. Blair is to be replaced, then let it be done by an action as convincing as a volcano errupting. Let none of us Act Small.

We hope in the weeks to come, Fate will not find Mr. Behr pleading for an office already duly filled. Mr. Behr, a gentleman with a fine intellect who has done excellent service as a public servant (Mill Valley City Councilman), has many friends; and he deserves better than to be cast as a pleader.

And, finally, all things considered, it is lacking in grace to throw a man out of office—before he's had time to remove his hat — if our only complaint against him be: "Mr. Blair, you're stubborn!"

We believe the people have caught the self-seeking motives in this issue, even many of those who, impetuously, signed the recall petitions.

And we believe the people will speak out on December 5 in support of Mr. Blair.

J. Walter Blair Committee, John Grant, Chairman, Fred Perry Jr., Treas.

9,490 Attend Ice Hockey Debut In S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Coach Max McNab of the San Francisco Seals says his hockey squad lost its home debut to Edmonton's Flyers because of a poor defense.

"A couple of our defensemen played their worst game of the year. We made our big move in the first period when we had a 2-0 lead but then we gave 'em an easy one," McNab said after last night's game at the Cow Palace.

Some 9,490 fans saw Edmonton top the Seals 5-3 in the Western Hockey League match.

San Francisco (4-11) has lost three straight to the Flyers who lead the loop with an 11-2-1 record.

WINNING GOAL

What proved to be Edmonton's winning goal, a 40-foot shot by Forbes Kennedy midway in the final period, came while the Seals were one man short. They had been penalized for having too many men on the ice at one time.

McNab blamed this, too, on the defense.

"We didn't play as sound as we have played in our last six games. Edmonton is the fastest club in the league," said McNab.

The two teams meet again in the Cow Palace tonight.

San Anselmo Club Chase 7th Win, 1 P.M. Tomorrow

The San Anselmo Merchants, undefeated in the San Francisco AAA winter semi-professional baseball league, will seek their seventh straight victory against My Pet Market of San Francisco tomorrow.

The game gets underway at 1 p.m. at Memorial Park in San Anselmo, with Dick Spackman hurling for the Merchants.

Now Maris Is Well Done,' Let's Roast Alibing College Coaches

CONNOLLY

As long as we are in a mood for teeing off on people and things, why stop? The other day we roasted Roger Maris, new home run king. Now let's put today's football coaches in the frying pan and listen to them simmer and sputter.

Coaches in my heyday were supposed to be character builders, and most of them did a good job of it. Sure, they wanted to win every game. But when they lost one they never hid behind the old alibi.

Let's take a look at a few of the deathless quotes that appeared over the last weekend:

From Marv Levy of California: "The Bears just fell asleep; we're ashamed of our performance. Attitude and practices have been good. I just can't understand it."

FROM CACTUS Jack Curtice of Stanford: "Our defense rather surprised me. I thought it would be better. And we tackled poorly. Maybe the boys are a little unsure of themselves."

FROM RED HICKEY of the 49ers: "I thought we'd come back. There's nothing wrong with the system. The players just aren't doing a good job on offense or defense."

I can't consider any one of those remarks as genuinely honest, or in the character-building category.

Marv Levy might have admitted that he failed to get his boys charged up for a contest they thought was a pushover. Or he might have recognized the fact, as did the late Howard Jones of USC, that "any eleven kids the same age, the same experience, the same weight, can have a good day and beat any team they face."

CACTUS JACK might have said that his team was outclassed by the Trojans, that they did a great job with what they had to work with. Instead he gave his boys the impression that they had let him down.

But my best blast goes to Red Hickey, who has stubbornly refused to take the blame for sticking to his "popgun" offense when his own team has lots confidence in it, and the rest of the pros are openly laughing at his efforts.

Back in the days of the Wonder Team at California, Coach Andy Smith's greatest remark before a big game was when he said, "I taught 'em all I know. Maybe it's not enough for them to win, but it's the best I can do for them." Andy could win or lose. But when his head came out of the water bucket he never ran his kids down.

IT WAS the Chicago Bears who started the death march for the "popgun" and the 49ers have been sliding ever since. Now the Monsters of the Midway return to Kezar tomorrow to finish the job they started.

I haven't seen or heard any remarks from Hickey that would indicate he is going to quit beating his head against a wall. Papa Bear George Halas will oblige by doing a little bashing of his own.

And I wonder who's fault it will be Sunday night?

Marin Bowman Is Winner Of Gobbler

Second place and a smaller turkey went to Ray Bennett of Novato who scored 816. Jim Kenny of Mill Valley was third beating out his father Dick Kenny 810 to 800 for more poultry prizes.

Fifth place and the final prize of the day went to Gloria Bailey, Northwoods Lady Champion from Ignacio.

Tars Win! Coach Read Ushers In New 'Golden Era'

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN — College of Marin coeds celebrate with a jig after the Tars beat American River Junior College 25-24 in a thriller last night at Kentfield. It gave the Tars undisputed second place in the Golden Valley Conference. Girl gridders who put in "powderpuff" halftime game are Dianne Hegg (22), Nancy Prather (44), Marilyn Miller (45), Sally Reed (32) and Jackie Bush (11). (Photos by Jim Kean)

BLUM ON A BOOTLEG —Ron Blum, College of Marin quarterback has passed his scrimmage line on a left end bootleg play in the third quarter and raises ball to carry it in his dangerous way. The star quarterback picked up 17 yards and a first down at the American River 42 on the play before being hit by Beavers safety Perry Padrata.

All The Glitter Was Gold For Marin

By PAUL MILLER

Well, by golly, they did it!

The golden arm of quarterback Ron Blum, the golden hands of end Jim Lucas, and the golden toe of Frank Lopes last night gave the College of Marin Tars second berth in the 1961 Golden Valley Conference and initiated what well may be another golden area of football for the county's junior college.

The Tars wiggled past American River 25-24 before a nearly full and frozen Marinside stadium in Kentfield. It was a thrilling season finisher for everybody; even the timekeeper's pistol, which was so cold or excited it refused to fire at the half, but worked at the game's end—and it better had.

First year college coach Dick Read's Tars were conference underdogs before practice began. They were plagued by injury, ineligibilities, and final quarter losses as the season progressed. But Read stayed with it, his athletes stayed with it, and today the Tars are the next best football team in their college loop with a 3-2 record and a 5-4 season record. Until Read took command, the Tars had been winless since 1959.

In the mid-1940s, the college was a powerhouse, and it looks like happy days are here again.

The Tar scores last night came on a 71-yard pass from Blum to halfback Ron Cole and a 57-yard flyer to end Lucas in the second period, on a one-yard jaunt by Blum in the third quarter, and again on a 16-yard pass to Lucas in the final period. After that final touchdown, Lopez broke a 24-24 tie in the last three minutes of play with a perfect conversion kick to win the game for the Marinites.

LUCAS INTERCEPTS

Lucas saved the game in the concluding minutes of action when he smacked the Sacramento team's speedy halfback James Gray out of bounds on the Marin 15 after Gray had broken loose from the pack and was on his way. Then with some 45 seconds left in the thrilling contest with the Beavers threatening on the Tar 15, Lucas intercepted a pass to assure the victory.

American River's game scoring came on a 10-yard pass in the second quarter, on a 32-yard aerial in the third period, and on a 21-yard romp in the final sector.

Coach Read expressed satisfaction not only with last night's victory but with his first season of college coaching. On the Beaver game Read said his tars "moved the ball well . . . and took advantage of breaks." He added that American River (also hampered early in the season by injuries) "played a good ball game."

Both teams' offensive units were in high gear last night and it made for a marvelous show. The Beavers' 20-year-old signal caller, Larry Satterfield, playing from a split-T-formation, did excellent work in passing. But Blum was a point more than excellent and it meant victory. The Marin quarterback took his time, but he also took some hard knocks rather than throw that ball recklessly to spare himself pain.

DEFENSE WEAK

Neither team's defensive units were up to par, with the exception of Marin when the Beavers got around the Marin 15-yard line. Marin stood ground after many Beaver marches with the assistance of penalties but gave ground after three others too many. The Tars' pass defense was not the best in the world, but lady luck made up for it. A fourth quarter winning TD pass from Satterfield to Beaver end Fred Brown was unbelievably juggled and dropped at the Tar end zone. On a temperate evening a Pop Warner player would have held it.

A lot of the victory's credit must go to the Tar line which held off Beavers for Blum's work well enough. The extra time was gathered by the evasivness of the quarterback himself.

Among the offensive and defensive players besides those scoring who stood out were linebacker Bruce Robertson, fullback Jim Lonsford, end Darrel Dietrich, safety Mike Magruder, end Bill Buffalow, especially on defensive tackling, and two of the evening's —as well as the season's—top linemen: tackles Jim Sewell and Ron Grayson.

Much of the credit the offensive line's outstanding work and the club's spirited inside tackling should go to line coach Ed Grimm, who in the springtime is the college's head baseball mentor.

WORKHORSE FISHER

The big rushing ground gainer and workhorse of the contest was Jim Fisher, a consistantly hard driving, never-let-up halfback.

Several of the above and those scoring received laudets from coach Read, quarterback Blum especially.

Blum's first touchdown pass in the second period was caught by Cole at about the Beaver 35 and he streaked ahead of the safeties over the remainder of the gridiron. Lopez' conversion attempt was blocked. In seven plays and three first downs the Beavers scored both the TD and the two point conversion on pass plays to move in front 8-6. Marin rebounded two plays later with a second TD.

It came after a Blum-to-Lucas 40-yard pass was nullified on a penalty. Blum sent Lucas down again (it was either Blum or Read, both did play calling) on the identical pattern play from the Marin 42. It was a spectacular pass and reception: a quarterback under extreme pressure and a receiver running full stride in freezing weather.

Marin received the kickoff at the opening of the third period, rumbled on a march led by Blum and Fisher from their own 39 to the Beaver one yard line, from where Blum went in for the score. A pass PAT attempt was no good.

BEAUTIFUL PASS

An exemplary executed pass play from Satterfield to halfback James Gray of the Beavers was good for American River's only third period tally. Gray, an exceptionally fast starter, caught it on the Marin 15 and streaked past a startled Tar safety for the TD. Then Satterfield threw another for the two-point PAT.

The Beavers picked up their final points in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter when halfback Perry Padrata, a 165-pound speedster, broke away around his own left end on a 21-yard hustle. Padrata harassed the Tar defensive line all evening with his slant attacks.

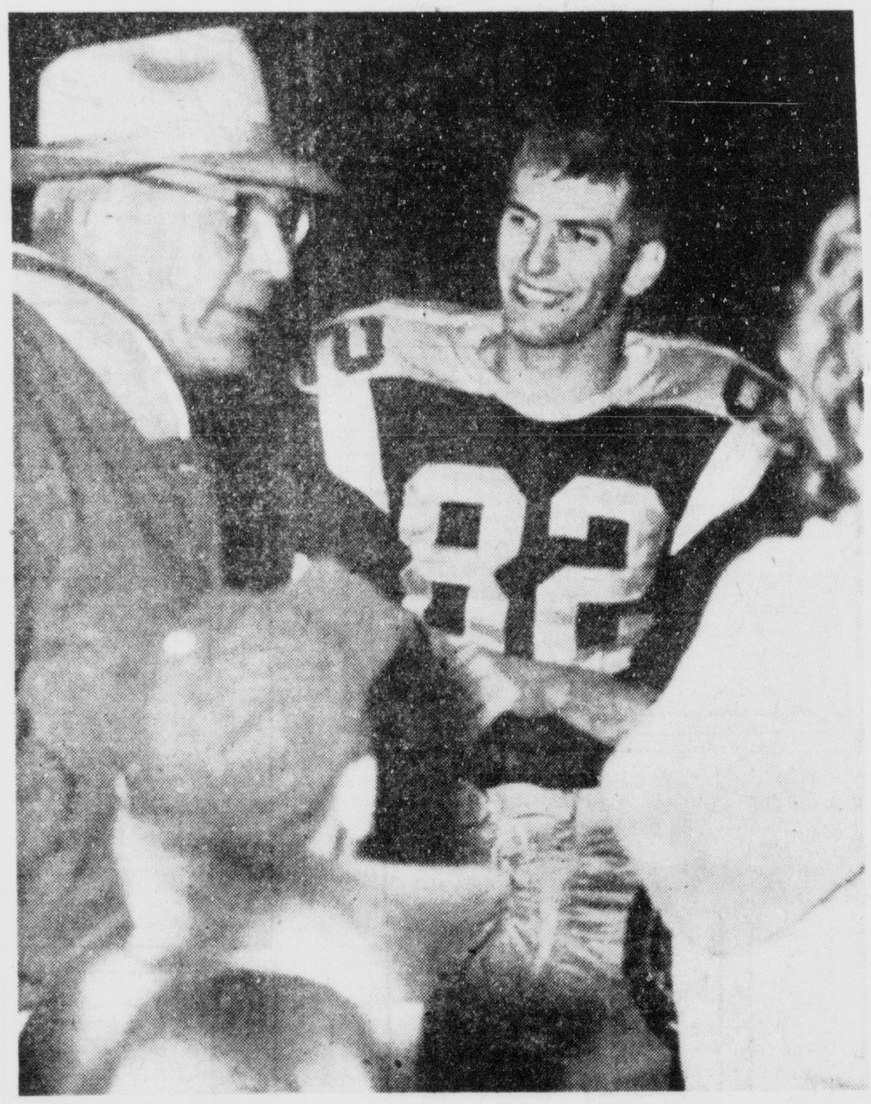

It looked like this 24-18 deficit by the Tars was going to be the final chapter of the season. Marin in a series got to the Beaver 29, but gave up the ball penalty after the play pushed on a fourth down situation. A penalty after the play pushed the Beavers back to their own 14. They were forced to punt from their own 42, however after seven plays.

BLUM ON TARGET

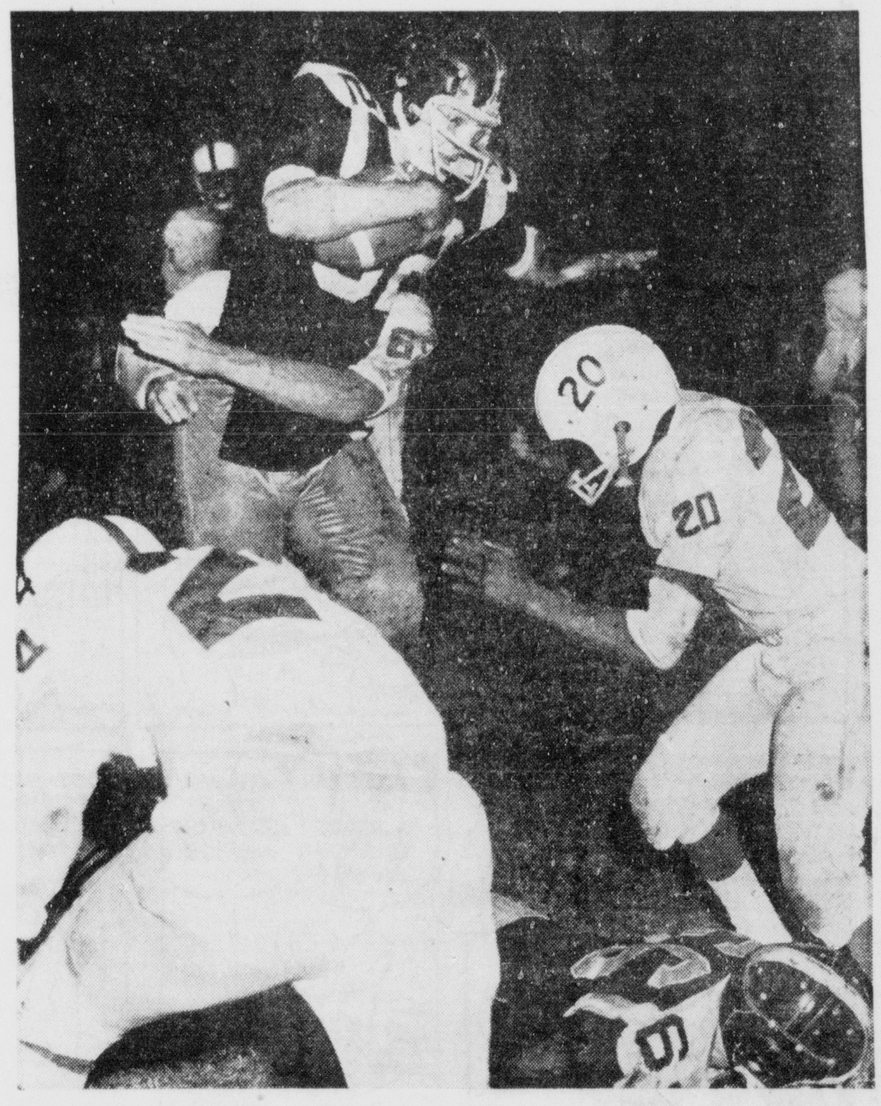

It wasn't a good kick and that's all Marin needed. From their 36 Blum connected with a 14-yard pass to Buffalow. After Fisher and Lonsford picked up some yardage and a first down, Blum put a 20-yard flyer in the hands of Lonsford to set the Tars up, with less than three minutes to play, on the American River 17. Lonsford then drove over right guard for nine more on the subsequent play. In the next action Blum, back to pass, was rushed and tackled for a five-yard loss. But from the 16 he saw Lucas and put the leather on target in the Beaver end zone.

The score was 24-24. Blum called the PAT quickly, and before anybody could realize the crucialness of Lopez' boot, the 180-pound sophomore had put it through the uprights for the extra and winning point.

The Tars' defensive unit groped with the Beavers for six plays, half of which were first downs. But then Lucas did his game saving work and the 25-24 count was iced as, after his interception of a Beaver pass, Marin had possession of the pigskin for the final 50 seconds of the game.

TAR HERO — Jim Lucas, College of Marin end is congratulated by fans at game's end for protecting his team's 25-24 lead by intercepting an American River pass in the final seconds of the game. A few yards from the Marin end zone. Lucas also scored two touchdowns on passes from Tar quarterback Ron Blum.

DRIVING FULLBACK — Jim Lonsford, (with ball), Tar fullback smashes his way for a seven-yard fourth quarter gain around his own right end deep in American River country. Beaver tacklers are Dean Cannon (24) and Gary Norris (20). Lonsford was a consistant ground gainer all evening.

FOUR-YARD PICKUP — Fullback Jim Lonsford of the Tars gains eight yards around right end in the fourth period to set Marin up on the Beaver 9. Two plays later Marin scored. Lonsford in the previous play had given the Tars a first down at the Beaver 17 with his reception of a 20-yard pass from quarterback Ron Blum.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Nov. 18, the 322nd day of the year with 43 more to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1833, the United States adopted standard time. The Nation henceforth was to be divided into four time zones designated as Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific.

In 1903, the U.S. and Panama signed a treaty which led to the building of the Panama Canal.

In 1939, John L. Lewis was elected president to the Congress of Industrial Organizations, successor to the original committee for industrial organizations.

In 1960, the U.S. Navy patrolled the Carribean to guard against a Cuban invasion of Central America.

A thought for the day: President Thomas Jefferson said: "Never buy what you do not want, because it is cheap; it will be dear to you."

Now The Narrow Shoe Styles Are Made For Growing Feet

Have you seen the narrow shoes stores are selling to children this year? They're copies of the pointed footwear adults started wearing last year. I'm told the style was imported from Italy. Now our little ladies of 6 and 7 years want them. Styles matter greatly to kids—more than most of us realize.

Do not buy narrow shoes for children. Their feet are still growing, and narrow shoes don't allow for movement and growth—the foot's bone structure can easily be twisted and harmed. Several foot doctors have called narrow shoes "crimes against children" and "cruel atrocities." They say never put them on a child. They add that you shouldn't wear such shoes yourself, but that's your problem.

So avoid narrow shoes when shopping for your children. Get wide, comfortable, practical footwear.

Have you heard about karting? Some inventors have built tiny cars, with little engines, small wheels and very simple bodies. They call them "karts." Enthusiasts now have kart races on little fields at the outskirts of town. It's a popular new sport.

Many children drive karts. In checking on the results, the National Safety Council found that least 36 children were killed in karts during the last two years and about 200 were seriously injured. Many of the little victims were under 10 years of age. (Thirteen of the deaths occurred on highways, though karts are illegal on them.)

The National Safety Council strongly urges "every parent to recognize the danger of these vehicles in all places, when operated by youngsters under legal driving age, and when used by people of any age in speed contests or racing events." Enough said.

Ross Pipe Line Gets Approval

The Ross Town Council has granted Marin Municipal Water District a right of way to lay 157 feet of pipe along Winding Way and passed an ordinance to make local sales tax provisions comply with regulations of the new state sales tax law.

The council also voted to ask the state employees retirement system to make a survey, to cost about $185, of retirement requirements for Ross employees.

After the council session, the councilmen met as planning commission and continued discussion of the third draft of the new zoning ordinance. Clerk Carroll Snyker said the group is about ready to prepare the final draft.

The council will meet in its dual role again Nov. 30.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CRANBERRIES GET A CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH

WASHINGTON (AP)—When you go to fill your Thanksgiving market basket, you can reach for the cranberries without hesitation. The word is they are all right this year.

"So far as we can tell, cranberries on the market this year have a clean bill of health," said a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration.

The FDA has kept a close check on the crop since the cranberry crisis of 1959, when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced that part of the crop was contaminated by a weed-killing spray.

traveling up and down the same area."

The Bishop described the Church of South India where 14 years ago the Angelicans (Episcopalians), Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists were united.

He also described the "Ceylon Scheme" which includes these groups, and Baptists.

Bishop Pike also discussed a proposal made last December by the Rev. Eugene Carson Blake from the pulpit of Grace Cathedral, the Bishop's own church in San Francisco.

This was the proposal that resulted in an invitation from the United Presbyterian Church to join in inviting the Methodist Church and the United Church of Christ in exploring possibilities of a merger.

This, he said, would create a church "truly Catholic, truly Reformed, truly Evangelical and truly United."

The Presbyterian offer was accepted by the recent Episcopal Church convention in Detroit. The United Church of Christ is a merger of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congregational Churches.

Bishop Pike said the Blake proposal was virtually identical with the "Ceylon Scheme," though the terms do not provide a blueprint.

"But the fact that the initiator of what now has taken on official form proposed a plan like the 'Ceylon Scheme' and the fact that at its Detroit convention the Episcopal Church gave official approval to the 'Ceylon Scheme' indicates that we are not simply on 'Cloud 9' but that there is tangible hope that a realistic plan for unity could be developed and agreed upon," the bishop said.

Deputy John Canziani Has Slight Stroke

Deputy Sheriff John J. Canziani, who works as bailiff in the county courthouse, was in San Rafael General Hospital today recovering from a slight stroke suffered at his home Thursday morning.

His condition was reported today as "fairly good and improving."

Skipper Found Dead

LONDON (UPI) — The professional skipper of Prince Philip's racing yacht Bluebottle, Clive Smith, 30, was found shot to death in his home today, police reported.

nominated Adlai E. Stevenson who was divorced while governor of Illinois, and saw him buried under Eisenhower landslides.

Hindsight suggests that no Democrat could have defeated Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 or 1956, but Stevenson's divorce was counted a handicap in any case, particularly among Roman Catholic voters.

said, "cannot be explained by the increase in population."

"We won't even mention the chief administrative officer as he isn't mentioned in San Rafael. He's been blocked off," Behr continued.

He predicted an ultimatum from the state early next week regarding the county hospital crisis. He said the immediate cost to the taxpayers will be $70,000 to "prop up the old hospital" plus more expense to support the patients while it is being done.

Car Overturns Driver Hurt

Robert Hughes, 20, of San Francisco, was taken to Novato General Hospital shortly before noon today when the "hot rod" which he was driving reportedly rolled over three times on Highway 101 at Olive Avenue in Novato.

Witnesses said Hughes car struck a "go cart" driven by an elderly, unidentified man. Apparently, the driver of the cart was unhurt. Hughes may have lost control of his car in an attempt to miss the small vehicle, according to witnesses.

Hospital attendants said the extent of Hughes's injuries were not immediately known.

'Space Travelers' Is Convicted

A Nebraska grain buyer, whose tales of Saturnian space travels amused Marin residents last year, will do no more flying for the next one to 10 years.

Reinhold Oscar Schmidt was sentenced to prison yesterday in Alameda County Superior Court on two counts of grand theft. He was convicted of bilking an Oakland widow of $5,000, which she paid him for a share in an Alaska gold mine and a Sierra quartz deposit which he allegedly "spotted from a flying saucer."

In March of last year, Schmidt told San Rafael audiences of his flights with men from outer space.

Boy, 11, Injured As Bike Hits Truck

An 11-year-old San Rafael boy was treated for minor injuries and released from San Rafael General Hospital yesterday after his bicycle struck a truck in the 2200 block of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

According to witnesses, Jeffry Springstead was zig-zagging in the street on his bicycle when he hit the truck driven by Robert O. Wheeler of 1444 Buchanan Street, Novato. Police said Wheeler was traveling about 15 miles an hour. No citation was issued.

San Anselmo Man Treated For Injuries

A San Anselmo resident who told police he "arrived home last night, opened the front door and later woke up in a pool of blood" was in "fair" condition at Marin General Hospital this morning.

San Anselmo Police Officer Attilo DeMaestri, who accompanied an ambulance summoned by Lamory Thomas Laumeister, 46, of 448 Scenic Avenue, said he found Laumeister lying on a bed bleeding profusely from facial wounds and nearly unconscious from loss of blood.

Laumeister said that all he could recall was returning home, opening his front door and waking up later in a pool of blood, said DeMaestri.

Doctors who treated Laumeister said that the jagged facial cuts might possibly have been caused by broken glass.

Pillow Case Burglar Hits In San Rafael

A "pillow case" burglar sometime yesterday looted a San Rafael home of guns, a television set, radios, cameras, savings bonds, clothing, drugs and assorted items of undetermined value.

Calvin Charles Gaare of 17 Marinita Avenue told police he returned home at midnight last night to find a front door glass smashed and his home ransacked. A pile of men's suits was left near the front door and a "valuable" silver service was undisturbed on the dining room table, Gaare reported.

Among the missing items were 50 pairs of cuff links. The prowler apparently used a pillow case to haul away the loot, police said.

Two Injured In Bumper Accident

A bumper to bumper accident on Highway 101 near Alto yesterday afternoon sent two persons to the hospital and earned a citation for speeding to the driver of one of the cars.

According to the California Highway Patrol, a car driven by William C. Packard Jr., 44, of Sunnyvale, recently retired from the Air Force, struck the rear end of a car operated by Mildred L. Washburn, 43, a State Board of Equalization librarian from Davis.

Witnesses said Parkard was travelling at a high rate of speed when he pulled out to pass a slow-moving dump truck and piled into the rear end of the other car. Miss Washburn was treated for scalp and back injuries and released. Packard was transferred to Letterman General Hospital with minor injuries. He was cited for speeding, officers said.

Quentin Prison Escaper Caught

A San Quentin inmate, who disappeared from Glenn County jail last July after sentencing for escaping from San Quentin's Glenn County summer camp, has been apprehended in New Mexico.

Officer of the Day Homer Hastings said that he had received a report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation this morning that Jack Stewart Fink had been taken into custody in Sasoppa, New Mexico.

Fink, originally sentenced for auto theft and burglary in Mendocino County, fled from the prison's summer camp last June 8. He was found two days later and was tried in Glenn Superior Court on escape charges.

Youth Injured In City Accident

John Ward Jr., 19, of San Rafael was hospitalized at Marin General Hospital this morning with face and head cuts suffered in a San Francisco accident last night.

His condition was described as satisfactory. Also injured in the same accident was Don Frailey, 21, a laborer, who gave his address as 18 Pleasant Lane, San Rafael. Frailey was treated for a nose injury at a San Francisco hospital and released.

Details of the mishap were not immediately known.

Opening lead — ♠ K

West opened the king of spades and shifted to a trump on seeing dummy's two doubletons. East shrewdly played a low trump, saving his jack of hearts in the hope of over-ruffing dummy later.

He got his chance when declarer cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club with dummy's eight of hearts. East over-ruffed with the jack and returned a trump to dummy's nine.

Now South was through. He could ruff his remaining club but would then have to lose two diamonds. Down one.

START DIAMONDS: South should start the diamonds instead of the clubs. He has only five diamonds in the combined hands but six clubs. There is therefore far less chance that East will be able to over-ruff dummy on the third round of diamonds than on the third round of clubs.

On winning the second trick with dummy's seven of hearts, South should lead a diamond from dummy, finessing the jack to West's king. If West returns a club (as good a play as any), South wins with the king of clubs, cashes the ace of diamonds and ruffs a diamond with the eight of hearts.

When this yets by, South is in good shape. He leads a club to the ace and ruffs a club with the king of trumps. Now South can ruff a spade in his hand and ruff his last club in dummy not caring whether or not East can over-ruff. South can lose only one spade, one diamond and the jack of hearts, by adopting this line of play.

DAILY QUESTION: Partner opens with one club, and the next player bids one spade. You hold:

♠ J 10 5 4 3
♥ K 9 8 7

What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You might be able to win three tricks against a spade contract, but this is not enough to defeat one spade unless your partner can win four tricks. If his hand is that good you will hear from him; if it isn't, your best bet is to keep quiet.

Navy Claims 2 Marinites

A San Rafael man has enlisted in the Naval Reserve, and another Marin man who already belongs to the reserve received orders for recruit camp training at San Diego, Chief Radioman D. V. Maves, stationkeeper for the Naval Reserve Electronics Division in San Rafael, announced.

John A. Miller, 23, of 526 C Street, San Rafael, enlisted in the reserve for six years. Thomas R. Peterson, seaman reserve, received orders for two weeks "boot camp" training.

Swearing of Miller at the new San Rafael Armory at 153 Madison Avenue was done by Lt. R. N. Thalman, commanding officer of the electronics division.

Trial On Miller Book Postponed For One Week

A jury trial to determine the literary qualities of "Tropic of Cancer" was postponed one week yesterday at the request of the bookseller on trial.

The three-day jury trial for San Anselmo bookseller Frank B. Pershina, 32, is now set for Dec. 5 through 7 in Marin Municipal Court. It was originally set to begin on Nov. 28.

Charles Pierce, defending Pershina, asked for the postponement to give him more time to prepare the case. The district attorney agreed to a week's delay, and Judge Leonard A. Thomas set the new date.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety charged Pershina with knowingly selling obscene material when he sold Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer" to a D.A.'s investigator last month.

Standard Memo Forms In State

SACRAMENTO (UP)—All 380 state offices are going to use a standardized office memo form from now on.

Announcing this today, the governor's office said it would save the state more than $17,000 a year in printing costs.

"The saving is not a major one," Gov. Edmund G. Brown said. "But it is typical of the care being exercised within the state government to hold expenditures to a minimum through the exercise of alertness and economy."
